From THE NEW HAMPSHIRE GENEALOGICAL RECORD

DOVER TAX RATE.

[Dover was settled in 1623. Its citizens, like those of Strawberry Bank and Exeter, early adopted a form of town and provincial government of their own. Dover was annexed to Massachusetts, by vote of its citizens, October 9, 1641. The early town and provincial books were destroyed soon after the annexation to Massachusetts. Dover's oldest town book now in existence was begun December 27, 1647; it has the following town rate which is the earliest tax rate of Dover now on record.]

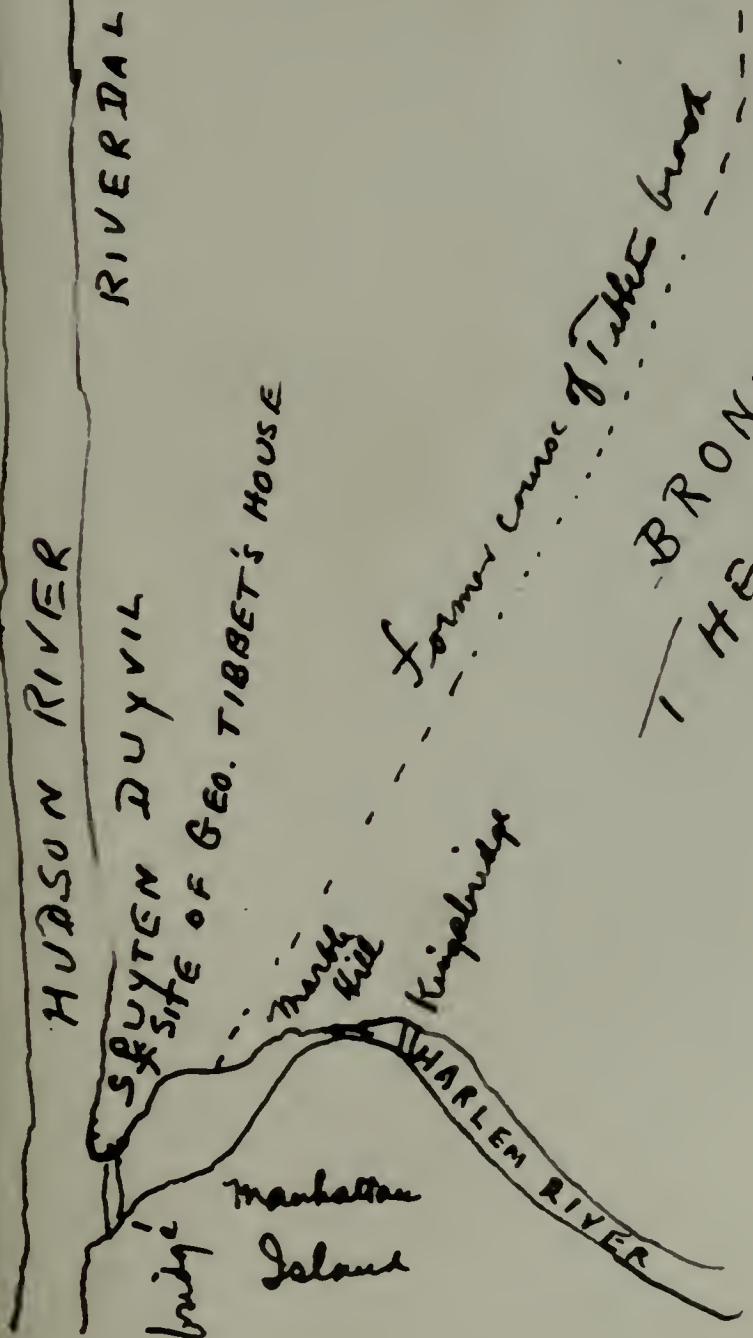
THE BRONX

At this point the brook enters a sewer. Before it becomes a sunken sewer it flows in and out of a beautiful lake in Van Courtland Park



In New York City Telephone Directory for 1938, one Tibbetts, five Tibbett, four Tibbitts, seven Tibbetts, one Tibbet, one Tibbett, one Tibbitt.

Name of Spuyten Duyvil before the American Revolution Tibbets (Tebbits, Tibbets) Neck. After the Revolution Berrien's Neck, then Spuyten Duyvil Neck, now Spuyten Duyvil. On a precipitous hill, but with plenty of cultivable land on tob, stood George Tibbets' house, now vanished. The site is now a poplar grove. Berrien's house on top of hill is now a part of another house still to be seen. All the land along the Hudson lofty, opposite the Jersey palisades. Eastward of the narrow border of the river hills stretch the flat lands of the Bronx.

George Tibbett (or Tibbets) of Flushing and Yonkers N.U., born probably about 1638; died in Aug. & Sept. 1675. He married between 1660-1668, Mehitable Betts, daughter of William Betts of Westchester, N.Y. He left two children, George 2 and Mehitable 2.

He owned a farm at the point where the Harlem connects with the Hudson, along Tibbets' point.

The Tibbets who owned this farm at time of the Revolution was a Tory, so the state confiscated it, put it up at auction and it was purchased by Tibbets' son-in-law, Samuel Berrien, a Whig, married to Dorcas Tibbets, and therefore it was retained in the family.

Tibbets Brook ran from the hills back of Yonkers south to the Harlem river which it entered about where the Harlem narrows into Spuyten Duyvil. The course of the brook lay back of the ridge that fronts the Hudson and it never was big enough to escape the fate of all brooks before the onrush of huge cities. It is now one of New York's numerous sewers. It was known locally as Tibbetts Brook.

George Tibbett (Tibbets) is first mentioned in Flushing, Long Island, N.Y., as coming from Mass., Rhode Island and Westchester, N.Y. (See New York Gen. and Biog. Record, vol. 50, pages 354-364. Volumes 51 and 52 give the later descendants of George). He owned a small island near Tibbets Brook above Fordham, N.Y. There is now in New York City a Tibbett Ave., which extends from a point near the Spuyten Duyvil at West 230th street to West 240th street.

TIBBITS

The paternal ancestor of the Tibbits family of Troy, New York, herein considered, was Henry Tibbits, of Warwickshire, England. He was of Kingstown, Rhode Island, where he died in 1713. In 1663 he and others of Narragansett Colony petitioned to be placed under the protection of Connecticut. In 1665 he and others petitioned the general assembly of Rhode Island for accommodation of land in Kings Province. June 22, 1670, he was appointed constable by the Connecticut authorities, and the inhabitants were desired to yield obedience to Connecticut rule. May 20, 1671, he took the oath of allegiance to Rhode Island. In 1672 he bought, with five others, a tract of land of Awashuwett, chief sachem of Quohassett, in Narragansett. May 2, 1677, he and others having been imprisoned by Connecticut authorities, the Rhode Island assembly sent a letter of protest threatening that if Connecticut "persisted in disturbing the inhabitants with illegal and forcible intrusion," they would be under the necessity of complaining to "His Sacred Majesty," the King of England. In 1678 he was again appointed constable, receiving his appointment this time from the Rhode Island authorities. In 1679 he signed with others a petition to the king praying that he "would put an end to these differences about the government thereof," etc. In 1687-88 he was a grand juror. In 1688 he and Daniel Vernon were appointed highway commissioners. In 1690 he was a conservator of the peace. In 1702 he was on the subscription list for erection of a Quaker meeting house on Mashapang. In 1705 he was elected deputy to the general court. He married, in December, 1661, Sarah Stanton, who died in 1708, daughter of Robert and Avis Stanton. Children: Henry (see forward); Ann, married Samuel Fones; George, married (first) Mary ———, (second) Alice Sherman, (third) Sarah Bliven; John, married Elizabeth Hall; Mary, married Edward Greene; Sarah, married William Hall; Martha, married Benjamin Stanton; ———, married William Tanner.

(II) Henry (2), son of Henry (1) and Sarah (Stanton) Tibbits, died in Kingstown, Rhode Island, December 27, 1702. He was made a freeman of the colony of Rhode Island, 1696, and May 1, 1700, was fined twenty-five shillings for taking part in rescue of prisoner from a deputy sheriff. He married Rebecca ———, who died 1752. Children: Thomas, Henry, William (see forward), Rebecca, Avis and Dinah. His will was administered by his widow Rebecca, whose own will was proved August 10, 1752. She named her son William as executor. To her grandson Thomas, son of Thomas, deceased, she left "my mansion house and land where I dwell, housing, orchards, fencing, etc., with liberty for my two sons to pass and repass through land"; to her daughters, Avis Rice, Rebecca Green and Dinah Tibbits, the remainder of estate equally, and Dinah to live in house while single; to son Henry five shillings; to son William twenty shillings, they both having had by deed. Inventory was £530. 1s.

(III) William, son of Henry (2) and Rebecca Tibbits, was of Warwick, Rhode Island. He married and had two sons, John and William (2).

(IV) John, eldest son of William Tibbits, was born in Warwick, Rhode Island, in 1737. He was a resident of Lansingburg, Rensselaer county, New York, subsequent to 1780, and later removed to Lisbon, St. Lawrence county, New York, where he died January 27, 1817. He married, January 7, 1760, Waite Brown, born in Warwick, Rhode Island, September 3, 1741, died in Lisbon, New York, March 10, 1809. They were the parents of ten children.

(V) George, eldest child of John and Waite (Brown) Tibbits, was born in Warwick, Rhode Island, January 14, 1763. His birthplace was the old Tibbits homestead farm on the western shores of Providence bay or river, which for a long time bore the name of "Tibbits Point," now the city of Warwick. When he was five years of age his parents removed to the town of Cheshire, Berkshire county, Massachusetts, on a farm of three hundred and fifty acres. John Tibbits purchased and located near the headwaters of the Hoosic river. Here the family remained until about 1780, when they removed to Lansingburgh, Rensselaer county, New York. George was now about seventeen years of age, and ambitious to make his own way in the world. In 1784 his opportunity to enter mercantile life came, through the kindness of Francis Atkinson, importer, of New York, who furnished him credit to the extent of $1,000. This was his "first stepping stone to my future progress in life." A location was secured in Lansingburgh and thus the business house of Tibbits was started. According to advertisements and other authorities, the house dealt in dry goods, grain, whale oil, etc. From 1784 until 1787 he was alone in the business and was successful. In 1787 he admitted his brother Benjamin as a partner, under the firm name of G. & B. Tibbits. Benjamin died September 11, 1802, and his place in the firm was taken by another brother, Elisha, the firm remaining so constituted until 1804, when George Tibbits retired. The business was removed from Lansingburgh to Troy in 1797, occupying the northwest corner of River and Congress streets, and Mr. Tibbits resided in a dwelling then situated at the northeast corner of the same streets. During his private business career, which ended in 1804, he gave himself entirely to its management and constant demands. He was a successful merchant, interested in many business undertakings, and acquired a large landed estate. He was a director of the Rensselaer & Saratoga Insurance Company; president of the Rensselaer County Agricultural Society; director of the Troy Turnpike Railroad Company; director of the Farmers' Bank (the first banking institution in Troy); in fact, was officially connected with the numerous activities that were then making Troy noted among the cities of the Empire State. After 1800 he began his distinguished public career that only terminated with his death. He was elected fire warden of the village of Troy in 1798, serving also in 1801 and 1808; in 1800 he was a trustee of the village, and in 1808 chief engineer of the fire department. In 1800 he was elected a member of the house of assembly, and again in 1820. From 1803 to 1805 he was a member of the National House of Representatives, serving in the Eighth Congress from the Tenth Congressional District of New York. In 1815-16-17-18 he was a member of the Senate (New York state). He was a Federalist in politics, and in 1816 was the candidate of that party for lieutenant-governor of New York, on the ticket with Rufus King, the candidate for governor. Their Democratic opponents, Daniel D. Tompkins and John Taylor, were the successful candidates.

Mr. Tibbits was foremost in the effort to prevent bridges from being built that would interfere with Hudson river navigation, and, until the railroads changed traffic conditions so radically, no bridges were built. During his term as mayor of Troy he pushed to successful issue the plan for supplying the city with water from Piscawen creek. He was always an earnest advocate of the doctrine of protection, and it is believed that he was the first writer in the United States to publicly indorse and urge the passage of a tariff act for protective purposes. Under the signature of "Cato" his essays appeared in the Philadelphia Inquirer. He was a delegate to the Harrisburg convention of 1827, and a member of the committee appointed by the convention to prepare a memorial to congress urging the passage by that body of protective measures. His arguments in favor of a tariff for protection were so strong and comprehensive, that few points have ever been added to them since. In 1824 he was one of the commissioners appointed under the act of April 12, 1824, to "examine into all matters relating to the economy, government and discipline" of the prisons of New York state. Their report, bearing date of January 15, 1825, was regarded as of the greatest value not only in New York, but in other states of the Union, while from England came the highest praise. William Roscoe, the English historian, an earnest advocate of the abolition of slavery, wrote in complimentary terms of "the extraordinary and it may be said unexampled labor and attention the commissioners have bestowed in the examination of the state prisons." In 1825 the same three commissioners, George Tibbits, Stephen Allen and Samuel M. Hopkins, were appointed as commissioners to build a new state prison. They were empowered to "purchase a site, procure necessary material, and to employ convicts from Auburn to erect a new prison." They selected and purchased a site at Mount Pleasant (Sing Sing), now Ossining, and on May 24, 1825, with one hundred convicts from Albany, began the erection of that since famous prison. While this work was in progress the commissioners were required to again investigate abuses at Auburn prison, and their report formed the basis of important prison reforms, and in 1828 the legislature empowered them to erect a separate prison at Sing Sing for female convicts. His connection with prison reform and management was a particularly valuable service Mr. Tibbits rendered his state.

His connection with the construction of the Erie canal is another imperishable monument to his memory. He was a warm friend of the measure from the first, and while a member of the state senate he drew up and caused to be presented to the legislature a system of financing the enterprise. The plan so proposed by him was incorporated in the general law of the state, which was passed April 15, 1817, and to him belongs the sole credit of originating the system under which funds were procured for the prosecution of this great undertaking. Hon. Robert Troup, in a letter published in 1822, addressed to Brockholst Livingston, one of the justices of the supreme court of the United States, in speaking of Mr. Tibbits' connection with the work, said: "He drew up a plan of finance, establishing a distinct and permanent fund for the completion of both canals and pointed out various sources of revenue which was substantially the same with that afterward established by the legislature." Again in 1829 his wise counsel concerning canal funds resulted in additional prosperity to the state, particularly the Onondaga salt section.

In 1830 Mr. Tibbits was elected mayor of Troy and served through successive re-elections for five years. In 1833 Hon. Henry Clay visited Troy, and it was Mayor Tibbits' pleasant duty to welcome officially the "great apostle of protection," whose views and his own were the same on this vital question. He was a careful and conscientious official. His practical wisdom, his personal services and untiring energy, were devoted to the interests of Troy; the public water and fire service were greatly improved and will ever stand to the credit of his administration. In 1835 he rendered almost his last great public service to his city and section when he opposed with all his force and energy the attempt made to divert the canal route from Troy and the towns adjacent. In the discharge of his duties as legislator and public official he spoke seldom in public, and never unless he had a message to convey, but when he did speak he was listened to with attention. As a writer he was distinguished for great strength and force in argument. He was of an intensely religious nature, caring little for externals, but had within the faith that satisfies. He was for forty-four years, from 1805 till his death, a vestryman of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Troy. He died July 19, 1849, at the age of eighty-six years; he was a great sufferer in his later years.

Mr. Tibbits married, March 9, 1789, at Lansingburgh, New York, Sarah Noyes, born at Charleston, South Carolina, January 14, 1767. (See Noyes). Children: 1. George Mortimer (see forward). 2. Caroline Elizabeth, born 1800, died 1879; married, 1818, Jacob Lansing Lane. 3. Oliver Noyes, born 1805, died 1829.

(VI) George Mortimer, son of George and Sarah (Noyes) Tibbits, was born at Lansingburgh, New York, December 5, 1796. While still an infant his parents removed to Troy, and he was educated in the schools there until sent to Lenox, Massachusetts, where he was prepared for college by a Mr. Gleason. He graduated from Union College in 1817, and shortly afterwards went abroad for a year, spending much time in a walking tour of Scotland. On his return to Troy he studied law for a time in the office of Hon. John P. Cushman, but finding the confinement of such a life injurious to his health, he was unable to continue his studies. After his marriage in 1824 he removed to Hoosac, New York, where his father owned land, to which he afterwards greatly added. They lived on what was known as the Pfister farm, which had formerly belonged to a Loyalist whose property was confiscated during the revolution, and there Mr. Tibbits built a brick dwelling, which was remodeled in 1860, and is now a freestone mansion. He early became interested in stock raising, and imported a celebrated breed of cattle known as the Teeswater Durham, which was especially valuable for the dairy, and also, about 1830, a number of Saxony sheep, thus originating one of the largest flocks in that part of the country. He was always interested in wool growing and in the improvement of the fleece of sheep. Although living so much in the country, where he could gratify his taste for an outdoor life and his love of horseback riding, Mr. Tibbits and his family spent some months in each year in Troy at the home of his parents, which is now the property of the Day Home Association. He later built for himself a house on First street, which he occupied for the first time in 1849, and from then on spent more of his time in Troy. Though never a public man, Mr. Tibbits had a jealous regard for the good name of his city and strove earnestly for its welfare, being ever ready to aid in any undertaking which promised to increase its prosperity and generously contributing to its works of benevolence. He was a director of the United National Bank, of the Rensselaer & Saratoga Railroad, and a trustee of the Troy Orphan Asylum. He was a strong advocate of a protective tariff, the development of the resources of the country and the encouragement of home manufactures. In politics he was a Whig and then a Free Soiler, and from its beginning a member of the Republican party. When the civil war broke out, his enthusiasm for the cause of the Union knew no pause, and he supported the government in its efforts to suppress rebellion with his means and with his influence. He aided his son, William B. Tibbits, in every way in his power. In 1866 Mr. Tibbits, with his wife and a family party, made a second trip to Europe, where they traveled leisurely through Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, and also visited Egypt and the Holy Land. He was a man of cultured taste, fond of books and of beautiful things, and thoroughly enjoyed the opportunities which life in the old world affords. Mr. Tibbits was a sincere, earnest Christian, pure and upright in character, and industrious and scrupulous in his way of living. He joined the Episcopal church as a young man, and was regular and devout in public worship, while maintaining in his own household the order of family prayer. He was for many years a vestryman of St. John's Church, Troy. He died July 19, 1878, at his home in Troy.

Mr. Tibbits married, May 30, 1824, Sarah, daughter of John Rutger Bleecker, of Albany, New York, and his wife Eliza Atwood. John R. Bleecker was the son of Rutger and Catherine (Elmerdorf) Bleecker. Rutger Bleecker owned practically the whole of what is now the city of Utica; he was the son of John Rutger and Elizabeth (Staats) Bleecker, and grandson of Rutger and Catalina (Schuyler) Bleecker. The ancestor of the Bleecker family was Jan Jansen Bleecker, who came to Albany, New York, in 1658. Children of Mr. and Mrs. Tibbits: 1. George, born April 12, 1825, died, unmarried, March 4, 1875; received degree of civil engineer from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, class of 1841; Bachelor of Arts from Union College, class of 1845; Master of Arts from Union College in 1848; member of Rensselaer county bar; alderman of Troy, 1858-61; a war Democrat, 1861-65. 2. John Bleecker (see forward). 3. Blandina Dudley, born 1829, died 1833. 4. Eliza Atwood, born 1831, died April 6, 1870; married, May 16, 1853, John Hobart Warren, of Troy. 5. Edward Dudley, born and died in 1833. 6. Charles Edward Dudley (see forward). 7. William Badger (see forward). 8. Caroline, born 1846, died 1847. 9. Sarah Noyes, born November 8, 1847, died May 30, 1883; married, January 15, 1878, John Wool Griswold, born August 29, 1850, died January 2, 1902; children: Sarah Bleecker, born April 15, 1879, married, October 2, 1901, Sanborn Gove Tenney, of Williamstown; Elizabeth Hart, born June 17, 1880, married, October 14, 1903, Chester Griswold, of New York; John Augustus, born September 23, 1882, married, October 20, 1909, Hélène Robson.

(VII) John Bleecker, second son of George Mortimer and Sarah (Bleecker) Tibbits, was born January 18, 1827, died July 8, 1898. He was educated at Bartlett School, College Hill, Poughkeepsie Preparatory School, and Union College, graduating therefrom with the degree of Master of Arts in 1846. After his graduation he served as tutor for two years in Union College, instructor in classics. He then engaged in the grain business in the city of Troy with Pliny Moore, continuing the same for five or six years, after which he assisted his father in the management of the estate, particularly at Hoosac and Schaghticoke, his father having large land holdings in both places. He resided in Troy during the winter months and in Hoosac during the remainder of the year. Subsequently he began studying for the ministry, and was ordained October 18, 1866, by Bishop Horatio Potter, of New York, to the deaconate, and began building up All Saints Episcopal Church at Hoosac, which church was built by his father and mother. The nave was built in 1864, the chancel and tower completed in 1872, and the chimes were made at Florence, Italy; Mr. and Mrs. Tibbits also put in the organ. John B. Tibbits served as perpetual deacon from choice, and did not take the order of priesthood. He worked in the parish and vicinity for years, and was regarded as a saint by the surrounding country folk. He also established several missions around Hoosac, and during this period resided at Hoosac all the time. From 1871 to 1879 he resided at Bennington, Vermont, still continuing his work at Hoosac, and after the latter date he returned to Hoosac and lived in the old Tibbits country seat. In the spring of 1891 he took up his residence in the rectory at Hoosac with his son, Rev. Edward Dudley Tibbits, remaining till his death.

Mr. Tibbits was much interested in electric apparatus and dynamos. He was an expert electrician and inventor, inventing and developing the Arago disc dynamo, on which he secured patents; in the great electro exhibitions in Paris, France, 1882, he won the gold medal, the first prize, for his electric inventions. His dynamos and especially electric lighting were acknowledged to be superior to anything shown. So prominent was the success of the light that Sir Sylvester Armstrong and other prominent electricians formed a syndicate (recognizing Tibbits' inventions as being the best) for the purpose of purchasing his patents and opening up the manufacturing of the inventions. They offered, through his agent, Robert Mackie, the sum of £200,000 sterling for the patent, but he refused the offer, not wishing to turn over his patents to a trust, desiring to turn them over to municipal government ownership for the production of light and power for the use of the public at a small cost. He was also the inventor of an incandescent and arc light. Thus his patents became common, and were adopted and used generally. He was the first to use tungsten (a metallic substance) as the basis for a metallic filament for incandescent lighting, now in common use. He had an experimental station at Hoosac. He also discovered the manufacture of white lead by electrolysis. He married (first), January 8, 1850, Amelia Abby, born January 23, 1828, died February 18, 1869, daughter of Le Grand and Esther (Bouton) Cannon. Children: 1. George Mortimer, born April 30, 1851, died February 1, 1882. 2. Le Grand Cannon (see forward). 3. Edward Dudley (see forward). He married (second), June 1, 1871, Mrs. Ada West Conkling, daughter of John and Emma West, of Bennington, Vermont, and widow of Daniel Hubbell Conkling, of Bennington.

(VII) Charles Edward Dudley, fourth son of George Mortimer and Sarah (Bleecker) Tibbits, was born at Hoosac, New York, August 18, 1834. He was educated under private tuition at Troy and Hoosac, was for a time a student at the boarding school of Mr. Bartlett, at Poughkeepsie, and later took a course at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy. In 1851 he made his first visit to Europe, crossing the ocean in a sailing vessel. He saw at that time the first International Exhibition at the Crystal Palace in London. This was the first of many voyages, as since then he has traveled extensively. He has been largely occupied with the care of his own and of family property. He was president of the Walter A. Wood Mowing & Reaping Machine Company, of Hoosick Falls, from 1892 to 1895, when he resigned, and for a number of years was a director of the company; he is also a director of the United National Bank of Troy. He is a trustee of the Troy Orphan Asylum, and was chairman of the committee which selected the plans for the asylum building on Spring avenue. He was president in 1879 of the Young Men's Association, and is a trustee of the Troy Public Library, which now carries on the work formerly done by that association. As trustee of the library he chose the design from which the Memorial Library Building on Second street was erected by Mrs. Mary E. Hart. Mr. Tibbits was chosen chairman of the committee of one hundred citizens who were charged with making arrangements for the public celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the naming of the city of Troy, in January, 1889.

Mr. Tibbits is an independent thinker politically, a Republican in sympathy, but more interested in securing good, clean government than in mere party success. When in March, 1894, Robert Ross was foully murdered at the polls, Mr. Tibbits was one of those who signed a call inviting their fellow citizens to assemble in order to express their indignation and to "show by their presence and words their love for the fair name of our city and their appreciation of any efforts which may be made to bring the guilty parties, whoever they may be, to speedy justice." He was a member of the committee of one hundred formed as a result of this great meeting to see that justice be done. He also took a part in the formation of the National Municipal League, and has been a member of its executive committee since its organization.

Mr. Tibbits married, June 8, 1865, Mary Elizabeth, daughter of John Le Grand and Elizabeth (Sigourney) Knox. (See Knox.) She died July 16, 1875. Children: 1. Sarah Bleecker, born November 15, 1866. 2. George, born February 22, 1868, died April 29, 1875. 3. John Knox, born January 13, 1870; educated at St. Paul's School, Concord, New Hampshire; Yale College, B.A., class of 1892; Exeter College, Oxford, England; he is an Episcopal clergyman at Concord, New Hampshire. He married, April 12, 1910, at Montreal, Canada, Marguerite Vinton Harris, daughter of Arthur H. and Saidee (Lambe) Harris, of that city. 4. Dudley, born October 4, 1874, died May 24, 1875.

(VII) William Badger, youngest son of George Mortimer and Sarah (Bleecker) Tibbits, was born at Hoosac, New York, March 31, 1837. He was named for a great-great-uncle, William Badger, who was a soldier of the revolution. His early life was passed in Troy and Hoosac, where, and at a boarding school in Utica, he received his preparatory education. He then entered Williams College, but left there for Union College, where he graduated in 1859, an oration being accorded him at commencement, while his classmates honored him by choosing him as one of their two class marshals. He was a member of the Chi Psi fraternity. After graduating he studied law for a time, and then entered business, having a one-third interest in the Sampson & Tibbits Scale Company. He was thus engaged when on April 15, 1861, President Lincoln's first call for troops was published in the Troy papers, and on that day he volunteered his services and obtained authorization papers for raising a company. This company, known as Company G, was accepted April 23, 1861, and was the color company of the Second Regiment, New York State Volunteers, which left Troy for the front May 18, 1861. He was mustered in as its captain, May 14, 1861. His services during the ensuing seventeen months are best explained in the following letter and recommendation:

Headquarters, Carr's Brigade,
Sickles' Division.
Camp at Fairfax Seminary, Va., Oct. 18, 1862.

General: I have the honor to recommend the promotion of Captain William B. Tibbits, Second New York Volunteers, to be major vice George W. Wilson, resigned. Captain Tibbits is the senior and one of the only two original captains left with the regiment. He has been with it on every picket, march, and reconnaisance, and in every skirmish and battle, and at Big Bethel, Fair Oaks, Glendale, Malvern Hill, Bristow, and Bull Run. At Bristow he particularly distinguished himself, and was honorably mentioned for gallant and meritorious service at Bull Run. His vast experience, undaunted courage, and excellent judgment well qualify him for the position for which I have the honor to recommend him. I have the honor to be Your most obedient servant.

JOSEPH B. CARR,
Brig. Gen. U. S. A.

To Brigadier-General Thomas Hillhouse,
State of N. Y., Albany, N. Y.

This recommendation was duly honored and Captain Tibbits was commissioned major under date of October 13, 1862. On May 23, 1863, Major Tibbits took part in the battle of Chancellorsville, and his conduct was thus spoken of in a letter by General Mott: "Major Tibbits was in command of the Second New York Infantry in the brigade that I commanded at Chancellorsville. He acted in a gallant and meritorious manner, leading his regiment in several desperate charges against the enemy. I take pleasure in recommending him to the department as a worthy and deserving officer, having served in the field during the war." The term of the Second Regiment expired the following year, and Major Tibbits was mustered out with the regiment in Troy, May 23, 1863. June 17, 1863, he procured authorization papers to raise a cavalry regiment to be known as the Griswold Light Cavalry, to serve for three years unless sooner discharged. About the time this regiment was fully recruited, a number of prominent citizens of Troy presented him with a sword suitably inscribed with their appreciation and the names of the battles in which he had fought.

On January 24, 1864, he was mustered in as colonel of the Twenty-first Regiment, New York Cavalry (Griswold Light). Colonel Tibbits received honorary mention and promise of promotion. At the battle of Piedmont in the following June, Major General Stahel rode up and in the presence of his regiment thus addressed Colonel Tibbits: "I have to compliment you and your gallant regiment for the magnificent charge they made upon the field to-day." Subsequently the same officer confirmed this opinion in a most complimentary letter dated August 29, 1864. Colonel Tibbits was recommended for promotion by his division commander, Brigadier General A. N. Duffie, in a communication addressed to Major General David Hunter, on August 5, 1864, in which he says: "This officer has served under my command since June 10, 1864, and I have found him on all occasions a competent, faithful and gallant officer. He has on several occasions distinguished himself in action. His meritorious conduct has commanded the admiration of myself and his command." This recommendation was indorsed by General Hunter, and the deserved recognition of Colonel Tibbits' conduct was made still more complimentary by being read on dress parade to each command in General Hunter's command. On November 17, 1864, the War Department conferred on Colonel Tibbits the rank of brevet brigadier-general, to date from October 21, 1864. General Tibbits served throughout the war and afterwards was ordered west, and it was not till September, 1865, that he received permission to return home. He was made a full brigadier-general and received the rank of brevet major-general, U.S.A. He was mustered out of the service under General Order No. 168, to date from January 16, 1866.

In 1867 he represented the interests of the Walter A. Wood Mowing & Reaping Machine Company at the International Exposition, in Paris, and at the invitation of the Emperor, Napoleon III., took part in the great review held in Paris that summer, as a member of the Emperor's staff. General Tibbits was for many years a great sufferer from injuries received during the war. He died February 10, 1880. He was one of the most intrepid spirits that the great civil war developed, quick and skillful in action, never at a loss to decide promptly at the critical moment, and never shirking a duty. It was said of him that he begged the privilege to charge when others were even unwilling to obey orders to advance.

(VIII) Le Grand Cannon, son of John Bleecker and Amelia Abby (Cannon) Tibbits, was born in Troy, New York, January 13, 1854. He was educated in private schools in Troy and New York City and at Union College. He engaged in the real estate business, which he has since followed, and took upon himself the entire management of the Tibbits estate at Hoosac. At the present time and for the past sixteen years he has been a director of the Walter A. Wood Mowing & Reaping Machine Company of Hoosick Falls. After his father's death he occupied the old Tibbits country seat at Hoosac, but spends considerable of his time in Europe. He has served as supervisor for his county, and was a member of the state senate, 1896-98, performing very effective work, being elected on the Republican ticket. He conceived and originated the committee of safety, 1895, and has taken an active part in reforms that have been and are being carried out. He is a member of the National Guard, serving as inspector of Third Brigade, 1883, on staff of General Oliver (now assistant secretary of war), with rank of lieutenant-colonel. He is a member and senior warden of All Saints Episcopal Church, Hoosac, and trustee of Hoosac school. He is a member of the Free and Accepted Masons, the Troy Club, Kappa Alpha fraternity, and the Legion of Honor, becoming a member of the latter by hereditary right in 1880.

He married, October 8, 1890, Elizabeth Barrett Folger, of San Francisco, California, daughter of James Arthur and Ellen (Loughlin) Folger, the former having been a son of William Folger, and a descendant of Peter Folger, of Nantucket, and the latter a representative of a Vermont family.

(VIII) Edward Dudley, son of John Bleecker and Amelia Abby (Cannon) Tibbits, was born at Troy, New York, July 7, 1859. His parents removed to Hoosac when he was a few months old, but they spent their winters mostly in Troy and New York City. He was educated by private tutors, attended St. Paul's School, Concord, Massachusetts, entering in 1870, graduating in 1878, and entered the sophomore class of Williams College, graduating with the degree of Bachelor of Arts, 1881. He then traveled abroad for a short time, and in June, 1885, graduated from the General Theological Seminary, New York City. He was ordained deacon October 10, 1885, at All Saints Church, Hoosac, by Rt. Rev. W. C. Doane, D.D., Bishop of Albany, and served as deacon of that church until 1886. The following two years he spent abroad, traveling in Egypt and the Holy Land, spending a considerable part of this time in studying at Oxford, England, taking a special course in theology. He returned to Hoosac, New York, July, 1888, and was ordained priest, December 29, 1888, in All Saints Cathedral, Albany, by Bishop Doane, of which cathedral he was appointed honorary canon, which position he has continuously held. He was chaplain to Bishop Doane during the Bishops' Conference in London, June and July, 1888. After becoming a priest he was appointed rector of All Saints Parish, Hoosac. He established two missions, one at Bayntonville and the other at Raymertown, both in New York, building churches at both places. He also established a day parish school, which in 1892 was changed to a choir school for boys, called "All Saints Choir School." This work developed into the present Hoosac School for Boys, which in 1903 was incorporated, having a regular board of directors or trustees, to which was given some sixty-five acres, together with the buildings, including the stone church, which now constitutes the plant of "Hoosac School." It has accommodation for about seventy-five boys, receiving boys between the ages of eleven and nineteen, and is a preparatory school for college; at the present time (1910) it has ten instructors. The school has an excellent reputation, and the boys enter eastern colleges direct from this school, subject to the rector of school. In 1907 Trinity College, Connecticut, tendered Dr. Tibbits the degree of Doctor of Letters, and in 1908 Williams College conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Divinity. He was appointed by Bishop Doane a delegate from the Diocese of Albany to the Pan-Anglican Congress, which met in London, England, June, 1908, but he could not accept on account of his work in the school. In 1910 he was appointed by the Board of Missions a delegate to the World's Missionary Congress at Edinburgh, Scotland, but had to decline this honor, as it met before the commencement of Hoosac School. He is a member of Delta Psi, and of the Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament. His vacations are generally spent in travel abroad.

(The Noyes Line).

(I) Rev. William Noyes, rector of Choulderton, county Wilts, England, matriculated at University College, Oxford, November 15, 1588, age twenty years, and was graduated A.B., May 31, 1592. He married Anne Stephens, daughter of Nicholas Stephens, Esq., of Burdrop Manor, Wiltshire. She was interred at Choulderton, March 7, 1657, aged eighty-two years. He died about 1622. Their sons, Rev. James and Deacon Nicholas Noyes, in March, 1634, embarked for New England, in the "Mary and John" of London, with their cousin, Rev. Thomas Parker.

(II) Rev. James Noyes, son of Rev. William and Anne (Stephens) Noyes, was born in Choulderton, Wiltshire, England, in 1608. He matriculated at Brasenose College, Oxford, August 22, 1656, but did not graduate. He died at Newbury, Massachusetts, October 22, 1656. He came to America, as stated, and after short stays at Medford and Watertown went with some friends to Newbury, where his cousin, Thomas Parker, desired him to assist in teaching the free school. He was much loved and honored in Newbury. He was very learned in the tongues, and in Greek excelled the most. He was the author of a catechism (still in use) and highly esteemed in the ministry. He had a grant of land on which he built a house, about 1645, in which he, his family and Thomas Parker lived. This house is still standing (1910), and has never known any owner but a Noyes, and is Newbury's proudest show place. He married, in England, in 1634, Sarah Brown, of Southampton. Children: 1. Joseph, born in Newbury, October 15, 1637; first appears in Sudbury records, February 16, 1662; selectman twenty-eight years; constable; justice of the Tibbetts families which have not been connected.

There are groups of Tibbetts families which cannot be placed. Undoubtedly the ancestor of some of these was Benjamin[3] of the third generation, the names of whose children have not been obtained by any of the searchers whose work is known. It is hoped that further research may show where these families belong.

Timothy[4] Tibbets (whose wife was Phebe), removed from Somersworth, New Hampshire after 1735. Names of his children have not been ascertained. He was undoubtedly the ancestor of many of the Tibbets families whose branches cannot be connected.

Under date of 13 April 1927, Charles Wesley Tibbetts of Moody, Wells, Maine, wrote as follows: "There are several Tibbetts women that cannot be placed; among them the "Margaret Tebbets" of Dover, a widow, who brought her creatures' ear marks to be recorded in November, 1720(the day is so torn as to be illegible."

"There was a Jeremiah Tibbetts of the fourth generation((son of Jeremiah and Mary (Twombly) Tibbetts), who had property that had to be to be administered on. He was accidentally shot in the thigh by by his brother John 22 Aug. 1709 and died 31 Aug. 1709. He was old enough to have a family and probably did."

"Another, "John Tebbets" witnessed a deed from Thomas Perkins,Sr. to his son Nathaniel Perkins, both of Dover, date of deed April 25, 1693. The oldest John Tebbets I have is John, born Aug. 29, 1685, the son of Capt. Thomas and Judith (Dam) Tebbets. His age would have been seven and a half years in 1693, certainly too young for a witness to a deed."

"A certain John Tibbetts I found in Ipswich and from that place he went up into central New Hampshire and there the record of this man is confused. The person I thought went over to Northwood and Laconia I later found had gone "down east," so I do not dare to place those people's lines until I go over the New Hampshire deeds and wills thoroughly again."

"I have a long line of Tibbetts' who came from the Island of Grand Menan and I am sending to New Brunswick for abstracts of deed and wills. One John L. Tibbetts came from Grand Menan and several of his descendants have applied for membership into the Tibbetts Family Association."

Under date of 27 Dec. 1921, Charles Wesley Tibbetts makes the following statement: "For the past two months I have been writing up the descendants of the fifth generation of the Tibbetts family. I have sixty men of that generation. There is one family of the third generation, that of Benjamin[3], I have not yet found; and three or four of the fourth generation, the names of whose children I have not yet obtained.

"Of Nathaniel[5] Tibbetts, founder of the Boothbay, Maine, branch of the family, I have names of 354 descendants, and perhaps there are one hundred more names I have not yet obtained."

"Of Lieut. Nathaniel[6] and Lois (Davis) Tibbetts of Woolwich, Maine, I have names of about one hundred and fifty descendants, with perhaps fifty more which I have not obtained.

Under date of 1 Dec. 1924, Charles Wesley Tibbetts states: "I was in Portland, Maine, the other day looking over the city Directory for 1924 and I found sixty-one Tibbetts families, and of course there are many more on the female side who have married out of the name.""

137. Dr. Samuel[7] Tibbets of Cincinnati, Ohio, had genealogical line as follows (Samuel[6] (No. 79) of Brunswick, Me., Topsham, Me., Lisbon Me., and Lindale, Ohio; Timothy[5] of Brunswick, Me., and Topsham, Me., John[4] of Somersworth, New Hampshire, Capt. Thomas[3] of Dover, New Hampshire, Jeremiah[2] of Dover, N. H., Henry[1] of Dover, N. H.).

He was born June 19, 1776, probably in Topsham, Maine; died in Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 12, 1866 aged 90 years, 2 mos. He was son of Samuel and Margaret (Russell) Tibbets, and grandson of Timothy and Experience (Hinckley) Tibbets.
He was in early manhood a ship carpenter and lived in Lisbon, Maine. He married April 7, 1797, Susanna Coombs. She was born March 14, 1776. Tradition says that she was of French ancestry; that her grandfather left France at the time of the French insurrection and came to America, and from him sprang all of the Coombs of this line. She had two or three brothers.

Dr. Samuel Tibbets removed with his wife and family from Lisbon, Maine to Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1810, where he later became a physician, according to the Thompsonian system of doctoring with medicines made from herbs. He studied three or four years with Dr. Thompson of Cincinnati, and became a prominent physician. He was highly esteemed in the community, and was very successful in the practice of medicine.. During the Cholera epidemic, he worked night and day and saved many lives.

After the death of Dr. Thompson, he was made president of the Physi- Medical School in Cincinnati.

He was a man of distinguished personal appearance; his portrait, painted about 1830, by a Mr. Tuthill, a pupil of Benjamin West, is in possession of one of his descendants.

After the death of his wife Susanna (Coombs), he married for his second wife, Isabel -----. She died three years later. No children by this second marriage. Late in life he resigned his medical practice and removed from Cincinnati to Jefferson County, Indiana. He died in Clearmont County, Ohio, while on a visit in the home of his daughter Reliance.

Dr. Samuel and Susanna (Coombs) Tibbets had eight children, the five oldest born in Lisbon, Maine, the three youngest born in Cincinnati, Ohio, as follows: Charles; Rebecca; Reliance; Samuel Jr.; Earl; Elizabeth; Joshua and John.

Luther Calvin Tibbets
of Riverside, California.

141 Luther Calvin[7] Tibbets (James,[6] (No. 86), Ebenezer,[5] Moses,[4] Capt. Thomas,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), one of the early colonists of Riverside, California, born at South Berwick, Maine, 26 June 1820, died at Riverside 21 July 1902, buried in Evergreen cemetery (gravestone). He was the son of James and Elizabeth (Emery) Tibbets.

He married (1) at Great Falls (Somersworth), New Hampshire, 16 April 1848, Joanna Twombly, born at South Berwick 2 June 1820, died in New York City in April 1858, buried at South Berwick, daughter of Moses Nock and Phoebe (Fogg) Twombly of South Berwick (Wentworth Genealogy, vol. 2, p. 783); married (2) in New York City, 7 Oct. 1858, Phoebe Jane Twombly, sister of his first wife (Berwick Vital Records), teacher, graduate of Mount Holyoke Seminary, now Mount Holyoke College, in the class of 1852, born at South Berwick 26 March 1833, died at the home of her daughter in Grand Junction, Colo., 4 Jan. 1914, aged 80 years, who was granted a divorce from him 25 April 1865, legally took the name of Twombly, resided in Framingham, Mass., and reared her three children there; married (3) Eliza ---.

(The above-named Moses Nock Twombly, born 23 Jan. 1793, married 20 March 1817, Phebe Fogg, born 11 May 1798. He was the son of Ephraim Twombly of Rochester, New Hampshire and Berwick, Me., who married 27 Dec. 1792, Joanna[6] Wentowrth (Samuel,[5] Ezekiel,[4] John,[3] Ezekiel,[2] Elder William[1]), daughter of Samuel[5] and Lydia (Cowell) Wentworth).

Luther Calvin Tibbets commenced his business career in Portsmouth, engaging as a clerk in mercantile houses, and later establishing a general merchandise store at Great Falls, which he afterwards sold to his brother. Later he opened a wholesale grocery business in Boston, Mass., and remained there until 1852. The next ten years were spent in a large wholesale grocery business in New York City. After one or two unsuccessful business ventures he lived for a time in Washington, D.C., prior to his removal to the Pacific Coast.

In 1870 he went to California, arriving at Riverside in December of that year (See "Pen Pictures from the Garden of the World, an illustrated history of Southern California," p. 269).

On 6 April 1872 he purchased from Thomas C. Baker of Riverside his interest in a claim of 160 acres of government land, the "West half of the Southwest quarter of Section 34, and the West half of the Northwest quarter of Section 34, Township 2, South of Range 5, West of San Bernardino base and meridian" (Deed recorded at the county court house San Bernardino, 13 April 1872, Book 1, Riverside township). In 1874 he sold the northern eighty acres of this tract and retained the southern eighty acres on which was the homestead.

On 10 Nov. 1879, under homestead certificate No. 132 (Application No. 438), the United States Government patented to Luther C. Tibbets the "West half of the Southwest quarter of Section 34, Township 2 South of Range 5, West of San Bernardino base and meridian" (Recorded vol. 1, page 75, by S.W. Clark, Recorder of the General Land Office). (A copy of the original recorded 23 June 1882, by A. F. McKenney, Recorder San Bernardino County, California). This tract, well known as Tibbets tract, is now the location of Central Ave. to Arlington Ave., and from Palm Ave. to Brocton Ave. Later he bought thirty-two acres in Sec. 32 which he devoted to alfalfa and grain.

In 1873 he received from a friend in Washington, D.C., three small orange trees from Bahia, Brazil, brought to the United States by the Department of Agriculture (See "Sixty Years in Southern California," p. 451, by Harris Newmark). He planted the trees near the doorway of his home, at what is now 4374 Central Ave., watched carefully, cultivated and protected them. A stray cow chewed up one of them. The two remaining trees thrived and bore the first seedless, or "navel", oranges ever grown outside of the Amazon swamps. The new variety was eventually termed the Washington Navel orange. From these two trees, by the process of budding into seedling stock, all of the navel orange trees of California have sprung.

In 1902 one of the parent trees was removed from its original setting and transplanted at the head of old Magnolia Ave., across Arlington Ave. from the Tibbets tract, and on what was known as the Hartshorn tract, where it stands now, 1937, protected in its little park by a substantial iron railing and marked by a large boulder upon which is placed a bronze tablet bearing an inscription which states that these first Washington Navel orange trees, planted at Riverside in 1873, have "proved the most valuable fruit introduction yet made by the United States Department of Agriculture."

On 8 May 1903 the other parent tree was set out in the courtyard, or patio, of the Mission Inn, President Theodore Roosevelt doing the transplanting. This tree lived eighteen years but finally died in 1921, of root rot, in spite of all efforts to save it by grafting new roots onto it, by the Department of Agriculture. It was replaced in the same location on 20 March 1923 by an eleven-year-old tree that had been propagated from the original one. This tree is also marked by a memorial tablet.

of Riverside, California.

Luther C. Tibbets

Copied from "Pen Pictures from the Garden of the World," an Illustrated History of Southern California, page 269. San Bernardino County. Published in 1890.

"Luther C. Tibbets was born in South Berwick, Maine (York Co.), June 26, 1820. His father, James Tibbets, was a native of the same state and a farmer by occupation. Luther C. Tibbets was educated in the public schools and reared a farmer until seventeen years of age. He then located in Portsmouth, N.H., engaging as a clerk in mercantile houses, and later establishing a general merchandise store at Great Falls, N.H., which enterprise he conducted until 1844 when he sold out the establishment to his brother. It is worthy of mention that the mercantile house which he established nearly half a century ago is still in existence, conducted by his brother and descendants under the firm name of E. A. Tibbets and Sons.

Mr. Tibbets continued his mercantile pursuits, establishing himself in Portsmouth and later transferring the scene of his operations to Boston, Mass., where he opened a wholesale grocery business. He remained there until 1852, and then seeking a broader field of operations located in New York. The next ten years were spent in a large wholesale grocery business.

In 1862 he entered into produce and grain dealing and became one of the heaviest grain operators in the city. At that time the war was in active prosecution; breadstuffs and cereals were being "cornered" and the Government, as well as other consumers, was a special mark for the greed of the speculators. Mr. Tibbets declined to enter into "rings" and especially did he decline to combine against his country in meeting the provision supply for her immense armies. This excited the enmity of his rivals, and through the manipulations of the Produce Exchange in its rulings upon his contracts &c he lost a fortune and became seriously crippled financially.

In 1866 he left New York City and took up his residence in Glen Falls, N.Y., and the next year moved to Virginia and located in Fredericksburg. There he entered into the general merchandise business. The late war had terribly embittered the Southern people against the Northern men and Mr. Tibbetts became a mark for their persecutions. His strong Union sentiments were never hidden nor did he seek to palliate or excuse any action of the Government in its prosecution of the war. He was not that sort of a man. The consequence was that he was forced to leave that part of the country in order to save his life.

In 1870 he sought a home upon the Pacific coast. Upon reaching California he located in Riverside and established his residence upon Sections 31 and 32 abd bought a claim for 160 acres on Sec. 34. This tract is now the location of Arlington on Center Ave. west of Magnolia Avenue, well known as Tibbetts Tract or Tibbetts Station.

Later he sold the northern 80 acres and purchased 60 acres on Sec. 32, one and one-fourth miles west of his home on Magnolia Ave.

For many years Mr. Tibbetts devoted his land to general farming and stock raising, engaging in horticultural pursuits only to the extent of planting a fine family orchard and vineyard. In alfalfa growing he has lead the colony, having each year nearly one hundred acres devoted to that product.

During the years of 1887 and 1888 the demand for villa and town lots induced Mr. Tibbetts to subdivide and plat his 80 acre tract. Broad avenues were laid out, parks reserved and the land placed on the market. Many of the lots were sold and improvements made.

He has some of the choicest land located in one of the most desirable spots in Riverside colony, and the near future is destined to see them occupied by beautiful and pleasant homes.

Mr Tibbetts has been identified with Riverside from the foundation of the colony in 1870 and has been a supporter of any enterprise that tended to build up his section. The establishment of schools and churches found a liberal contributor in him, as in fact did any enterprise that would in his opinion add to the welfare of the community.

Luther Calvin Tibbetts.

The following extract was copied from proof sheets (page 451) of a book published in summer of 1916 by M. A. Newmark & Co., Wholesale Grocers, and pioneers of Los Angeles, Calif.:

"Sometime in December, 1873, Luther C. Tibbetts, one of the early colonists at Riverside, Calif., received a small package from a friend at Washington, D.C., after having driven sixty-five miles to Los Angeles to get it; and he took it out of the little express office without attracting any more attention than to call forth the observation of the clerk that some one must care a lot about farming to make so much fuss about two young trees. The packages in question contained two small orange trees brought from Bahia, Brazil, to the United States by the Agricultural Department, and destined to bestow upon Tibbets the honor of having originated the navel orange industry of California.

Data relating to the old home of James and Elizabeth (Emery) Tibbets of Berwick (near South Berwick), Maine, the parents of Luther Calvin Tibbets, compiled from information contributed 14 Sept. 1937 by Miss L. Ethel Tibbets of Washington, D.C.

In the Somersworth Free Press a communication from Miss Clara P. Downs of North Berwick gives the following information from Mr. Thomas A. Russell who has lived near the old Tibbets homestead for more than half a century, who states that the homestead of James and Elizabeth (Emery) Tibbets was "in Berwick, not far from the South Berwick line. It is not within the section known as Blackberry Hill, but is on the road running from there to South Berwick, and is very near the road from South Berwick to North Berwick. In the cemetery close at hand, lie buried numerous members of several generations of the Tibbets family."

Leaving South Berwick on Route 4, going towards Wells Beach, about a mile out there is a dirt road on the left. On the right of this dirt road is the old Tibbets farmhouse, a two story house, still standing, and owned now, 1937, by Mr. A. Herbert Grant, who owns 39 acres of the old Tibbets farm. The front part ofthe house only was the original Tibbets house. It has a huge stone chumney and large rooms. Across the road, and above, is the cemetery which is reached just before crossing the railroad. This little side road cemetery is now called the Clarke cemetery. In olden days a part of it was always referred to as the Ebenezer Tebbets burial ground.

The landscape is rolling and green, with hills in the distance, and the place is guiet, peaceful and beautiful. It is located on the farm once owned by Ivory Clarke, which has now passed into other hands. His son, Frank J. Clarke now lived in South Berwick. If the little cemetery has not been taken over by the town, he is probably the owner of at least the enclosure wherein are the Clarke and Tibbets graves. The Ivory Clarke memorial stone is in the same railed enclosure with the Tibbets graves.

Here lie buried three generations, Moses[4] Tibbets and his wife Mary Keay, Ebenezer[5] Tebbets and his wife Sarah Larey, James[6] Tebbets and his wife Elizabeth ("Betsy") Emery, together with some of their descendants.

A most impressive monument in this enclosure is a tall, triangular bas-relief of white marble, with figure of a woman and babe, which was placed there by Luther Calvin Tibbets in memory of his first wife, Joanna Twombly (See page 406 of this work).

To the right is an enclosure containing a single monument to the memory of Jarius Emery. Back of this, and to the left, are enclosures with names of Ham, Chadbourne, Grant, Wentworth, Staples, Quint, Whitehouse, Stone, Hobbs, Thompson and Littlefield carved on the memorial stones.

Above the Tibbets homestead, on the left side of the road, is the site of the old Ivory Clarke house. Next above, on the left, the present home of A.P. Russell, and above that, on the left, the present home of Miss Abbie F. Perkins, whose home is on the site of the old Fogg farm, on whose land, across several fields, is to be found the burial place of Joseph Fogg; ~~xx 1807x restixgxandxxfivextallxpine txeesx Hexappaxxxxtexke~~ head and foot stones of Joseph Fogg, and Joseph Fogg d- 1807, resting under five tall pine trees. He appears to be husband of Mary Littlefirld and father of Joseph Fogg who married Phoebe Hayes. Joseph and Phoebe (Hayes) Fogg were the parents of Phoebe J. Fogg who married Moses Nock Twombly. Moses Nock and Phoebe J. (Fogg) Twombly were the parents of Joanna Twombly and Phoebe Jane Twombly, who became the first and second wives, respectively, of Luther Calvin Tibbets (Wentworth Gegealogy, vol. 2, page 783), who, from 1870 until his death in 1902 was a resident of Riverside, California.

Family of Benjamin and Sarah A. (Crommett) Tibbetts of Liberty, Waldo County, Maine.

See also Maine Genealogy, vol. 2, p. 955. Pub. in 1909.

(From records contributed by Woodbury Tibbetts, Esq., of Palermo, Me.).
Data about family of the following named Benjamin[7] Tibbetts (giving names of his children) appears in Wallace M. Morgan's Hist. of Kern Co., Calif., p. 917-8. Pub. 1914.

148 Benjamin[7] Tibbetts (Sergt. Ichabod[6] (No. 92), a soldier in the Revolution, Nathaniel[5], also soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Ichabod[4], Capt. Samuel[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), of Palermo, Maine and Liberty, Maine, farmer, was born on Sunday 20 Nov. 1785 at Boothbay Harbor, Maine; died at Liberty, Maine 29 Aug. 1886, aged 100 years, 9 mos., 9 days; buried in Whitaker Cemetery. (Gravestone). This cemetery is in the western part of Liberty, Me. He was the fourth son of Sergt. Ichabod and Elizabeth (Hutchings) Tibbetts.

He married 23 April 1809 ("Sally") Sarah A.[6] Crommett of Edgecomb, Boothbay, Me. (Hist. Boothbay, p. 636). She was born 5 Sept. 1789 (one record says 1790) at Edgecomb, Me., died in Nov. 1875 at Liberty, Me., having been married sixty-six years. She was daughter of Joshua[5] and Sarah (Adams) Crommett of Edgecomb, later of China, Maine. This surname was originally Cromwell but was changed to Crommett. The above-named Joshua[5] Crommett was of line (John[4], Joshua[3], John[2], Philip[1] Cromwell of Dover, New Hampshire.).

Benjamin Tibbetts followed the sea from the time he was a young boy. His grandfather was a sea-captain and taught him navigation. He was ready to become a sea-captain himself when war was declared, the War of 1812. He served two years in the war. He was one of the very first settlers of Liberty, Waldo Co., Maine, where he settled in the year 1815. He settled in what is now the western part of Liberty, Maine which adjoins Palermo. Palermo was incorporated in 1804. Liberty was not incorporated until 1827. In 1812 he enlisted in a volunteer company commanded by Capt. Daniel Rose of Boothbay, in which he was promoted to a noncommissioned officer.

Joshua[3] Cromwell. Selectman in Durham, N.H., 1765-72.
Will dated 9 Feb. 1777. He married 19 Sept. 1728, Elizabeth Kenniston.

John[4] Cromwell (changed to Crommett). Lived at Boothbay Harbor, Me. Was Constable in 1767. He was born at Cocheco (Dover), New Hampshire. Both of his sons were prominent in town affairs at Boothbay. He married 31 July 1760, Rebecca[5] Tibbetts (Capt. Ichabod[4], Capt. Samuel[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), baptized 12 March 1741 at Dover, New Hampshire, daughter of Capt. Ichabod[4] Tibbetts and his second wife Patience[4] Nock (now Knox), daughter of Elder James[3] Nock (Sylvanus[2], Thomas[1]), an Elder of the church at Oyster River (now Durham), N.H., who was killed by Indians in 1724, and his wife Abigail Thomas, daughter of James Thomas.

The following incident was copied from records sent to Mrs. Dinsmore by the late Everett Crommett:

"During the early years of the Revolution the above-named John[4] Cromwell was pressed into the British army. Later he was a non-commissioned officer with promise of being promoted but owing to unfair electioneering, as he claimed, another man was promoted instead, whereupon said Cromwell took a squad of men and left the army, stationed then at Quebec. He came to Edgecomb or Boothbay, Maine. They were pursued and a bounty placed upon their heads if taken dead or alive, and to avoid detection somewhat he changed his name from Cromwell to Crommett. He kept in concealment until peace was declared. The tradition is that he stayed in concealment on an island near Boothbay and his relatives used to carry provisions to him in boats. After the war was over he took up a large heavily-wooded tract of land in Boothbay near the harbor; sent for his wife and two children, Joshua and Martha, and they settled there. His business was cutting lumber and wood and sending it to Boston by vessels. He soon became able to own sloops and freight his own lumber."

Family of Gideon and Judith (Walker) Tibbetts of Buxton, Maine, and Hollis, Maine.

15-8 Gideon[7] Tibbetts (Ephraim[6] (No.100), Stephen[5], Aaron[4], Ephraim[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]*, of Buxton, Me. and Hollis, Me., merchant, farmer and millwright, was born 21 April 1780 at Rochester, New Hampshire; died in Hollis, Maine, in 1871, aged ninety-one years. He was the only child of Ephraim Tibbetts by his first wife Eunice (Tibbetts).

He married 6 December 1806, Judith Walker, daughter of Gideon and Abigail (Bunker) Walker of Waterborough, Maine, and settled at "Sgadagee" on the bank of the Saco River in Buxton. A very interesting sketch of his is given by his descendants, Gideon Tibbetts Ridlon, in "Saco Valley Settlements and Families," page 1162, which relates many incidents and anecdotes of family history and characteristics.

The following information is taken from Mr. Ridlon's sketch and is given in his own wording. Mr. Ridlon states:

"Gideon Tibbetts built a small house and store at the road corners near where the Isaac Eaton house now stands. I think the house known as the McCann house was remodeled from the original Tibbetts building. He continued in trade here doing a snug little business for several years. This was when "Smith's Bridge" spanned the Saco at the foot of Hancock's Hill on the old Portland and Limerick road.

At this time "Shadagee" was a considerable hamlet, where Uncle "Tut" Eaton, Deacon Timothy Hazeltine, Magnus Ridlon and Gideon Tibbetts constituted the government.

Gideon Tibbetts sold his property at Shadagee and purchased of Elliot C. Vaughan a large tract of land in Hollis, near Moderation Mills and a house lot in the village. On this hillside elevation he erected a good sized and well finished house, barn and workshop. This dwelling has been remodeled, a story added, and is now known as the "Tracy House". He was a good farmer and gathered from his new warm land abundant harvests for many years. Being a millwright and wheelwright, he found employment with his tools. He was a very precise mechanic, and joints that could not be inspected were made with the same care as those exposed to view. He built some of the best sawmills in the state.

Temperate in his habits, cleanly of person, always an early riser and used to vigorous exercise, Gideon Tibbetts lived to the great age of ninety-one; died 1871. He was a broad-shouldered, compactly built, heavy man of fair complexion."

Gideon and Judith (Walker) Tibbetts had ten children, five sons and five daughters, born in Buxton and Hollis, Maine, as follows:

i. Loranna[8]; married Joseph Smith. Six children.

ii. Eunice[8].

iii. Gideon[8] (died when four years old).

iv. Abigail[8]; married Alvan Crockett. Five children.

v. Gideon W.[8]; died, unmarried, at the age of twenty-four years. In 1840 he and several others went to Georgia to find employment as lumbermen and mechanics. They were transported by schooner from Boston, to Darien, Ga. It was the year of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too." Fourteen of these northern men died in one year, among them Gideon W. Tibbetts.

231 vi. Hannah[8], born 19 Aug. 1818; married Samuel Ridlon of Hollis, Maine. (Further records hereafter).

vii. Nancy[8]; married Hiram Cook. Three children.

232 viii. Ephraim[8], born 18 Sept. 1825; married first, Abby Foster, daughter of John Foster of Parsonsfield, Maine; married secondly, Berthena Dunn, daughter of Charles Dunn. (Further records hereafter).

Family of David and Fanny (Russel) Tibbetts of Fort Madison, Iowa.

173 David[7] Tibbetts (Abner[6] (No. III), a Revolutionary soldier, William[5], also a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), born 12 May 1794 in Bangor, Maine; died 11 Aug. 1875, aged 81 years, 2 mos., 30 days, at Ft. Madison, Iowa. He was the sixth son and eighth child of Abner Tibbetts of Bangor, Me., Corinth, Me., and Exeter, Me., and his first wife Sarah Davis.

He married in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana, 4 April 1824, Fanny Russel, born 6 June 1804, in Flat Bush (near Albany), N.Y.; died 19 Aug. 1884 at Ft. Madison, Iowa.
(Note: Fanny Russel was daughter of Russel who married in New York state in 1797, Elizabeth Carrier (Carier, Carriher), and who had at one time a turner's shop in Albany, N.Y.; he was one of four brothers, one of whom was Calvin and one Elizaure; in 1814 he was residing in Genessee Co., N.Y., and in 1824 removed to Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana, with his wife and children, Lucinda, Rebecca, Fanny, Dorcas and Roswell Russel).

David Tibbetts grew to manhood in Corinth, Maine; in 1814, at the age of twenty years, he went from Corinth, Me., to Cincinnati, Ohio then but a small village, walking all the way, following the old Indian trails. Here he worked for seven years in the shipyard and helped to build the first steamboat, the old Fulton, the first to run on the Ohio and the Mississippi Rivers. He was mate on the boat on its first trip from Cincinnati to New Orleans. They had to land and cut their wood for the heating of the boilers, etc.

After his seven years' work he went back to Maine on a visit, then returned west and settled on his farm in Sec. 4, Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana, which he had purchased from the U.S. Government in 1817 (See Hist. Dearborn Co., Ind.: Manchester township: First Land Sales). This farm, in 1917, one hundred years later, was owned by Emery Ross, a great-nephew of Mrs. Jane (Milliken) Freeland.

David Tibbetts was one of the original members of the first Masonic Lodge organized in Cincinnati, Ohio, and afterward aided in organizing the first lodge in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Ind., from which Lodge he held a demit at the time of his death, making him the oldest Free Mason in Iowa at that time (1875). He was commissioned Lieutenant in the 15th regt. of Indiana state militia at Corydon, Indiana, 25 May 1824, his commission (which is in possession of his descendants), being signed by William Hendricks, second Governor of the state of Indiana, his secretary (name illigible), and sworn to before Mark McCracken, J.P.

The History of Dearborn Co., Indiana, p. 549, under sketch of Manchester township, states: "David Tibbetts resided in the township a number of years, an influential and highly respected citizen. He moved west with his family in 1852, to Iowa."

The family tradition, however, is that he removed with his family to Ft. Madison, Iowa, in the year 1851.

His farm, which was in Washington township, Lee County, 3½ miles north of Ft. Madison, was said to be "ten miles around". He was one of the leading farmers in that community and held various township offices. He owned land in Sec. 17 and other sections, and, at time of his death, owned six hundred acres, with tracts of ten, fifteen and twenty acres of timber near the Mississippi River close to Ft. Madison.

He was held in the highest esteem in the community. People used to say that David Tibbetts' word was as good as his bond.

No history of the David Tibbetts' family would be complete without mention of the "Tibbetts Martial Band", composed of five of David Tibbetts' sons, Washington and Taylor playing the snare drums, Polk and Russel playing the base drums and Dallas the fife. They drilled and marched at the head of many processions in the early day, in their own band wagon drawn by four dapple-gray horses, driven, usually, by Nathaniel Brockway (who married their sister Lucy Tibbetts). They had a magnificent flag that was always carried with them. Many old residents of southeastern Iowa remember with pleasure the "Tibbetts Martial Band".

Family of Bradbury and Sophia (Tibbetts) Robinson, of Corinth, Me.

179 Sophia[7] Tibbetts, a twin, (Abner[6] (No. III), William[5], Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), born March 3, 1806, in Corinth, Me. She was fifteenth child of Abner Tibbetts and his first wife Sarah Davis. She married Bradbury Robinson, of Corinth, Me., and had five children, as follows:

i. Sarah Maria[8] Robinson ; married Dr. Brown and removed west; had children whose records not obtained.

ii. Olin Jane[8] Robinson ; married a Mr. Knowles of Corinth, Me., and had two daughters, the older one married some one in Michigan, the younger one married Eugene Wilder, of Denver, Colorado.

iii. Ann[8] Robinson ; married John Webber of Bangor, Me., and had two sons; no further record obtained.

iv. Frances[8] Robinson ; died young, unmarried.

v. George[8] Robinson ; no further record; he was youngest child of Bradbury and Sophia (Tibbetts) Robinson.

180 Elisha Crane[7] Tibbetts (Abner[6] (No.III), William[5], Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), farmer, was born in Corinth, Me., 24 Jan. 1812; died in Exeter, Maine, 24 May 1907, at the venerable age of 95 years, 4 mos.; buried in the "Tibbetts Cemetery" at East Exeter, Maine. He was son of Abner Tibbetts and his second wife Mary (Fisher) Crane.

He married 4 Sept. 1836, Christiana Mary Ulmer of East Corinth, Maine, born 14 Sept. 1817 in Montville, Maine, died at East Exeter, Maine, 22 April 1897, aged 79 years, 7 mos., 8 days, buried beside husband in the Tibbetts Cemetery. She was daughter of Martin and Margaret Ulmer who removed a few years after their marriage from Montville, Maine to Corinth, Maine.

He was seventeen years of age when his father removed from Corinth, Maine to Exeter, Maine. He helped his father clear the land for the homestead farm which is about three miles southeast of the village of Exeter, and after his father's death inherited the homestead. It is composed of parts of Lots No. 2 and No. 3 in the Fourth Range of lots in the town of Exeter. It is passed by what was originally one of the county roads, the one that leads from Kenduskeag to Corinna. His son Clarence Eldon Tibbetts now resided on this ancestral farm. This part of the town of Exeter is generally known as East Exeter.

In 1857 Elisha Crane Tibbetts bought the widow's third, twenty-two acres, of his half-brother Samuel's share of their father's estate. In a letter written by Elisha Crane Tibbetts to his half-brother Stephen, dated East Exeter, Maine, Aug. 1, 1857, he makes the following statement: "I bought Samuel's widow's third - 22 acres - then I bought 60 acres adjoining it on the east where Mr. William's house was, the Spruce Knoll east of the brook. There is where my buildings are. I have sold 32 acres, which leaves me 50 acres, land enough for me".

At the time of his death the following obituary was written by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Eldon Tibbetts:

"Elisha Crane Tibbetts was the last survivor of a family which numbered twenty children. In his youth he formed habits of temperance, sobriety and industry, and to his parents he was always a dutiful son, caring for them in their declining years. He enjoyed excellent health throughout his long life. He was for thirty-one winters a teacher of vocal music by means of the old-time singing school This love of music, together with his hospitality and social disposition, gave him a large acquaintance. He was a member of the Universalist church."

Mrs. Tibbetts also pays the following tribute to her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elisha Crane Tibbetts: "She lived thirteen years after I came here as a bride, and so I speak from personal knowledge when I say she was one splendid wife, mother, friend and neighbor. Her character was above reproach, and she was devoted to her family, very industrious and capable; patient, wise and kind; dearly beloved by her family and honored by all who knew her. Both she and her husband were sweet singers and fond of music. Their happy wedded live comprised a period of sixty years and seven months.

The farm where they lived and loved and labored so many years is beloved as the old homestead. All of their descendants inherited a love for music and more or less talent".

Elisha Crane Tibbetts and Christiana Mary Ulmer his wife had nine children, seven sons and two daughters, all born in East Exeter, Maine, as follows:

i. Myron B.[8] Tibbetts, born 1 Feb. 1838; died at age of 14 years.

Family of Samuel Tibbetts of Pleasant Grove, Des Moines Co., Iowa.

183 Samuel[7] Tibbetts (George,[6] (No. 112/3), William,[5] a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), farmer and carpenter, was born 8 April 1804 in Charleston, Penobscot Co., Maine; died 8 Dec. 1890, aged 86 years, 8 months, near Pleasant Grove, Iowa. He was the third son and sixth child of George and Lucretia (Doe) Tibbetts; removed with his parents from Charleston, Maine in 1816 and settled near Covington, Ky., across the river from Cincinnati, on what was known as Licking River, where he grew to manhood.

He learned the trade of carpenter and joiner. He later removed to Hancock Co., Indiana, where he settled on a farm two miles south of Greenfield. He married first, 25 Dec. 1830, Frances Power. She was born 27 Dec. 1812; died 1 July 1841, buried in the cemetery at Greenfield, Ind. Her brother, Jacob Power, resided in Irvington, Ind., a suburb of Indianapolis and his descendants are well-known residents of Indianapolis. She was a granddaughter of William Power, born in Ireland, who, with his two brothers, were known as "Irish Lords," and heirs to an entwiled estate; he, the youngest, became dissatisfied with what he was receiving out of the estate, rebelled and demanded and received a share, on the promise of going to America. And to America he went, landing at Baltimore, Maryland, afterward marrying a Scotch girl named Mary Conger, and they later removed to the Western Reserve in Ohio where they had a large family.

Samuel Tibbetts married secondly, in Greenfield, Indiana, 29 Mar. 1844, Direxia Lucretia Smith, daughter of Daniel Smith. She was a large, fleshy woman, of even temper, honest and true, a conscientious Christian; a better stepmother no children ever had. She had eight children. She died 2 Feb. 1888 and is buried beside her husband in the "Miller Cemetery," two miles west of Pleasant Grove, Iowa.

In 1852 he removed with his large family from Greenfield, Ind., to Pleasant Grove, Des Moines Co., Iowa, where he spent the remainder of his life. He was a man above the ordinary men of his day intellectually. decidedly strong in his convictions, both religious and political. In early life he was a Universalist but about 1850 he became a member of the Christian church, the Campbellites, as they were called, a name he very much disliked. Politically, in early life he was a Whig; in later years he became a Democrat, and all of his sons were Democrats except James Madison Tibbetts.

Children by first wife, all born near Greenfield, Hancock Co., Indiana, as follows:

256 i. John Clifford[8] Tibbetts, born 24 Oct. 1831; married in Mahaska Co., Iowa, Martha Snodgrass; removed to Kansas about 1875; died there 27 March 1887. (Further records hereafter).

Ancestry of James[6] Blake of Corinth, Maine.
(See Bangor Historical Magazine, vol. 2, No. 1, for July, 1886).

The genealogical line of James[6] Blake runs thus:

William[1] Blake was baptized 5 June 1594, in Pitsminster Parish Church, four miles south of Taunton in Somersetshire, England. He married 23 Sept. 1617, Mrs. Agnes Bent. They had five children, all born in England. They sailed from Plymouth, England, on the Mary and John, 1630, and arrived at Nantasket, now Hull, and settled in Dorchester, Mass., that part now Milton. He died 25 Oct. 1663 and his wife died 22 July 1678.

Children, all born in England:

i. William[2] Blake, Jr.; had two wives and nine children.

ii. James[2] Blake; married first, Elizabeth Clapp; and secondly, Elizabeth Hunt.

iii. Edward[2] Blake; died in 1692. He married Patience ("Jane") Pope, daughter of John Pope.

iv. John[2] Blake; married widow Mary Shaw.

v. Ann[2] Blake; married Jacob Leger.

Jonathan[3] Blake was the son of Edward[2] and Patience ("Jane") (Pope) Blake. He lived in Boston and died in Qrentham, Mass., in 1727. He married 16 Feb. 1697/8, Elizabeth Candage or Cavendish, the Rev. Cotton Mather officiating.

John[4] Blake, born 1720; was son of Jonathan[3] and Elizabeth (Candage or Cavendish) Blake. He married 14 April 1742, in Woburn, Mass., Ann Richardson, daughter of Job and Sarah (Cleveland) Richardson. She died 4 July 1806.

John[5] Blake, born in Wrentham, Mass., 29 Aug. 1753; died in Holden, Maine, 12 Jan. 1842. He was third child of John[4] and Elizabeth (Candage or Cavendish) Blake. He married in Wrentham, Mass., 14 May 1782, Mary Dupee, born 14 May 1762, in Wrentham, Mass., died in Brewer, Maine, 9 June 1835. Both are buried in Holden, Me. Mary Dupee was daughter of Charles Dupee (French Dupuis) and his wife Hannah Smith who was daughter of James Smith (line not carried out).

The Dupee (Dupuis) family were from Picardy, France, fled persecution and came to Boston in 1685.

The above-named John[5] Blake served in the American Revolution as Ensign and Lieut. New Hampshire Continental Line (See 1st and 3rd vol. of New Hampshire Revolutionary Rolls, vol. 1, pp. 326, 464: vol. 3, pp. 116, 152).

John[5] Blake was placed on pension roll of Penobscot Co., Maine, 1818 (See Bangor Historical Magazine, No. 1, Vol. 2, pp. 12, 19 for July 1886).

James[6] Blake (above-named), the son of John[5] and Mary (Dupee) Blake, was born in Orrington (part of Brewer), Maine, 25 Oct. 1789; removed to Corinth in 1819 where he filled many offices to general satisfaction. He died 8 Feb. 1862. He married at New Wrentham, now Holden, Me., 1 April 1817, Abigail ("Nabby") Mann, born 12 Dec. 1792, in Brewer, now Holden, Me., daughter of David and Sarah (Tibbetts) (Osgood) Mann. She died in Corinth, Me., 22 Aug. 1882, aged 89 yrs., 8 mos., 11 days.

Family of Jacob and Laurana (Mayhew) Mann of Brewer, now Holden, Maine.

186 Jacob Mann (maternal genealogical line as follows: Sarah[6] Tibbetts (No. 113), William,[5] a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), of Brewer, now Holden, Maine, farmer, born at Brewer 13 Feb. 1796, lived all his life on the old Mann homestead, "Mann's Hill" at Brewer, now Holden, and died there about 1880, aged about 84 years. He was the second son and fifth child of David Mann and his wife Sarah (Tibbetts) Osgood (No. 113 in Vol. 1) His mother had been married twice. Her first husband, Joseph Osgood, was drowned in Penobscot river in the spring of 1786, about a year and a half after their marriage. She married secondly, David Mann above-named.

Jacob Mann married at Brewer (now Holden), 18 June 1818, his first cousin, Laurana Mayhew (116, ii), who was born at Levant, Penobscot Co., Maine 26 June 1795, died at Holden about 1878, aged about 83 years, daughter of Elisha Mayhew and his wife Abigail Tibbetts (No. 116. (in Vol. 1
(Note: Kenduskeag was once called Levant).
After their marriage Jacob and Laurana resided with his parents and inherited the homestead "Mann's Hill," in the easterly part of what is now Holden, about seven miles from Bangor. Jacob Mann built the house which is still standing and bequeathed it to his son George S. Mann who was living there in 1927.

Jacob Mann once made the statement that he had lived in the states of Massachusetts and Maine, the counties of Hancock and Penobscot, and in the towns of Orrington, Brewer and Holden during his entire lifetime and yet had always occupied the spot where he then dwelt. The explanation was that since Jacob Mann's first occupancy of his present site, the state of Maine had been formed from Massachusetts, Penobscot County from Hancock County, the town of Brewer from Orrington, and the town of Holden from Brewer.

Note: When Elisha and Abigail (Tibbetts) Mayhew removed with their family from Levant, Penobscot Co., Maine to Shelbyville, Indiana in the year 1816, their eldest daughter, Laurana, remained with her aunt, Mrs. David Mann, at Brewer, now Holden, Maine, her aunt being so fond of Laurana that she would not give her up to go west with her parents. Two years later Laurana was married to her first cousin Jacob Mann, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Mann above-named.

Sometime before the year 1850, Jacob and Laurana (Mayhew) Mann took a trip to Shelbyville, Indiana to visit Laurana's parents. A constant correspondence was kept up between Laurana and her relatives in Indiana.

Jacob Mann was a descendant in the sixth generation of William[1] Mann, the immigrant, and Mary Jarred his wife, of Cambridge, Mass. This name is English and was originally spelled Man. William Man the immigrant was the youngest child of a family of eleven children and was born in the County of Kent, England in the year 1607. In his early manhood he came to America and settled in Cambridge, Mass.

When about thirty years of age he was married to Mary Jarred who also came from England. Their only child, Rev. Samuel[2] Man, born in 1647, at an early age prepared himself for the ministry in which profession he became distinguished. He was the first settled minister at Wrentham, Mass. He married Esther Ware in 1673. They are buried in the old burial ground at Wrentham.

From Rev. Samuel[2] and Esther (Ware) Man the line came down through Theodore[3] Man of Wrentham, Mass., who married Abigail Hawes in 1702 or 1703; Deacon Thomas[4] Man of Wrehtham, who married Mary Blake; David[5] Man (also spelled Mann), born 6 Feb. 1756 in Wrentham, Mass.; was a Revolutionary soldier and pensioner; died 26 Dec. 1834, aged 68 years, at his home "Mann's Hill," in the easterly part of what is now Holden, Maine. He married Sarah (Tibbetts) Osgood, 25 Nov. 1788, in Bangor, Maine, the Rev. Seth Noble who was the first settled minister of Bangor, officiating. They had eight children, one of whom was Jacob Mann the subject of this article.

Sarah (Tibbetts) (Osgood) Mann died in Holden, Maine, 19 Aug. 1854, aged 90 years, 5 mos., having survived her husband twenty years. She resided until the end of her life in the homestead "Mann's Hill," Holden, Maine, and lived with her son Jacob and his family. She was a woman of ability and force of character. She was born in March, 1764, in Lebanon, York Co., Maine, the eldest daughter of William and Lurana (Young) Tibbetts of Lebanon, who removed from there to Gouldsborough, Maine in 1769, and later removed to Bangor, Maine in 1779 and were among the first settlers of Bangor.

After his Revolutionary service David Mann went to Bangor, Maine and settled in Orrington. He was one of the original grantees of the town of Orrington and the only one who settled within its limits (the town lines were changed later).

In his will he named wife Sarah, son-in-law Samuel Silsby, whose wife had died, and giving her children $100., Polly Silsby, Abigail Blake, Eunice Silsby, Joseph and Jacob Mann. (See Bangor Historical Magazine, vol. vi, paged 88-89). (See the Mann Genealogy).

Jacob and Laurana (Mayhew) Mann had twelve children, six of whom died in infancy or childhood. Their children who grew to maturity were as follows:

i. David Mann, born in 1819. Sometime in the fifties he went to Shelbyville, Indiana and remained there; died unmarried about 1856 at the home of his uncle Elbridge Gary Mayhew in Shelbyville.

ii. Hiram Mann, born in 1821. Sometime in the fifties he went to Shelbyville, Indiana on a visit; returned to Holden, Maine; was a farmer and lived on the farm given him by his fahter. He married ----- -----. They had children.

iii. Elbridge Mann, born 10 March 1823; inherited the old homestead, "Mann's Hill," at what is now Holden, Maine; died there 19 Apr. 1908, aged 85 years. He was the last of his generation to go.
He married -----.
He lived all his life in what is now Holden, Maine, with the exception of the time spent in California. In a letter dated Holden, Maine, 16 May 1858, his mother wrote as follows: "I feel as if I had buried the child alive. Elbridge has gone to California. He had but one week to think of it. He started from New York on May fifth. He has a wife and three children, one 11, one 7 and one a year and two months old. They are all affectionate children and he thought as much of them as any other man. But he said times were so dull, and all the timber burnt off in this town that he saw nothing but a famine for him in a few years. His father gave him his land and he was getting along as well as any one of the boys. He told his wife to sell the oxen (She has for one hundred dollars) and use the money till he could earn some to send them").

Elbridge Mann remained in California only three years then returned to Holden, Maine, where he spent the rest of his life.

After coming to Thompsonville with the same firm (then known as the Hartford, and now as the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Corp.), he was for eighteen years in charge of the building and renting of their tenement property; retired the past five years. He married 2 February 1876, Abbie Frances Foss. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary 2 February 1926. Two children: 1. Eugene Clarence[9] Tibbetts, born in Charleston, Me., 13 Jan. 1879; married in New York City, 1 June 1904, Kathleen Watson of that city. 2. Mabelle E.[9] Tibbetts, born in New York City, 22 March 1889; resides with her parents in Thompsonville, Conn.

188 William Thomas[7] Tibbetts (William[6] (No. 114), William[5], Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), farmer, of East Corinth, Me., was born 6 July 1815, in Kenduskeag, Maine, the fourth son and tenth child of William and Sarah (Thom) Tibbetts of Kenduskeag, Me. He resided in East Corinth, Maine and died there in 1871, aged 56 years. He married 24 November 1842, Sarah Cole of Kenduskeag, Me. She was born in 1820, in Cornish, Maine; died in East Corinth, Maine, in 1877, buried beside husband in East Corinth cemetery.

She was daughter of Robert Cole of Cornish, Maine, who was born in 1785, died in 1831, and Mary Thompson his wife, who was born in 1790, died in 1864. (See "The Cole Family of Cornish, Maine, below).

William Thomas and Sarah (Cole) Tibbetts had three children, all born in East Corinth, Maine, as follows:

i. Willard Mann[8] Tibbetts, born 13 August 1843. He married Leila J. Whaley. She died some years ago. No children. He resided for many years in New York City; died in New York City, in April 1922, aged 78 years, 8 mos. He was cashier ~~of~~ for the Higgins Carpet Company in New York City for thirty-seven years. This carpet company moved from New York City to Thompsonville, Conn., and is now known as the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Corporation. He lived for a few years in Thompsonville.

He is a member of the Baptist church in Auburn. He has never married.

189 George[7] Tibbetts of East Corinth, Maine (genealogical line as follows: William Jr.[6] (No.114), William[5], a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), was born 7 April 1819 in Kenduskeag, Maine. He died 31 July 1906, aged 86 years, 3 mos., 24 days, in East Corinth, Maine; buried in Hill-top cemetery. The old Bangor records give the year of his birth as 1818 but his gravestone inscription gives 1819. He was the youngest child of William Jr. and Sarah (Thom) Tibbetts of Kenduskeag, Maine.

He was a farmer and lived in East Corinth, Maine. It is said that he had all the genuine Tibbetts characteristics, both in looks and temperament.

He married in Corinth, Maine, 11 July 1842, Rachel Black of Corinth, Maine. She was born 14 Nov. 1822; died 2 Dec. 1904, aged 82 years, and 18 days, in East Corinth, Maine; buried in Hill-top cemetery. She was daughter of Abel Black, born 1 Jan. 1787 in Cumberland town, Cumberland Co., Maine, and Rachel Field his wife, who was born 22 March 1793, also in Cumberland, Maine, both of whom resided after their marriage in Corinth, Maine, and both are buried in Hill-top cemetery, Corinth.

George and Rachel (Black) Tibbetts had seven children, all born in East Corinth, Penobscot Co., Maine (one of whom died in infancy, unnamed, and is not given in the list below):

Family of George and Mary (Burnight) Tibbetts
of Acton, Marion County, Indiana, and Winona County, Minn.

190 George[7] Tibbetts, a twin (Benjamin[6] (No. 115), William[5], a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), farmer and tanner, was born 2 November 1798 in Bangor, Maine; died with smallpox 25 May 1855, aged 56 years, 6 months, 23 days, near Dakota, Winona County, Minnesota, buried on his own farm; twenty years later, his remains were interred in the cemetery at the village of Dakota, and his grave marked by a gravestone placed there by his son, Rev. M. Luther Tibbetts. He was the second son and third child of Benjamin and Hannah (Snow) Tibbetts who removed with their family from Bangor, Maine to Manchester township, Dearborn County, Indiana in 1816, the year in which Indiana was admitted as a state into the Union.

He married Mary Burnight in Lebanon, Pennsylvania, 9 April 1822. She was born 30 November 1803, in Pittsburg, Pa., the daughter of Jeremiah Burnight, born 16 September 1779 in the Highlands of Scotland, and Phoebe Worrall his wife, born 9 April 1785 in Marple township, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, who were for many years residents of Lebanon, Pa., and were later among the first settlers of Franklin township, Marion County, Indiana. She died in September, 1863, at the home of her son Wesley, in Jefferson township, Bremer County, Iowa, five miles east of Waverly, and is buried in the old burial ground on the Elias J. Messinger's farm, just south of the village of Denver, Bremer Co. (See notes on her Burnight and Worrall ancestry below).

George Tibbetts received a good common school education in Bangor, Maine and Corinth, Maine and at the age of eighteen removed with his parents to Dearborn County, Indiana in 1816, settling in Manchester township, eleven miles northwest of Lawrenceburg, which is on the Ohio River. At the age of twenty-one he went to Nashville, Tenn., to learn the Tanner's and Currier's trade. At that time there were no roads, only the Indian trails through the woods and along the streams. He was a young man of great endurance and strength; the tradition is that he walked all the way, starting from Lawrenceburg on a Monday morning and getting to Nashville the following Saturday night, a distance of three hundred miles, walking fifty miles per day for six consecutive days. He remained in Nashville for three years, where he learned his trade and, returning by way of Philadelphia, met certain members of the Worrall family who were tanners and through them met his future wife.

Immediately after his marriage, he and his wife went to Indiana where he bought a farm in Franklin township, Marion County, near what is now the village of Acton, thirteen miles southeast of Indianapolis. When it was cleared, it had much rich farming land with stretches of woodland, with Buck Creek, a beautiful creek, running through the entire length of it.

Indianapolis, then a village of a few log houses, had only the year before been selected as the site of the future capital, the capital having been previously at Corydon in the southern part of the state. The central part of Indiana was then a tract of dense woodland. "Where now may be seen broad fields and pastures, then thickly stood the great oak, beech, elm, poplar, maple, ash, hickory, walnut, sycamore, juniper and other forest trees".

Franklin township lies in the southeast corner of Marion Couhty and was laid off and erected a township in 1822, the year in which George Tibbetts located there. His farm was the West half of the Southwest Quarter of Sec. 10, Township 14, Range 5 East. It is thought that he bought his land from William Rector who had purchased the entire section from the U. S. Government.

On high, rolling ground bordering on Buck Creek, he built his home which, when the forest trees were cleared away, was in full view of the Michigan road. History states that "the old Michigan road, one hundred feet wide, ran originally from Lake Michigan through Indianapolis, thence to Madison by way of Shelbyville and Greensburg. It traversed Franklin township diagonally in a northwesterly direction, and had been cut out and under-brushed (but not graded nor grubbed) through a great part of this region as early as 1820, and it was over the rute of that road that many of the pioneers came to Marion County".

Sulgrove's History of Indianapolis and Marion County, Indiana, page 519, has the following: "Mr. George Tibbetts came here from the south part of the state in 1822. He was a Tanner by trade and built a Tannery oh his lands in 1828. In 1845 he sold his property in Franklin township and moved to Iowa". "It is said that the first white settler in this township was William Rector, who came here from Ohio in 1820 and built his cabin on land along Buck Creek. It was at his house that the first election of the township was held 19 June 1824. The Methodist Church at Acton was first organized at the home of William Rector on the N. E. Quarter of Sec. 10, Township 14, Range 5 East, about the year 1827. It was formed by the followingpnamed members: William Rector and wife, George Tibbetts and wife, John Walden and wife, Jeremiah Burnight and wife, with William Rector and George Tibbetts as leaders. About 1830 they built a house of worship on the land of William Rector which was 27 by 36 feet and constructed of hewn logs (yellow poplar) as was the custom in that day". (Sulgrove's History).

Near by the church was the burial ground. This old log church was also used as a school house. It stood facing the Michigan road, about one mile west of Pleasant View. Nothing now (1929) remains of it except the foundation stones which were boulders. In that early day there were no settled ministers and the church organizations had to depend upon the circuit riders and 'local' preachers. Sulgorve's History also states: "Pleasant View was in early times the principal town in the southeastern part of Marion County, and began its existence as a trading point about the year 1835. It was situated on the old Michigan road, just on the line between Marion County and Shelby County, but on the Shelby County side of the road, and was for many years a stage station, where horses were changed, and the weary traveler could find refreshment. Until the building of the Big Four Railroad in 1852, it was a flourishing village and gave promise of a bright future, but after the completion of the railway it gradually declined to its present condition". The only building of interest that now (1929) remains is the old Tavern, which is used as a dwelling.

In Indiana Historical publications, Vol. 4, page 367, the name of George Tibbetts is to be found among the list of early settlers, giving names of persons enumerated in Marion Co., Indiana at the Fifth Census, 1830, this being the first National Census taken after the organization of the county, and he appears as the head of a family of one son under five years of age, one son over five, one daughter under five and his wife under thirty years of age.

His first home, like those of all the early settlers, was a log house, and here his four older children were born. In 1828 he built a tannery on his land. In 1829 he erected a comfortable, well-finished house, built of brick which were made and burned on the place, of two stories, framed over, having a chimney in either end, with two large fireplaces in the living rooms below and grates in bedrooms above, the woodwork of black walnut. The kitchen wing on the south, also of two stories, had a porch on either side the~~y~~ whole length. From the east porch were the stairs leading down to the brick-lined cellar. Nearby was a wonderful spring of clear-flowing water.

Under date of 5 March 1910, his son, Rev. M. Luther Tibbetts wrote from Whittier, California, as follows:

"My father's farm was located in Franklin township, Marion County, Indiana, about one mile and a half southwest of the little village of Pleasant View, and about three quarters of a mile from what is now the village of Acton. One mile southwest of the home farm, he owned another 80 acre tract, only about 40 acres of which were in cultivation, ten acres of which were in orchards of apples and peaches. This was known as the Carberry farm, the West half of the Southwest Quarter of Sec. 15, which he bought in 1839 of Peter Carberry (which had been patented to Peter Carberry 27 March 1830 by the U. S. Government). He also owned a forty-acre plat on the Michigan road, a half mile northwest of the home farm, on which there was a fine orchard of apples and peaches. He made and burned his own brick.

On the home farm he had a number of buildings, a large frame dwelling-house, and on the brow of the hill over the spring, a large, brick spring-house, two story, the upper story was a shoe-shop where one or two men usually worked, making and repairing shoes. There was also a brick dry-house for drying fruit, and a brick smoke-house for curing and keeping meat; a large hay and grain, frame barn, and a double-hewed log stable. Then he had his tan yard about twenty rods or more to the northeast of the dwelling, where there were several buildings which were necessary to the various departments of his business". . . . . He tanned hides with oak-bark from trees which grew on the place. Hides were placed in the tan-pits with layers of oak-bark between them, and when as many layers of hides and bark were arranged as the pit would hold, water was let in, and the hides remained in the vats for one year, being occasionally turned. This was the old method of tanning. Hides were hauled by journeymen for a hundred miles or more. He employed a good many men at times in the tannery and carried on the business until he left Indiana".

"He was all his life a great reader, had vivid imagination, a tenacious memory, was witty, a little sarcastic sometimes, argumentative but not bigoted nor over-bearing, of a cheerful and generous nature, always solicitous for the welfare of his relatives and ready to oblige his friends in any way within his power; a man of good business ability and a great worker. In politics he was a Whig.

On a ridge of high ground near his home he planted a forest tree when each of his children was born and named the tree for that child. There was finally a row of ten trees, nine of which are still standing (now, 1930), the oldest ones having been planted more than a hundred years ago. All of the trees lived but one, and strangely enough the tree that died was the one that had been named for little Elizabeth who died in infancy, her death due to a sad accident. His children all attended school in the log church on the William Rector farm.

He was well known throughout that part of the country and was very successful in his business. Many of the leading men of Indianapolis were his friends.

By the time he left Indiana, improvements had been made on the old tanning methods and the invention of new processes had greatly facilitated the manufacture of leather. No longer was money to be made in the tannery on the farm.

History records the financial tension on the time in the following statement: "From 1840 to 1846 there was a general gloom and despondency hanging over many of the citizens of Indiana, owing to the general disarrangement in the monetary affairs of the whole country and the misfortune growing out of our internal improvement system. In 1842, according to the public prints, Indiana state bonds were selling in the New York market at but seventeen cents on the dollar. This was probably the darkest period of our state's history".

In 1845 he sold all of his property in Marion County and removed to Iowa whither his older married children had gone a few months before. Had he remained two years longer, he would have seen the first railroad built in the state and through his own locality, running through a part of his land and within three quarters of a mile of his home. In 1847 the right of way for the first railroad in Indiana, the Lawrenceburg and Upper Mississippi Railroad, later known as the Indianapolis and Cincinnati Railroad, was surveyed through a portion of his land, the above-mentioned eighty acres known as the Carberry farm. In 1852 the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis (Big Four) Railroad was built through this same portion of land, and this portion came within the town lines and is now included in the late Francis M. Gordon's Addition to the Town of Acton.

His home farm was purchased by Samuel Parsley and was thereafter known as the Parsley farm. It is owned now (1930) by Ernest S. Hamlyn, Esq., who has about 280 acres which include the George Tibbetts farm and the John H. Messinger farm. His old house was torn down about the year 1913, together with all the outlying buildings; it probably would never have been torn down except for the fact that it was left standing in a somewhat inaccessible place, about in the center of the farm, after the roads were changed, when Acton became a trading point, instead of Pleasant View, as in the olden days. The house was not torn down all at once, but gradually, and Mr. Hamlyn, the present owner, made use of all the material taken from it, the bricks and the timbers, in constructing other buildings upon the place.

He had been a resident of Marion County, Indiana for twenty-three years when he removed to Iowa. The first winter in Iowa was spent in Linn County, and in the spring of 1846 he and his family joined the new settlement in Jefferson township, Bremer County. They lived here for seven years. In 1853 he removed with his family to Winona County, Minnesota, where he bought land along the Mississippi River, three miles from the little village of Dakota. He had been here only two years when his death occurred.

EARLY COUNTRY SCHOOLS OF MARION COUNTY, INDIANA.

Sulgrove's History.

"Very soon after the pioneer settlers had established themselves and their families in their rude log cabins, and cleared a sufficient space of ground to raise crops enough to insure them a subsistence, they took measures (inefficient though they were) to provide for their children the means of acquiring some of the rudiments of education, by opening primitive schools, which were usually taught by persons who were employed at farm labor during the summer, and who, during the winter taught school, for a term of six weeks to two months, receiving a mere pittance for their services.

The first schools were taught in the east part of the township, in the Buck creek settlements, but others were opened as soon as enough settlers had come in to form a neighborhood school.

Thomas Townsend and William Smith were the first two persons who taught in Franklin township. Where log houses had been built as places of worship, they were also invariably used for schools, and as the township became a little more thickly settled, each neighborhood of two or three miles' radius had a school house. They were all nearly the same size - a low log building of about 18 by 22 or 24 feet in size, with a log cut out on two sides, leaving openings which, when covered with greased paper, in place of glass, formed the windows of the house. In one end of the school house was a fire-place, plastered with clay or mud, sometimes communicating with a 'stick chimney' on the outside, and sometimes having no chimney at all except a hole in the roof. The floor was of puncheons, the seats and benches of split logs with the split sides dressed to comparative smoothness. A high rude and uncomfortable writing desk (or more properly shelf) was formed in a similar way. None of the requisites or equipments of the modern school house were found in these houses. Everything was rough, uncomfortable and discouraging to both pupil and teacher. Yet the schools taught amid such surroundings were the best that could be had in those days, and in them many a child acquired the rudiments of education, and laid the foundations of an honorable career." ---------- of Manchester, Dearborn Co., Indiana.

191 Benjamin[7] Tibbetts (Benjamin,[6] (No. 115), William,[5] a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), of Manchester, Dearborn Co., Indiana, farmer and cooper, born 4 Sept. 1800 at Corinth, Maine, seventeen miles west of Bangor; died 17 Dec. 1879, aged 79 years, at Ocheltree, Kans. He was the third son of Benjamin and Hannah (Snow) Tibbetts.

He married about 1822, in Manchester, Ind., Sarah Heustis, born in 1802, probably in Newburg, N.Y.; died at home of her son near Ocheltree, Kans., in 1886, aged 84 years; buried beside her husband in cemetery near Ocheltree. She was daughter of ----- Heustis whose family moved from Newburg, N.Y. state to Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Ind., in 1818. One of her brothers was Oliver Heustis, twice elected to the state legislature of Indiana, in 1852 and in 1844, who was one of the first settlers of Manchester township, Dearborn County, and purchased from the U.S. Government a portion of Sec. 11, in 1818. Another of her brothers was Elias Heustis of Manchester, Ind., who was still living there 22 May 1885. Her sister Hannah Heustis married Rev. Benjamin Plummer of Manchester, Ind., and both were living there 22 May 1885.

Benjamin and Sarah (Heustis) Tibbetts lived at Manchester, Ind., for more than fifty years of their married life. About 1873-4 they sold their farm to Peter Vogle (which in 1918 was still owned by Peter Vogle heirs), and moved to Alhambra, Ill., where they lived with their son Charles F.

In 1877 they removed to Ocheltree, Kans., where they spent the remainder of their lives in the home of their son Oliver H.

Children, born at Manchester, Dearborn Co., Ind.:

i. Susanna,[8] b. 1823; m. Family of Rev. Jonathan S. Tibbetts of Manchester, Dearborn Co., Ind., Oakland, Oregon, and Portland, Oregon.

192 Rev. Jonathan Snow[7] Tibbetts (Benjamin[6] (No.115), William[5], a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), of Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana, and of Oakland, Oregon, 1852, later of Portland, Oreg., a pioneer Methodist minister, born 17 April 1804, near Corinth, Penobscot Co., Maine, 17 miles west of Bangor, died 23 June 1885, in Portland, Oregon (East Portland); buried in Lone Fir Cemetery. He was the son of Benjamin and Hannah (Snow) Tibbetts.

He married in 1830, Mary Redding of Versailles, Ripley Co., Indiana, born 25 Sept. 1815, in Ohio, died 24 Nov. 1890, in East Portland, Oreg., buried in Lone Fir Cemetery, daughter of Capt. Andrew Redding of Ripley Co., Ind., by his first wife ------- Howell, whose Howell ancestors are said to have been Quakers from Pennsylvania.

(Capt. Andrew Redding fought under William Henry Harrison at the battle of Tippecanoe, 11 Nov. 1811, in Western Indiana (near what is now Crawfordsville). He was an Irishman, a stone-cutter by trade and died at an advanced age at his home in Aurora, Ind., having second wife. In 1804 he and first wife ------- Howell were of Lexington, Ky., removed from there to Ohio and later settled near Versailles, Ripley Co., Indiana. He was related to Col. John W. Redding of Indianapolis, Ind.).

Rev. Jonathan S. Tibbetts, when about thirty years of age, was ordained at Whitewater, Indiana, by Bishop Cavanaugh of Kentucky, as a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church. He preached for many years in Manchester, Ind., and occasionally in Aurora, Ripley, Whitewater and Madison, Ind.

To his daughter Sarah (Mrs. Gouldin) we are indebted for the following account:

"In 1851 he removed with his family from Manchester, Indiana, spending a winter in Oquawka, Ill., and, in March, 1852, starting from Ft. Madison, Iowa, he commenced the long, tedious overland journey to Oregon with his wife and eight children. He commanded the wagon train in which the trip was made across the plains. They travelled in a caravan, with ox-teams, enduring many hardships, and being eight months on the way before they reached Portland. Among other travelling companions were the families of John Tucker Scott and Dr. Justin Millard. Crossing the desert they journeyed mostly by night, owing to the intense heat; they never travelled on the Sabbath day; on that day Rev. Jonathan Tibbetts held services morning and evening, and preached to hundreds of pilgrims journeying on the same mission as themselves -- to make a home in the far west. He made many converts on his way across the continent. Upon reaching Snake River, where most of the caravans crosses, his party of 17 wagons and about 25 men, chose a shorter route and by so doing, encountered the village of the Snake River Indians, who were by no means willing to allow them to continue on their way unmolested. There were about eight hundred Indians, men, women and children, and they were determined to rob the travellers of their animals, provisions, etc., and did everything they could to make the little party start a fight. Their Chief understood English, and Rev. Jonathan Tibbetts stood on the wagon-tongue for three hours or more preaching to the Indians and holding them at bay (the Chief translating to his tribe), telling them that they positively refused to have any trouble with them -- that he was a Missionary preacher, and if they gave any trouble the Government would punish them -- that Fort Boise, Idaho Government barracks was only fifty miles away, and was sending out soldiers to meet them -- the courier had passed them the day before with an appeal from the emigrants to the commander of the Fort to send aid of soldiers and provisions. The Indians followed them for miles, taunting them and doing everything they could to hinder their journey, until two or three hours before the appearance of the soldiers, their scouts gave the signal and they disappeared.

Rev. Jonathan S. Tibbetts and family spent a part of the year 1852 in Portland, Oregon, and then moved to the Umpqua valley, settling near Oakland on the Calapooia, Rev. Tibbetts buying the farm from an Indian. Here he took up his missionary work, he being the only minister in fifty miles, the first in the Umpqua Valley Circuit. He had a large district to cover, the population being so scattered; among them were many Indians and French and Half-breeds.

He often rode horseback twenty miles on Sunday morning to preach, returning at night. On these trips he was accompanied by his twelve-year-old daughter, Sarah (who was afterward Mrs. Gouldin), who taught Sabbath school and learned the Chinook jargon in order to teach the Indians. After the Indian war of 1855 the country settled very rapidly and a better class of people came to that locality.

Rev. Jonathan S. Tibbetts was closely associated in southern Oregon with such interesting personages as Rev. Robert Booth, I. D. Driver and Elder Wilbur, with whom he helped to build the first college in that part of the state, called the Wilbur Seminary. He is said to have made more converts than any one in that part of Oregon. He spent the last years of his life in Portland, Oregon, where he died at the age of eighty-one, having been in the work of the ministry forty-five years, and preaching until within two years of his death. His wife was a great help and inspiration to him in his work. She was a woman of strength and good health and great magnetic influence; her home was open house to the weary traveller and she entertained all who came that way.

Early days in Oregon recalled by pioneers.

The first emigrant train that ever crossed the Rockies was in 1842. The Oregon pioneer association, organized in 1873, is composed of residents who went to Oregon prior to 1859.

"Our Government offered greater inducements to those who would go to Oregon than was offered to those of the so-called Western states; 640 acres of land free to any man with a wife, as a 'donation homestead.'

of Portland, Oregon.

193 Gideon[7] Tibbetts (Benjamin[6] (No. 115), William[5], a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), of Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana, farmer, and of Portland, Oreg., 1847, Oregon pioneer, member of the Oregon Legislature, 1877, born 2 Sept. 1809, near Corinth, Penobscot Co., Maine, 17 miles west of Bangor, died 5 Aug. 1887, in Portland, Oregon (East Portland). He was the son of Benjamin and Hannah (Snow) Tibbetts. He married at Rising Sun, Indiana, 12 Sept. 1833, Mary Fox, born 7 May 1815, at Crooked Lake, N.Y., died Feb., 1901, in East Portland, Oreg., daughter of Rudolph and Polly (Slater) Fox.

(The above-named Rudolph Fox was b. 24 Sept. 1776, in New York state. Polly Slater his wife was b. 20 July 1783. They were married about 1806, probably at Crooked Lake, N.Y. They were among the early residents of Rising Sun, Dearborn Co. (now Ohio Co.), Indiana, having removed there in 1823 from Columbus, Ohio, but had previously resided at Crooked Lake, N.Y. (were residing at Crooked Lake 7 May 1815). Rudolph Fox was the son of James Fox, one of the pioneer settlers of Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana, who purchased from the U.S. Government in 1832, a portion of Sec. 5 in that township (See Hist. Dearborn County). Rudolph and Polly (Slater) Fox had eight children, the dates of their births given in family Bible in possession now (1932) of Mrs. Frances Alwilda (Burnight) Cote of Los Angeles, Calif. (2712 East 5th Street).

Gideon Tibbetts was but seven years of age when he was taken by his parents, in 1816, to Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana, where he grew to manhood. He made many flat-boat trips to New Orleans with his father, taking boat-loads of hay to be sold in the New Orleans market. These trips were made down the Ohio river to Cairo, Ill., and from there down the Mississippi river. On one of these trips he bought a large conch shell which has been preserved by his descendants; this shell was blown as a horn to call the farm laborers to dinner. About 1842, he removed with his wife from Indiana to Jones Co., Iowa. In 1847 he went to Oregon.

At the fortieth annual reunion of the Oregon Pioneer Association held in Portland, June 20, 1912, Robert G. Smith, Mayor of Grant's Pass, delivered the annual address in which he made the following statements: "The first emigrant train that ever crossed the Rockies was in 1842. When the pioneers undertook the great wagon journey across the great American Desert, they knew they would meet a savage foe, that they would be compelled to defend themselves against their attacks, and that many of them would fall by the wayside. It is impossible for the present generation to realize what were the conditions existing in Oregon when the first settlers, or pioneers, started in the work of developing this 'the farthest and most distant and most dangerous portion of our great country'. The most dangerous because our Government had not yet furnished sufficient military protection to the people who had been induced to leave their homes in the East and cross the almost trackless deserts and the great mountain ranges to make homes in far-off Oregon. Our Government offered greater inducements to those who would go to Oregon than was offered to those of the so-called Western states; 640 acres of land to any man with a wife, as a donation homestead."

In an article written for the Portland Oregonian, May 16, 1915, by Mary Agnes Kelly, it is stated: "When Gideon Tibbetts and his little band, Mary Fox his wife, and their six young children left Jones County, Iowa, in the spring of 1847, they did not reckon on spending nine long months on the Oregon Trail, but they did, - not arriving until December. Like hundreds of others they crossed the plains with ox-teams and, on the last stretch of the journey, came by the Dalles, where they camped six weeks to build a flat boat on which to float their goods to Portland. Having accomplished this they again started westward and, upon reaching the Cascades, unloaded their supplies to make the portage, turning the boat adrift. It ran the rapids without mishap and was caught and towed ashore for them by Indians below the lower cascades. The remainder of the journey was completed without incident and, on December 8th, they arrived at the straggling hamlet known as Portland. Some time after reaching Portland, Gideon Tibbetts chanced upon a homestead which originally had been filed upon by a family by the name of Dobbins, who had been lured southward by tales of the gold quest, so the section was taken over and was known thenceforth as the Gideon Tibbetts donation land claim. This land is now part of East Portland. It was bounded on the west by the Willamette River, on the north by the Section Line road (now Division street), on the east by Twenty-sixth, and on the south by Holgate street. It was composed of some high ground and much rich bottom land through which ran a brook later known as Brooklyn Creek. Upon a 40 acre tract of bottom land where the Southern Pacific shops now stand, Gideon Tibbetts raised bumper crops of timothy hay; he also planted an orchard of apples and pear trees, and to the present day a few of the trees survive the inroads of civic growth and street improvements. The first little school building stood on his property (about East Sixteenth and Tibbetts Streets); he built the first painted board house ever constructed on the East Side, if not in the whole of Portland; after his family had outgrown this first house he built the one which stands today at the intersection of Gideon and Mary Streets. Besides these thoroughfares, Tibbetts Street which bisects the Waverly-Richmond district was named for these pioneers. In company with others he built and operated the first flouring mill in East Portland, an important one for its time, which stood on Brooklyn Creek about where Taggert and East Eleventh streets cross at present. It was ultimately destroyed by fire. When, in the vicinity of Portland, land was no longer to be obtained as a gift from the Government, Gideon Tibbetts sold acreage in different portions of his claim. He laid out the townsite of the suburb of Brooklyn. 'Tibbetts Addition', one of the important early day divisions, was also platted by him.

In politics he was a Republican; he was an enterprising citizen and frequently was active in city and state affairs. He was elected to, and served one term in, the Oregon Legislature in 1877.

a letter written by him in 1877 has the following statement: 'I came to Oregon in '47. We have had but four cold winters in all that time. There have been but three winters since I have been here that the thermometer has gone below zero and then only two degrees. Our cold weather does not last over ten days. Our crops have never failed since I have been in this country."

Children:

i. Caroline[8] Tibbetts, b. 20 June 1834 in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Ind.; d. 22 June 1863, aged 29 years, in Walla Walla, Wash.; m. in Portland, Oreg., Dr. Dorsey S. Baker, b. 18 Oct. 1823 in Illinois, d. in Walla Walla, Wash. In young manhood Dr. Baker used to take produce on flatboats down the Mississippi to New Orleans where he sold the produce and also the flatboat, making his way back to Illinois. When he was 22 years old he was graduated from the medical department of Jefferson College in Philadelphia. In Des Moines, Iowa, he began the practice of his profession. In the spring of 1848 he went to Oregon. He arrived in Portland on 19 Sept. 1848. He found that practically all of the men in Portland had gone to the newly-discovered gold fields in California. Christmas day, 1848, found only fourteen men in Portland. Dr. Baker started for the gold fields in the early spring of 1849 and stayed in California until Christmas when he returned to Portland with $1800. worth of gold. He became a partner of L. B. Hastings and in the spring of 1850 they opened a store and hotel in Portland. In May, 1851, he settled at Oakland in the Umpqua valley, where he built a mill, ran a store and raised stock. In 1858 he returned to Portland and started a hardware store. In 1860 he went to Walla Walla, Washington, where he started a store. In 1862 he became associated with Capt. Eph. Baughman, Capt. A.P. Ankeny, H.W. Corbett and William Gates, with the object of building or buying boats to run from the mouth of the Deschutes river up the Columbia and the Snake to Lewiston. They planned to run their line of boats in opposition to the Oregon Steam Navigation company. They built the steamer "Spray" and made 14 trips to Lewiston in 1862. They soon had another transportation company to compete with - The People's Transportation Line. Rates were reduced so that Dr. Baker, Capt. Ankeny and their associates sold the Spray in the spring of 1863 to the Oregon Steam Navigation company. Once more they started an opposition line. Their first move was to build a railroad around the Cascades. The Oregon Steam Navigation company had powerful influence at Washington and was able to secure from Congress exclusive right of way around the Cascades. As Dr. Baker and his associates had already laid rails, their only recourse was to secure the right of way from the Oregon Steam Navigation company. This of course was a hopeless undertaking so they sold their road and equipment to this company in the spring of 1864. Finally Dr. Dorsey S. Baker decided to build what is known as the 'Rawhide' railroad, from Walla Walla to Wallula, a distance of thirty-one miles. Eventually he sold this railroad to the Oregon Steam Navigation company at considerable profit.

B-198. Timothy Hartshorne[7] Tibbetts (Moses[6] (No. 126), Jonathan[5], Ens. Edward[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry1), born 7 May 1818, in Belgrade. Maine (kennebec Co.); died 20 July 1891; buried at Branch Mills, Maine. He was the son of Moses and Hannah (Hartshorne) Tibbetts of Belgrade.

He married in Belgrade, 20 Oct. 1844, Lucy Ann Wills, born 26 Nov. 1818, in Belgrade, Me., died at the home of her son in Beatrice, Nebr., 17 March 1907, aged 88 years, 3 mos.. daughter of James Wills of Belgrade, a patriot of the American Revolution who was born in 1738 and died 12 Oct. 1842 at the advanced age of 104 years. Her grave in Evergreen Cemetery in Beatrice is marked by a Real Daughter's grave marker placed there 4 July 1907 by the Elizabeth Montague Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. She was one of seven children of whom only she and her sister Mrs. Rhoda Clark were living in 1906. Her sister was an honored member of the Molly Varnum chapter of Lowell, Mass.

Mrs. Tibbetts enjoyed the distinction of being a real daughter of the American Revolution. An account of her life (with photograph) was published in the American Monthly Magazine, D.A.R. Magazine, vol. 30, 1907, February number, p. 106, from which is the following extract: "On the occasion of Mrs. Tibbetts' eighty-eighth birthday the Elizabeth Montague Chapter of Beatrice, Nebraska, held a special meeting at the home of her son, where they were most cordially welcomed by his wife and daughter ..... Mrs. Tibbetts resided in Maine until she was past seventy years of age. Sixteen years ago her husband died and eight years ago her youngest son. After his death she went to live with her daughter in Massachusetts and made her home with her until eighteen months ago death once more entered the family circle and took away the daughter, leaving Mrs. Tibbetts alone. In January last her son Mr. Joseph J. Tibbetts went to Massachusetts and brought her to his Nebraska home. At eighty-seven she left behind her the scenes of her early life and the friends of her youth, womanhood and old age. She is an honored member of the Elizabeth Montague Chapter of Beatrice, Nebraska. At the October meeting, 1906, her presence gave great pleasure to the members who met her for the first time and this venerable lady bore her honors gracefully."

Family of Samuel Jr. and Mary A. (Dolph) Tibbets of Volga, Indiana.

210 Samuel[8] Tibbets Jr., of Volga, Indiana (genealogical line as follows: (Dr. Samuel[7] (No.137) of Cincinnati, Ohio, Samuel[6] of Brunswick, Maine, Topsham, Maine, Lisbon, Maine and Lindale, Ohio, Timothy[5] of Brunswick, Maine and Topsham, Maine, John[4] of Somersworth, New Hampshire, Capt. Thomas[3] of Dover, New Hampshire, Jeremiah[2] of Dover, New Hampshire, Henry[1] of Dover, New Hampshire).

He was born 17 January 1806 in Lisbon, Maine; died 3 January 1882 in Volga, Indiana. He was son of Dr. Samuel and Susanna (Coombs) Tibbets who removed from Lisbon, Maine to Cincinnati, Ohio in 1910; grandson of Samuel and Margaret (Russell) Tibbets; great-grandson of Timothy and Experience (Hinckley) Tibbets.

He was a member of the firm of Tibbets and Calvin, Hatters, in Cincinnati, Ohio; removed in 1840 to Volga, Indiana, where he was a manufacturer of harness and saddles until he retired from active business. He was influential in local politics and served on many important committees. He had the unflinching qualities that were characteristic of many descendants of the Tibbets family. His strong anti-slavery principles were well known.

It was said that the Tibbets families of Cincinnati carried the underground railroad contagion into southern Indiana, and it is certain that he and his brothers, Joshua and John Coombs Tibbets were among the most active in organizing the movement in that part of the state. Reports of their meetings showed that they were auxiliary to the Anti-Slavery Society of Indiana.

He married in Cincinnati, Ohio, October 1835, Mary Ann Dolph, who was born 4 October 1819, in Pittsburg, Pa. She died in Volga, Indiana, 3 January 1896, aged 77 years, buried in Hopewell cemetery, Volga, Ind. She was a woman of great strength of character and devout piety, and of marked literary ability, well known as a local writer of prose and verse, and a contributor to eastern papers and magazines, particularly religious publications. She was in early life a member of the Methodist church, but became converted to the faith of the Christian Adventists, and contributed largely to the building of the chapel which was near her home in Volga.

She was daughter of Edward Dolph who was from New York state, and Elizabeth Hazeltine his wife, born in Pennsylvania, of Scotch lineage, daughter of Stephen Hazeltine who served in the Revolution at the age of seventeen, and Sibyl Mosely his wife.

Stephen Hazeltine, just mentioned, was son of Silas and Judith (Morse) Hazeltine, and grandson of Col. John and Jane (Wood) Hazeltine. Col. John Hazeltine was of New York state, and was delegate to the first Provincial Congress, New York, and also served in the Revolution as chairman of the Committee of Correspondence in Cumberland County, New York. The town of Townsend, Vermont, was founded by Col. John Hazeltine. (See Vermont "Governor and Council", Vols. 1 and 2. See also Documentary History of New York, Vol. 4, pp. 547-9. He was born 27 June 1818 in Cincinnati, Ohio; died in Mound Valley, Kansas, in 1906, aged 87 years. He was youngest child of Dr. Samuel and Susanna (Coombs) Tibbets of Cincinnati, Ohio. He married Sarah Ann Nelson, daughter of James and Lucy Nelson, who removed from one of the eastern states and settled in College Hill, Jefferson Co., Indiana.

John Coombs Tibbets resided in College Hill, Jefferson Co., Ind., until he was about fifty-two years of age. He was a life-long Republican; voted for William Harrison in 1840; was a member of the convention that nominated Oliver P. Morton for Governor of Indiana. He was a strong abolitionist and tireless in his efforts to assist the slaves in escaping to freedom. Fugitives stopped at his home to rest and recuperate, and he never failed to do what lay in his power to aid the cause. He and his father-in-law, James Nelson, kept the first station on the underground railroad between Madison and Vernon, Indiana.

He removed with his wife and family to Mound Valley, Kansas, about 1870.

Family of Thomas Jefferson and Helen Louisa (Harkness) Tibbetts of West Concord, Dodge Co., Minnesota.

213 Thomas Jefferson[8] Tibbetts (Tilley,[7] (No. 139), Ebenezer,[6] Ebenezer,[5] Moses,[4] Capt. Thomas,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), was born 19 Nov. 1830 at Lebanon, Maine, the second son of Tilley and Cynthia (Chadbourne) Tibbetts. He died at St. Barnabas Hospital in Minneapolis, Minnesota 6 Aug. 1909, aged 78 years, 9 mos., 17 days. As a young man he moved with his parents to Nekimi, Wisconsin. He married at Nekimi, Wis., 19 March 1863, Helen Louisa Harkness, with whom he spent more than fifty-six years of wedded life. They made their home for two and a half years at New Lisbon, and then moved to Markesau, Wis., where they lived for five years - until in 1861, in company with his brother William they made the journey with a team of oxen to the farm in Concord township, which has been his home until in 1893 he moved to West Concord that he might be free from the hard work and worry of the farm and enjoy in his declining years the fruit of his labor.

As a young man he was a school teacher but his life work was farming. A quiet, unassuming man, he never aspired to public office, although he was several times elected to town offices, and served as County Commissioner for three terms. Nearly thirty-five years ago he joined the Baptist Church of this place which was then situated at Concord, and has been a faithful and active member ever since, having served as deacon and trustee and has been church clerk ever since he lived in West Concord.

His funeral services were conducted by Rev. F.F. Anderson of Chicago who had been an intimate friend for many years, assisted by the pastor, Rev. Charles Firth of West Concord.

Family of William Chadbourne Tibbetts of Concord, Dodge Co., Minnesota.

214 William Chadbourne[8] Tibbetts (Tilley,[7] (No. 139), Ebenezer,[6] Ebenezer,[5] Moses,[4] Capt. Thomas,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), farmer, of Concord, Dodge Co., Minn., was born 12 March 1833 at Lebanon, York Co., Maine where he lived during the first years of his boyhood. He died 23d June 1909 in West Concord, Dodge Co., Minn., at the home of his only surviving child, Adelbert. He was the third son of Tilley and Cynthia (Chadbourne) Tibbetts. His parents moved from Lebanon, Maine to Oshkosh, Wisconsin. They later removed to Nekimi, Wisconsin in 1849, and still later removed to Concord, Dodge Co., Minnesota.

He married at New Lisbon, Wis., 1 Jan. 1855, Lois Amelia Reynolds.

His obituary, printed in the West Concord newspaper at time of his death, contains the following brief record of his life:

"In 1861 William Chadbourne Tibbetts and his wife removed to Concord township, Dodge County, Minnesota, which has ever since been his home. For many years they lived on their farm half a mile west of Concord, but in 1893 they moved into the village where they lived until after the death of his wife a little more than a year ago. He then moved into West Concord to be with his only surviving child, Adelbert. Mr. Tibbetts has been an active, conscientious Christian for the last forty years, having taken part in the work before uniting with the Baptist Church on Feb. 1, 1870. Later he and his wife placed their membership with the Church of Christ near their home and remained members of that church until death. He was Superintendent of the Sunday School for many years and often conducted the church services in the absence of the pastor. He had a conservative nature but was one to whom many went for advice and on whose judgment much reliance was placed."

Family of Abner and Marion (Lewis) Tibbetts of Lake City, Minnesota and El Paso, Texas.

B-241 Abner[8] Tibbetts (Joseph,[7] (No. 170), Abner,[6] William,[5] Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), of Lake City, Minnesota and of El Paso, Texas, one of the founders of Lake City, born at Exeter, Penobscot Co., Maine about 1816, died on the train in Old Mexico in 1883/4, of appendicitis, on the way home to El Paso; buried at El Paso. He was the son of Joseph and Sarah (Grane) Tibbetts of Exeter.

He married at Racine, Wis., in 1853, Marion Lewis, who died at Atkinson, Wis., 10 Feb. 1888 and on 12 Feb. was buried at Lake City, Minn.

In Minnesota history Abner Tibbetts is mentioned as among the first to locate where Lake City now stands. In the spring of 1855 he came up the Mississippi river to what is now Lake City. Here Messrs. Abner Dwelle and Samuel Doughty gave him an interest in the new town-site just being surveyed and platted by them. He was a man of good address and possessed of excellent argumentative qualities, hence very useful in booming a new town. This ability well used, was perhaps the principal consideration received for the share of real estate of which he became the possessor. He filled a few positions of trust to the state and nation (History of Wabasha and Winona counties).

About 1876 he moved to La Mesilla, New Mexico. In 1878 he removed to El Paso, Texas. In 1879 he became Collector of Customs which position he held for the next four or five years. At time of his death he was president of the then Rock Island railroad company which was at that time being organized, and he had taken a trip with the officers of the company, as they were planning a route for their railroad through Old Mexico.

The Palmer Family.
Family of Sylvanus and Sarah (-----) Palmer of Columbia Co., New York.

It is supposed that the Palmers of this line are descended from Walter Palmer of Charlestown and Rehobeth, Mass. and Stonington, Conn.
Sylvanus Palmer was born 20 May 1745; died 20 July 1823; He married Sarah ----- . She was born 15 Sept. 1754 and died 4 Jan. Columbia Co., N.Y.
They had children, born in Columbia Co., N.Y., as follows:

i. William Palmer; had a son Elisha who was a merchant in Jennings Co., Indiana and resided near Vernon, Ind.

ii. Lemuel Palmer; was a contractor on the Wabash and Erie Canal. He had sons Fred W. and Elisha who were among the early settlers of Indianapolis, Ind., and for fifteen years were engaged in the marble and granite business in Indianapolis.

iii. Zephaniah Palmer; had sons, Winter, a lawyer in New York state and John M., a Baptist minister.

iv. John Palmer, b. 30 April 1781 in Columbia Co., N.Y.; d. at Wright's Corners, Manchester, Dearborn Co., Indiana, 20 March 1843.

He married in New York state 1 Jan. 1804, Sarah[5] ("Sally") Darling (Jacob[4], Joseph[3], Benjamin[2], Dennis[1]), daughter of Jacob and Sarah (-----) Darling and granddaughter of Joseph and Mary (Fish) Darling.

When John Palmer sold his farm in New York state he corresponded with Gen. William Henry Harrison about wanting to move west and purchase a large tract of land and the General advised him to come to him and live in one of his houses and welcome, until he suited himself as to where he would locate.

So he moved to North Bend, Ohio in 1812 or 1814 and from there to Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana about 1818. He lived on the state road, Manchester; was a merchant and farmer and was elected probate judge for Dearborn County and for many years was a justice of the peace.

He had children, one of whom was Zephaniah Palmer, probably youngest son, b. 19 April 1824 at Manchester, Dearborn Co., Indiana, who married Elmira Lavinia[8] Tibbetts (mentioned above).

v. Zaccheus M. Palmer, b. in Columbia Co., N.Y.; removed from Saratoga Co., N.Y. to Manchester, Dearborn Co., Indiana.

The History of Dearborn County states that Elder Zaccheus Palmer officiated as a minister in the old log church at Wright's Corners, Manchester, Ind. for many years. He removed in 1828 to Chautauqua Co., N.Y. He had two sons, namely, Robert and Frank W., both born in Indiana, who were in the Government printing office in Washington, D.C. for several years.

vi. Elmira Palmer; married a Mr. Labourn.

(Note: Other Palmer families from New York state removed early to Dearborn Co., Indiana. (See Hist. Dearborn County).

The Darling Family.

Some descendants of Dennis[1] Darling of Braintree and Mendon, Mass.

Dennis[1] Darling was the founder of one branch of the Darling family in America. He was born about 1640. He first appeared in Braintree, Mass. He married in Braintree 3 Nov. 1662, Hannah Francis. He died in Mendon, Mass., 25 Jan. 1717, aged 77 years. He was undoubtedly of immediate Irish origin, although the Darling family originated in Scotland.

A history and genealogy of the Darling family was being compiled by Carlos Parsons Darling of Lawrenceville, Tioga Co., Pa. in the year 1919.

Family of Rev. Erasmus Tibbets of Hillsboro, Lee Co., Iowa.

246 Rev. Erasmus[8] Tibbets (David[7] (No.173), Abner[6], William[5], Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), born 10 Sept. 1830, in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana; died in Fort Madison, Iowa, 30 Nov. 1912, aged 82 years, 2 mos., 20 days. He was the eldest son of David and Fanny (Russel) Tibbets.

He married in Fort Madison, Iowa, 25 Oct. 1859, Amanda Rice, born 17 June 1833, in Massachusetts, died 18 Nov. 1912, in Fort Madison, Iowa.

Rev. Erasmus Tibbets went with his parents from Dearborn Co., Ind., to Lee Co., Iowa, in 1851. Four years afterward he was persuaded by Dr. Wooley to enter Oberlin College, Ohio, but after supporting himself in college for some time his health became impaired and he was forced to discontinue his studies. In 1859 he commenced preaching in the Middle Grove church and also in Rochester, Ill., where he was ordained into the Free Baptist ministry, 23 Sept. 1860, and where he organized a church. Six years afterward he returned to Lee Co., Iowa, and was a resident of the vicinity of Fort Madison for nearly half a century. Since impaired health interfered with his gospel work, he was for many years a resident of a comfortable farm in Washington township, Lee Co., near Hillsboro, where he made his living and yet continued, in a quiet yet lovable way, to carry on his gospel work among those with whom he came in contact. To all who knew him he was a kind friend and lovable man, and he and his estimable wife were known together to a host of friends in the vicinity of Fort Madison.

Additional Record.
The above named George Howard Clapp, B.S. (University of Wisconsin, 1921), b. 25 March 1896; is an authority on Holstein-Friesian cattle and cattle breeding and has won wide recognition for his scientific experiments. He has charge of the herd of Holsteins of the Pabst Stock Farms of Oconomowoc, Wisconsin. Visitors from all over the world come to visit this herd and to inquire into Mr. Clapp's methods. By the University of Wisconsin he is considered a valuable research worker, and as a pioneer in the state in his line of work.

Mr. Clapp is in demand as a speaker at conventions. His recent schedule (winter 1938) included addresses before the National animal breeders annual convention in Chicago, a dairy convention at Purdue University and the Wisconsin state convention of dairymen at Madison. The February 1939 number of the Holstein Friesian World, their national magazine, contained a copy of the last address and also his photograph. The State Agricultural College of Italy asked Mr. Clapp's permission to translate this article into Italian for publication in that country, and it was later reviewed in the college's bulletin for 1939.

Mr. Tibbetts was born in Exeter, July 19, 1844 and his younger days were spent on his father's farm. When President Lincoln issued his first call for volunteers, Mr. Tibbetts enlisted in Company H, 15th Maine Volunteers when he was only 17 years of age, and his record of service which was an enviable one, dated from November 7, 1861 to January 18, 1865.

He participated in 15 major engagements and was wounded in the Red River campaign, remaining in the base hospital to which he had been sent, for only a short time, and after a journey of 40 miles through enemy territory accompanied by Jasper Fisher, who died in Bangor last year, Mr. Tibbetts rejoined his company. The trip was accomplished after much hardship, the men traveling by night and sleeping in hiding places by day.

After campaigning through the country along the lower Mississippi, Mr. Tibbetts was transferred to the department of the Shenandoah and was at Cedar Creek at the time of General Sheridan's famous ride from Winchester.

After his discharge from the service he returned to his home in Exeter, where he was married in 1867 to Sadie A. Pease of that town. He engaged in business as carpenter and contractor for many years. Later he removed to Seal Harbor where he was prominently identified with the business of that town and where he founded the now famous Jordan Pond house. He also held office for many years as fish and game warden.

Coming to Bangor Mr. Tibbetts engaged in business as contractor and builder, and under the regime of Mayor Beal was appointed building inspector, holding office for many terms.

Mr. Tibbetts was prominently identified with the affairs of the G. A. R., being a past commander of B. H. Beale post and serving for many years as chaplain of the organization. He was also an active worker in the Maine Department of the Grand Army holding the offices of junior and senior vice commander and also minor offices.

He was a good citizen as well as a brave soldier, and was held in the highest esteem by his fellowmen. In August of the present year he and his wife, who survives him, celebrated their sixtieth anniversary.

For a brief period, following his marriage, Mr. Tibbetts was in the wholesale beef business in Iowa, with the exception of that short time and his war service, his life was spent in his native state.

Mr. Tibbetts came of pioneer stock. His grandfather, Abner Tibbetts, came to Bangor shortly after the Revolution, he and his brothers having participated in many battles. For years Abner conducted the only saw mill in this city, he later going to Corinth of which he was an early settler.

The name of Tibbetts is one well known and respected in the history of Penobscot County.

Surviving besides his wife, Sadie A. is one son, Edward B. Tibbetts of Stoneham, Mass.; two daughters, Mrs. Lena M. Dodge of Seal Harbor and Mrs. Elsie T. Stover of Bangor; three brothers, Dayton G. and Clarence of Exeter and Corydon of Levant; and a sister, Mrs. Mary F. Pease of Dover-Foxcroft.

Funeral arrangements will be announced.

Mary F. Pease

Mrs. Mary F Pease entered into rest the afternoon of Monday, Aug. 15, after a severe illness of three days at the home of a friend in Dover-Foxcroft where she had lived the past year. Her age was 85 years, 7 months and 11 days, she having been born Dec. 4, 1846, in Exeter. Her parents were Elisha C. and Christiana (Ulmer) Tibbetts, and she was one of a family of two daughters and seven sons, all born at the homestead now occupied by a brother and his family.

She was married to John Lanson Pease of Exeter Nov. 26, 1868, and nearly all of their life together was passed on a farm there. He died Aug. 17, 1916, and their beloved adopted daughter, Edna, had died some time before. Being so lonely, Mrs. Pease sold the farm and moved to Corinna, later living in Dover-Foxcroft where she had many dear friends, and there the last ten years were passed.

Mrs. Pease was fond of flowers and of good books. Her sweet alto voice when heard in hymns and songs was a joy to all. Her kind hands were often employed making little neat dresses for the children at Montlawn, Augusta and other Children's homes. She had made and given several hundred dresses. In her active years as a homemaker she was noted for efficiency, hospitality and kind deeds.

Mrs. Pease is survived by three brothers, Corydon B. Tibbetts, now of Rolla, B. C., Canada; Clarence E. of Exeter and Dayton G. of Bangor; also by many nieces and nephews.

Those of her kindred present at the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Tibbetts, Mrs. Sadie Tibbetts, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stover, Edgar and Charles Tibbetts, all of Bangor; Mrs. Lena Dodge, Seal Harbor; Mrs. Arthur Tibbetts, Hampden; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Freese, Levant; Miss Celia and Miss Margaret Tibbetts, Exeter; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith, Corinna.

To the relatives and old time friends whom Mrs. Pease visited this summer in Exeter, Corinna and Bangor, returning only two weeks ago, her death comes as a swift ending to her long life, as she seemed in usual health and spirits although not as strong as last year. It was indeed a farewell visit.

FAMILY OF JAMES MADISON TIBBETTS OF LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

→ He was the son of Samuel and Frances (Power) Tibbetts

No 257 James Madison[8] Tibbetts (Samuel[7] (No 183), George[6], William[5], Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), b. Dec. 15, 1840, near Greenfield, Hancock Co., Indiana; removed with his parents to Des Moines Co., Iowa, in 1852; attended the country schools in Indiana and Iowa; learned from his father the trade of carpenter and joiner, married Sept. 19, 1862, Joan McNeil, dau. of* N.B. McNeil of Pleasant Grove, Iowa. N.B. McNeil b. in Ohio, of Scotch parentage; his wife Nancy Ann Foster a native of Kentucky. Joan McNeil was born Sept. 2, 1845, in Adams Co., Ohio.

* The above named Nelson Baldridge McNeil b. 6 Nov. 1815 in Ohio

Upon the breaking out of the Civil War, James Madison Tibbetts enlisted (April 23, 1861, age 20, at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa,) in Co. F. 1st Iowa Infantry, at the first call for troops in the three month's service, and was in the battle of Wilson Creek. Discharged Aug. 21, 1861. Re-enlisted Aug. 21, 1862 in Co. K 25th Iowa Infantry. Made 1st to 2nd Lieut. June 10, 1863, 1st Lieut. Aug. 22, 1863. Discharged June 6, 1865, close of war. He was with Gen. Sherman in his attack on Vicksburg in Nov. 1862; at the battle of Arkansas Post Jan. 11, 1863; and at Raymond where the Captain of his company was taken prisoner; he was promoted to Second Lieutenancy; was at Champion Hills, Black River Bridge and through the siege of Vicksburg where he was promoted to First Lieut. He was in numerous battles and raids and was taken sick in crossing the country and sent to the hospital at Paducah for a short time, this being his only sickness during his service. He joined his regiment at Chattanooga, and in crossing the river, owing to a break in the pontoon bridge, his regiment was thrown with Hooker, and he served under him at the battle of Lookout Mountain; was in a number of battles and in the siege and capture of Atlanta. After the siege he was one of the lucky ones to draw a furlough; Was with Shermann in his memorable march to the sea; at the capture of Savannah; in the march across South Carolina, and being on the skirmish line his regiment was the first to enter Columbia. After the surrender of the city Lieut. Tibbetts was placed in command of the Arsenal. He was at the battle of Bentonville, the last battle of the war; then to Raleigh, Richmond and Washington, receiving his preliminary discharge in Washington June 6, 1865 (See p. 1003, Vol. 3, R.I.V.) After the war he returned to Iowa and engaged in farming and other business ventures there until 1873, when he and his wife and child went to California, arriving in Marysville the first of Oct. He settled in Gridley, Butte Co., Cal., where he engaged in building and was very successful for a time. In march, 1881, leaving his wife and daughter at Gridley, he went to work for the So. Pac. R.R. Co., at Deming, New Mexico, where he helped to build the depot, round house and machine shops; from there to El Paso, Texas, where he helped build the wooden R.R. bridge over the Rio Grande river. Poor water, poor food and poor accommodations generally, made him ill, and he returned to California, where he soon recovered, and sending for his wife and daughter, settled permanently in Los Angeles, where he still (1918) resides. The Los Angeles "boom" having started, he found plenty of employment in the building line, and, the boom continuing, he branched out as a general contractor. During the "boom" in Salt Lake City, Utah, in 1890-92, he spent two years in successful building operations in that city, since which time he has lived continuously in Los Angeles, engaged in the business of building contracting until 1907, when he retired. He is a member of the East Gate Lodge #290, Free and Accepted Masons of Los Angeles, Cal. (See History of Los Angeles County, Cal. 1889 edition).

Family of Henry C. Tibbetts of San Diego Co., California.

262 Henry Charles[8] Tibbetts (George[7] (No.190), Benjamin[6], William[5], a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2] Henry[1]), farmer and fruit-grower, born 26 Nov. 1826, near what is now Acton, Franklin township, Marion Co., Indiana, thirteen miles southeast of Indianapolis; died in San Diego, California 23 May 1902, aged 76 years, 5 mos., 27 days; buried in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Lot 32, Division 3, Section 9 (gravestone). He was the second son and third child of George Tibbetts and his wife Mary Burnight, daughter of Jeremiah and Phoebe (Worrall) Burnight.

He married (1) in Franklin township, Marion Co., Indiana, 5 Jan. 1845, Catherine[4] Messinger (John H.[3], Abraham[2], Michael[1]), born 3 Jan. 1827, near Acton, Marion Co., Indiana; died 17 Dec. 1861, near Waverly, Bremer Co., Iowa; buried in the old cemetery just south of Jefferson (now the village of Denver), Bremer Co.; she was daughter of John Hill Messinger and his wife Mary Martha Miller (daughter of Rudio and Abigail Miller), the Messinger family being, in 1822, among the early settlers of Franklin township, Marion Co., Ind., and later, in 1846, were among the first settlers of Jefferson township, Bremer Co., Iowa.

He married (2) in Jefferson township, Bremer Co., Iowa, 14 Apr. 1863, Sarah Ellen[5] Messinger (Amos[4], John H.[3], Abraham[2], Michael[1]), a niece of his first wife, born 11 Sept. 1844, near Acton, Marion Co., Indiana; died 20 Feb. 1880, aged 35 years, 5 mos., 9 days, in Oswego, Kans.; buried in Mt. Carmel Cemetery, Oswego (gravestone); she was daughter of Amos and Hannah Jolly (Dilliner) Messinger, and granddaughter of John Hill and Mary Martha (Miller) Messinger.

He married (3) in College Hill, Hamilton Co., Ohio, in April 1881, Ellen V. Spillard, born in 1836, died in San Diego Co., Calif., in 1889, aged 53 years.

He married (4) in San Diego, Calif., in 1897, Mrs. Elizabeth Rogers who survived him one year.

Henry C. Tibbetts grew to manhood in Marion Co., Indiana. In the spring of 1845 he moved to Iowa, stayed during the first winter in Linn Co., and, in the early spring of 1846, settled in Sec. 16, Jefferson township, Bremer Co., five miles east of what is now the town of Waverly, where he purchased from the U.S.Government, 160 acres of prairie land for his home farm, on the north side of a strip of timber known as the "big woods", skirting the Cedar river. Later he purchased many acres of timber land. The "big woods", now a thing of the past, was a strip of immense forest trees, ten miles long and seven miles wide. The trees were cut down and the land cleared many years ago.

With tremendous energy he carried on farming and took a public-spirited interest in the development of that new country. During his twenty-three years residence in the township, he was known as one of Bremer County's most prominent citizens; was a Free Mason, a member of the Lodge in Waverly.

At the opening of the Civil War, he went to Dubuque and took the examination for enlistment but was exempt from service on account of an injury which he had received, so he did his part by helping the soldiers' families in his neighborhood, furnishing them foodstuff and fire-wood, and by assisting in every way possible the families of his sisters, whose husbands were serving in the war.

He was a school trustee and several early terms of school were taught in the old shop building at the rear of his home.

In October, 1869, he removed with his family to Oswego, Kans., where he resided thirteen years. He built his home on the southwest corner of Sixth Ave. and Kansas street, and his farm extended south from town about one mile. He planted the first orchards in or near Oswego. His great love of trees was remembered by all who knew him.

In politics he was a Republican, but ~~he~~ had no desire to hold public office. In 1873 he was nominated for Representative in the State legislature, but withdrew from the nomination.

In 1880 he divided a part of his land into town lots and opened up the streets, and gave between seven and eight acres of his farm south of town for a cemetery, known as Mt. Carmel cemetery, situated in the southeast corner of Section Twenty-one (town records). (See Oswego Semi-Centennial Celebration, 1866-1916, pp. 37-8-9).

In the Fall of 1882 he sold his home in Oswego to Rev. Josiah Davis and removed with his family to San Diego Co., California, where he spent the remainder of his life. He had made a trip to Calif. a few months previous and purchased valley land for a ranch. This had been known as the Baugh ranch.

23 Feb. 1882 Deed from "W.A. Baugh" to "Henry C. Tibbetts" conveys "N.½ of S.E.¼ and S.W.¼ of S.E.¼ of Sec. 34, Township 18 South, Range 2 West, containing 120 acres." Purchase price, $3000.oo (now in Highland School District). (San Diego County Deeds, Book 41, page 84).

He purchased other property as shown by the following abstract:

18 March 1882 Deed from "Emily O. and N.G.O. Dranga" to "Henry C Tibbetts" covering property in Tia Juana Valley described as follows:

"South half of S.W. quarter of Sec. 27 and North half of N.W. quarter of Sec. 34, all in Township 18, South of Range 2, West of San Bernardino base and meridian, containing one hundred and sixty acres." Recorded 30 March 1882. (San Diego County Deeds, Book 42, page 160).

His home was near Nestor P.O. and about three miles from the head of San Diego Bay. The old National City and Otay R.R. (later called the San Diego and Southeastern R.R.) ran through his ranch on the route of the old Yuma stage-coach road, with the station called Nestor. The post-office still remains at Nestor but the railroad was discontinued many years ago. However, the right-of-way for the present San Diego and Arizona R.R. covers much the same ground between National City and Tia Juana, whereas the county highway, a paved throughfare, follows exactly the same line through his Nestor property as did the former National City and Otay R.R.

In 1891 he subdivided a part of his land into a forty-acre tract known as "Tibbetts Tract," being a sub-division of S½ of S¼ of Sec. 27, and N½ of N.W.¼ of Sec. 34, Township 18 S., Range 2 W." as per a "licensed surveyor's map," filed in Map Book 14, page 659, County Recorder's office. Filed 23 March 1891. "Said Tract consists of lots 1 to 14."

He planted fig and pear orchards, orange, lemon, apricot, peach and many other trees. He also engaged in rose culture and set out many rose bushes of the French Manetta stock, which were sent from France. It is the wild rose of France. Onto these were budded the finest varieties of California roses, the bushes and buds being obtained from the Botanical Gardens at Coronado.

His house, built in 1889 on lot 14 of the above-mentioned tract, stands on a high elevation near the main highway and commands a view of the valley road and of the Pacific Ocean.
A few months before his death he sold his home to a Mr. Frisby but it has changed ownership several times since. It is owned now, 1932, by Alfred Curtin Burtner who has six acres of the land.

He was a man of untiring industry and of the strictest integrity, of generous spirit, a good neighbor, always ready to lend neighborly assistance wherever needed. He was always a great reader, especially of history and biography and matters of geographic importance. Many interesting experiences were connected with his long and useful life.

Family of Rev. Calvin and Emily Jane (Tibbetts) Frady of Acton, Marion Co., Indiana and Bertram, Linn Co., Iowa.

263 Emily Jane[8] Tibbetts (George,[7] (No. 190), Benjamin,[6] William,[5] a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), was born 27 Sept. 1828 in Franklin township, Marion Co., Indiana, near Pleasant View, and near what is now the village of Acton, the second daughter and fourth child of George and Mary (Burnight) Tibbetts. She was always called by her middle name Jane. She died 12 March 1899, aged 70 years, at the home of her son Chaplain Charles H. Frady, in Neligh, Nebraska.

She married first, in Franklin township, Marion Co., Indiana, 4 June 1844, Calvin Frady, son of Charles and Nancy Frady, farmer, who later became a minister in the United Brethren Church. He was born 22 Sept. 1826 in Ashville, Buncombe Co., North Carolina; died with smallpox 23 Apr. 1855, at Marysville, Benton Co., Iowa; buried there. (Gravestone). Marysville is about six miles from Vinton, on the east side of the Cedar River. He was a circuit rider and preached at Lisbon, Linn Co., Iowa (near Mt. Vernon), at Center Point, Marysville, and various other points. He preached part of the time in German and had a German Bible.

She married secondly, at Dakota, Winona Co., Minnesota, 22 Mar. 1856, Duane Reynolds, born at Berlin, Huron Co., Ohio, died in Ft. Scott, Kans., in 1884 or 1886, son of Marvin Waite Reynolds, carpenter and builder, born 9 March 1800 at Norwich Landing or Griswold, New London Co., Connecticut, who removed from Broome Co., N.Y. in 1856 to Winona Co., Minn., abdd his wife Eunice Carpenter, born at Hudson, Columbia Co., N.Y., 15 Jan. 1808 (whom he married at De Ruyter, N.Y., 6 Oct. 1824), fourth daughter of Alsop Carpenter of Hudson, who later lived and died at Horseheads, near Elmira, N.Y., and his wife Elizabeth Bunker (whom he married about 1800), daughter of Francis and Eunice (Macy) Bunker who were married at Hudson, N.Y., about 1770.

She married third, in 1886, Hiram Bennett; they removed to San Diego, Calif. She was a widow for many years, and a short time before her death went to live with her son in Neligh, Nebr.

She was an earnest Christian, a woman of keen intellect, great intelligence and energetic temperament.

To her the compiler of these records is indebted for preserving and contributing genealogical data which made it possible to connect our Tibbetts brahcnes with the early New England lines.

Rev. Calvin and Emily Jane (Tibbetts) Frady had six children, the oldest one born in Marion Co., Indiana, ii., iii., iv. and v. born near what is now Bertram, Linn Co., Iowa, the youngest born in Bremer Co., Iowa, as follows:

The Frady Family.

The above-named Rev. Calvin Frady was the son of Charles Frady, born 22 Jan. 1787, and Nancy his wife (whom he married about 1820). who moved from Buncombe Co., North Carolina, to Johnson Co., Ind., about 1842.

They, Charles and Nancy Frady, are buried at Edinburgh, Indiana. They were the parents of ten children, all of whom were born in Asheville, North Carolina. This Charles Crady's parents were Moravians and were of German ancestry, and probably also of French ancestry. A colony of Moravians settled at Salem, North Carolina about 1735. One of Charles Frady's uncles went with Daniel Boone into Kentucky about the time of the Revolution.

The above-named Charles Frady had a brother William. They lived in Kentucky, what is Kentucky now - it was then Virginia.

A Mrs. Newman, who resides at Garden Grove, Calif., (not far from Santa Ana), was a granddaughter of William Frady. Her father spoke German and this Mrs. Newman never spoke anything but German until she was eighteen.

Among the children of Charles Frady and his wife Nancy, all of whom were born at Asheville, North Carolina, were Alfred (among whose descendants are Mrs. Cora Johnston of Greensburg, Indiana, C.C. Frady, an attorney of Indianapolis, Ind., and others residing in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Waterloo, Iowa, and Portland, Oregon); Mary, who married a Mr. Adams and lived in Indiana; Caroline, who married a Mr. Whitnack and resided in Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Eliza, who married a Mr. Browning and lived in Prairie Co., Ark., east of Little Rock; and Sarah, who married a Mr. Todd and lived in Prairie Co., Ark., who had lived in Sac City, Iowa, in 1870, and went from there to Arkansas (and who, tradition says, was a brother of Mrs. Abraham Lincoln), besides the above-named Rec. Calvin Frady, who married Emily Jane Tibbetts. (The Adams's lived near Franklin, Indiana, and members of these families are buried at Franklin. Some of them went to Linn Co., Iowa but returned to Franklin, Ind.).

Rev. Calvim and Emily Jane (Tibbetts) Frady had six children, the oldest one born in Marion Co., Indiana, ii., iii., iv and v. born near what is now Bertram, Linn Co., Iowa, the youngest one born in Bremer Co., Iowa, as follows:

i. William T. Frady, born 22 June 1845; died 4 Oct. 1849.

ii. Charles Henry Frady, born 24 July 1847. (Further records hereafter).

iii. Mary A. Frady, born 3 Aug. 1849; died 28 Aug. 1854.

iv. Alfred Frady, born 28 April 1851; died 7 May 1851.

v. Emily E. Frady, born 22 July 1852; died 10 May 1855.

vi. George Robert Frady, born 15 Sept. 1854. (Further records hereafter).

Family of Rev. M. Luther Tibbetts of Winona Co., Minnesota and Toledo, Tama County, Iowa.

265 Rev. Martin Luther[8] Tibbetts (George[7] (No. 190), Benjamin[6], William[5], a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), was born 30 May 1833 in Franklin township, Marion Co., Indiana, near Pleasant View and near what is now the town of Acton. He died 14 Jan. 1916, aged 82 years, in Puente, Calif. He was the fourth son and sixth child of George and Mary (Burnight) Tibbetts. He was always called by his middle name, Luther.

He married first, in Winona Co., Minnesota, 19 Aug. 1855, Eliza M. Warren, born 29 March 1839 in Clinton Co., New York. She died in Sherburne, Minn., 10 Oct. 1908, aged 69 years, 6 mos., 12 days; buried in Toledo, Tama Co., Iowa. She was daughter of Alphonzo and Mary Warren who removed with their family to Minnesota and settled in the village of Dresbach, Winona County in 1854. She was a sister of the Warhum Weldon Warren who married her husband's sister Martha Tibbetts.

He married secondly, in Sherburne, Minn., 12 Oct. 1909, Mrs. Henrietta Dunn who survived him.

Rev. M. Luther Tibbetts was a well-known minister of the United Brethren church, a member of the Minnesota Conference for thirty-nine years, prominent in all its councils, excelled by none in the hardships endured and the services rendered. He was honoured seven quadrenniums with membership in the General Conference, where he ably and faithfully served his people and where his deliberation, business acumen and leadership were recognized by all. He was a member of the Minnesota Legislature in 1872-1873.

He spent his boyhood on his father's farm in Marion Co., Indiana; at the age of twelve years was taken by his parents to Iowa and a few years later to Minnesota. At the age of seventeen he was employed by the Indian traders and went with them to the Winnebago agency, then located at Long Prairie, one hundred and fifty miles northwest from St. Paul, Minn.

After his marriage he bought 240 acres of land in Winona Co., Minn., and opened up a farm. Two years later he rented his farm and entered upon the work of the ministry of the United Brethren church. He was ordained in the Fall of 1857 at the quarterly conference held by Presiding Elder J.W. Fulkerson. He spent the winter in revival work in Iowa, assisting Revs. Murphy, Scott and Shaffer in their respective fields of labor.

"Our Heroes or United Brethren Home Missionaries," vol. ii, issued 1911 by the U.B. Publishing House, Dayton, Ohio has the following:

"At the annual conference held at Preston, Minn., Aug. 1858, Bishop Davis presided and Rev. M. Luther Tibbetts was appointed to Pine Creek Mission. The new field embraced quite a number of appointments scattered across a section of southern Minnesota, seventy miles in extent. The next year he was appointed to Richland Circuit where he was cordially received and where he spent two years as pastor. A constant revival prevailed at nearly all of his appointments and over one hundred accessions were reported.

In Sept.,1863 he was made Presiding Elder and continued five years in the office. He had charge of the entire conference district which embraced a territory three hundred miles square. These great distances were travelled on horse-back as there were no railroads in the state. At times he was absent from his family eight weeks, hearing but little, if anything, from them. Twice he was lost in the storms and had his face and his feet frozen. But he kept on with his work. God's man is always invincible. Though he may be hindered for awhile, he is never defeated.

In 1868 he took charge of Eyota Circuit and remained its pastor three years and here his financial support was better. The first year he spent one hundred and five days in revivals. About two hundred were converted and one hundred and sixty united with the church.

As a temperance advocate and reformer Rev. Luther Tibbetts was strong and courageous and won the confidence and sympathy of the best people of the country. His courage and ability as a platform speaker led the people to nominate him for the Legislature in 1872. He was elected,so consequently for a time he served in a special w way his country and his church."

For thirty years he was in the active ministry in the Minnesota conference, serving as pastor seventeen years and as Presiding Elder eighteen years. He was chosen a delegate to the General Conference seven quadrenniums and attended all of the sessions from 1865 to 1897, with the exception of the one held at Dayton in 1893.

At different periods he and his family resided in the following places: In 1857, at Dakota, Winona Co., Minn.; in 1859, in Quincy township, Olmsted Co., Minn.; in 1861, in Waukakee, Fillmore Co., Minn.; in 1876, at Western, Linn Co., Iowa; in 1879, and for a few years thereafter, at Elmira, Olmsted Co., Minn.

In 1891 he transferred to Iowa conference and removed with his family to Toledo, Tama Co., Iowa, to give his children the benefit of better educational advantages, and he served as pastor of the church in Toledo for ten years.

In 1904 he retired from active work of the ministry and removed with his wife to Whittier, Calif., where they lived four years, when his wife's health failed and they returned to Minnesota where she died soon after. She was buried in Toledo, Iowa, where she had been for many years a quiet, faithful worker in the church and devoted to all things that pertain to a Christian home.

ii. Emma Pierce, born 30 April 1858, in Dresbach, Winona Co., Minn.; removed with her parents to Oswego, Kans.; removed later to San Diego, Calif.

She married in San Diego, Calif., 16 June 1878, William Lafayette Detrick, born in Greencastle, Indiana, 9 Dec. 1855, the son of John Detrick, a native of Ohio, and his wife Virginia Fenton Farrow who was born in Kentucky. (Note: The above-named John Detrick's parents came from Holland and settled first in Pennsylvania). William L. Detrick went to the Klondike in 1898, was ship-wrecked when about half-way between San Francisco and Seattle; only three were saved out of the ship's passengers and he was one of five men (two of whom died) who were 160 hours in a life-boat. He had his feet frozen and was taken to the Marine Hospital in Vancouver. Upon his recovery, he went on up to Klondike where he spent two years, and then returned to San Diego, Calif. He suffered all the rest of his life from the effects of the exposure endured on the trip north.

William L. and Emma (Pierce) Detrick resided for many years at Julian, San Diego Co., Calif., and named their mountain home, "Forest Hill", She died 12 Dec. 1921; buried in Julian cemetery beside her mother. Her funeral services were conducted by Rev. Wood who had known the Detricks ever since they first settled in Julian thirty-five years before. All local business was suspended during the morning and practically the entire community attended the funeral.

William L. Detrick survived his wife six years and died in Placerville, Calif., 21 Sept. 1928, aged 74 years. He was known and beloved for his sterling qualities. In the year 1886 he and his wife came to Julian and settled at Pine Hills on the home ranch that is now (1935) owned by their son Rex A. Detrick.

Children:

Family of Warhum Weldon and Martha (Tibbetts) Warren of Cherokee, Kansas.

268 Martha[8] Tibbetts (George,[7] (No. 190), Benjamin,[6] William,[5] a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), was born 1 March 1840 near Acton, Marion Co., Indiana. She was the ninth child and fifth daughter of George and Mary (Burnight) Tibbetts. She was but five years of age when her parents removed from Acton, Indiana to Bremer Co., Iowa, and a few years later to Dakota, Winona Co., Minnesota. She married in Dakota, Minn., 1 Sept. 1855, Warhum Weldon Warren, born 30 Dec. 1836 in Clinton Co., New York.

They removed from Winona Co., Minn., to Cherokee Co., Kansas in 1868, where they lived on a farm about half way between Oswego and the town of Cherokee. They later lived in the town of Cherokee for a few years. She died 5 April 1885 in Ottawa, Kansas, buried at Cherokee, Kans., an earnest Christian and a woman of sweet disposition, greatly beloved by all of her relatives. Her grave is marked by a gravestone placed there in 1914 by her son Albert. She was survived by her husband, who removed to Auburn, Nebraska and died there 1 Nov. 1890, having married secondly Ada Curtis, by whom no issue. He is buried by the side of his second wife and her mother, and their graves are marked by a gravestone which bears the names of all three. He served in the Civil War, in 66th Illinois regt., enlisting from Winona Co., Minn., in 1861; was a Lieut. sharp-shooter; served nearly four years. He was the eldest son of Alphonzo and Mary Warren who removed from Clinton Co., New York to Lyons, Clinton Co., Iowa and later removed to Winona Co., Minn. (See notes of the "Warren family" below). He was a brother of Eliza M. Warren who married Rev. M. Luther Tibbetts (No. 265). (See Hist. Neosho Co., Kans., p. 647. Pub. 1879, his name given Capt. Warhum H. Warren).

Warhum Weldon Warren and Martha (Tibbetts) his wife had five children, all except the last one born in Winona Co., Minn., as follows:

i. Clara M. Warren,[9] born 16 Dec. 1857; received her elementary education in the district schools of Cherokee Co., Kans., and in public schools of Oswego, Kans.; later studied in Ft. Scott, Kans.; taught in the country schools of Cherokee County; married first, in 1880, William Wheeler, a school teacher of intellectual ability, and lived for a time in Cameron, Mo., and then in Cherokee, Kans.

She married secondly, in Summit, Oregon, in 1887, George Henderson Martin and they removedmto Grant's Pass, Oreg., where Mr. Martin died in 1890. He was a brother of Mary Jane Martin who married Cyrus Jeffrey Tibbetts (No. 304). He was the son of John Martin, a well-known farmer of Cherokee Co., Kans., who moved thence from Ohio but was a native of Lancaster, Pa., and Catherine Mountjoy his first wife, who was born in Ohio. (One of Catherine Mountjoy's brothers was consul to some foreign country (think it was China). The above-named John Martin had a brother, Dr. David Roads Martin, a well-known physician of Cherokee Co., Kans. These two Martin brothers were, on one side, of Pennsylvania German ancestry, from Lancaster, Pa. Their maternal uncle was Henry Clay Dean, the noted "Copperhead" of southeastern Iowa, who lived near Burlington. After the death of George Henderson Martin, his widow, Mrs. Clara (Warren) (Wheeler) Martin, removed to Corvallis, Oregon, in which town she lived until 1902, when she went to Zion City, Illinois, where she resided for a few years and then returned to Oregon.

She married thirdly, in Salem, Oregon, in June 1914, Tollman Dearing, and continued to reside in Salem until 1921 when they removed to San Diego, California.

Child by first husband (surname Wheeler, later given the surname of Martin):

1. Harold Ethelbert Wheeler Martin[10], b. 23 Feb. 1881; resided for several years in Sion City, Ill., where he was receiving teller in the Zion City Bank; later removed to Waukegan, Ill., where he has been for nineteen years, respectively, receiving teller, cashier, and is now (1926) vice-president of the Waukegan Security Savings Bank. He married in 1907, Elizabeth Peckham.

   Four children, as follows: (1) William Martin, born 25 Feb. 1909. (2) Paul Martin, b. 27 Nov. 1910 (died in infancy). (3) Harold Martin, b. 24 Aug. 1913; d. in April 1930, aged 17. (4) David Martin, b. in 1919.

Child by second husband:

2. Georgia Martin[10], b. 19 Jan. 1890 at Grant's Pass., Oreg.; when twelve years of age went with her mother and half-brother to Zion City, Ill.; married in 1907 Robert Sandiford. They reside in Joliet, Ill.

   Two children, as follows: (1) Louise Sandiford, b. 15th Dec. 1907. (2) William Sandiford, b. 1 Aug. 1909.

ii. Albert Warren,[9] born 1 Oct. 1859; died at his home in Leavenworth, Kans., 21 March 1916. He married Louise Gotner. No children.

iii. Charles Warren,[9] born 15 Oct. 1861; married in Auburn, Nebr., in 1889, Clara Shristmondson; later went to Oklahoma; he now (1926) resides in Kansas City, Mo.

   Four children, as follows:
   1. Blanch (died young).
   2. Herbert; married and lives in Kansas City.
   3. Pearl, married and lives in Kansas City.
   4. Marguerite, married.

iv. Luther Warren,[9] born 28 April 1866; resided for several years in Salem, Oreg.; resides now (1939) in San Diego, Calif. He married 23 Sept. 1890 Josephine Fourcade. No children.

v. May Warren,[9] B.S. (Oregon Agricultural College, 1890), born 21 July 1869 in Cherokee Co., Kans.; died 29 March 1939 in San Diego, Calif.; she was sixteen years of age when her mother died and from that time until her marriage she resided in the home of her sister Clara (Mrs. George H. Martin). She entered the Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis, Oreg., in the fall of 1886 and received from that college the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1890. She taught school at Grant's Pass, Oreg., and in country schools near Corvallis, Oregon.

She married in Corvallis, Oreg., 21 July 1899, Don Henry Woodward, born 25 Sept. 1871 in Corvallis, Oreg., the son of Elias Woodward, a native of New Hampshire, who has been for many years a prominent resident of Corvallis, and of Benton Co., Oreg., having been a school teacher, county school superintendent, representative in the legislature of Oregon in 18 , county judge eight years, and a druggist in Corvallis for Thirty years, now retired, and Nellie Allen his wife, who was born in Oregon.

Don Henry Woodward and May (Warren) his wife resided for nineteen years after their marriage on a farm near Corvallis, which was given them by his father. They moved to Salem, Oreg., in 1918, and in 1921 removed to San Diego, Calif.

Two children, both born near Corvallis, Oreg., as follows:

1. Harold Ethelbert Woodward[10], b. 29 Sept. 1900; resides with his parents in San Diego, Calif.
2. On account of his parents' limited financial means, it became necessary for him to seek business employment. In 1924 his father's cousin, Mr. Burt Brown Barker of Montclair, New Jersey, came to Calif., and offered to take Paul home with him and give him the opportunity to continue his education. This offer was gladly accepted and Paul was graduated from the High School in Montclair, N.J., in June 1925, after which he accompanied Mr. Barker and family to Paris, France for a three months' stay. In the fall of 1926 he entered Wharton School of Finance, Univ. of Pennsylvania. In the Fall of 1928 he entered the Univ. of Oregon, at Eugene, Oreg., where he was a student two years; was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilom, Greek letter fraternity.

Family of Alphonzo and Mary Warren of Dresbach, Winona Co., Minnesota, Quincy, Olmstead Co., Minn., later of Chain Lake, Martin Co., Minn.

Alphonzo and Mary Warren removed from Clinton County, New York to Lyons, Clinton Co., Iowa, and lived on a farm near the Wappsipinecke River. They later removed to Quincy, Minnesota.

In 1849, Alphonzo went to California in mule-train - pack mules - starting from Quincy, Minnesota. During his absence in California at the time of the "gold excitement", his wife Mary lived with her son Delos in Quincy, Minn. When Alphonzo returned from California, he and his wife removed, in 1854, to the village of Dresbach, Winona Co., Minnesota. They later removed to Quincy, Olmstead Co., Minn., in 1858, and still later removed to Chain Lake, Martin Co., Minnesota. His wife Mary died there about 1874.

After her death, Alphonzo spent the next few years in the home of his daughter Eliza (Mrs. M. Luther Tibbetts), but died at the home of his son William Warren, in Lincoln, Nebraska, in 1883.

Alphonzo and Mary Warren had children, as follows:

i. Warhum Weldon, born 30 December 1836, in Clinton County, New York. He married in Dakota, Winona Co., Minn., in 1855, Martha M. Tibbetts, daughter of George and Mary (Burnight) Tibbetts. (See No.268).

Family of Alexander W. and Sarah Ann (Tibbetts) Reynolds of San Jose, Calif., and Ukiah, Calif.

269 Sarah Ann[8] Tibbetts (George,[7] (No.190), Benjamin,[6] William,[5] a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), was born 31 May 1842, in Franklin township, Marion Co., Indiana, near Pleasant View and near what is now the town of Acton; died at Turlock, Calif., 23 Sept. 1925, aged 83 years, 3 mos., 23 days; buried at Turlock. She was the youngest child of George and Mary (Burnight) Tibbetts. She was but three years of age when she was taken by her parents to Iowa and a few years later to Winona Co., Minnesota.

She married first, at Dakota, Winona Co., Minn., 7th May 1856, Alexander Woodworth Reynolds, born 16 May 1832 at Olean, Cattaraugus Co., New York; died 18 July 1879 in Ukiah, Mendocino Co., Cal.; buried in I.O.O.F. Cemetery, Ukiah. He was of genealogical line:

He was the son of Marvin Waite Reynolds, born 9 March 1800 in New York state, and his wife Eunice Carpenter, born 15 Jan. 1808 at Hudson, Columbia Co., N.Y., who were married 6 Oct. 1824 at De Puyter, Madison Co., N.Y., and resided for many years near Binghamton, Broome Co., N.Y., and removed in 1856 with their ten children (seven sons and three daughters), from Broome Co., N.Y., to New Hartford, Winona Co., Minnesota, where Marvin Waite Reynolds died two years later (in 1858), and his brother Nathan died the same week in or near Springfield, Illinois. Marvin Waite Reynolds was the son of Nathan and Hannah (Crandall) Reynolds, who lived at Norwich Landing or Griswold, New London Co., Connecticut, where their four sons and three daughters were born. They later removed to Chenango Co., N.Y., where Nathan Reynolds died, a very old man. (See notes on the Reynolds family below).

Mrs. Sarah Ann (Tibbetts) Reynolds married secondly, in Lake Co., Calif., 6 May 1883, Sherman B. Coder, born 6 May 1835 in Elkhart, Indiana, died in Lake Co., Calif., July, 1885, a Civil War veteran who had served in 44th Regt. Indiana Volunteers. She survived him forty years and spent the last years of her life in the home of her daughter Lydia (Mrs. Wm. R. McIntyre) and died at her home near Turlock, Calif. She was a woman of rare personality, of a deeply religious nature, a member of the Methodist church, beloved by all who knew her. Seven of her grandsons served in the World War with American expeditionary forces in France.

She and her first husband, Alexander Woodworth Reynolds, moved from Winona Co., Minn., to Jefferson township, Bremer Co., Iowa in 1858. They, with their two oldest children, removed to California in 1860, going by water by way of Isthmus of Panama. On 30 Dec. 1859 they went by train from Dubuque, Iowa to New York City and their journey took nine days. On account of storms the railroad tracks were glassed over with ice and the trains had to go slowly. In Jan., 1860, they sailed by steamer from New York to Aspinwall, being eight days on the journey; arrived in Aspinwall in the evening and remaining on board the steamer all night, took the train next morning at 4 o'clock across the Isthmus to Panama (forty miles). They sailed from Panama to San Francisco on the old "Orizaba". They settled in San Jose, Calif. Mr. Reynolds was a Nathan Reynolds, my great grandfather, married Hannah Crandall. He was 84 or 86 years old when he died. They had seven children: They lived at Norwich Landing or Griswold New London Co., Conn. Moved to Chenango Co., N.Y.

Children, all born at Norwich Landing, or Griswold, New London Co., Connecticut:

i. Nathan, died aged 19 years.

ii. Sanford, married Sarah Wright. They had two children, John and Emily. Emily married Wm. Greene who died some time about the beginning of the Civil War. They lived in Fairfax Co., Va., and after Greene's death his son John went there. He died in 1864 when the rebel troops were encamped around their house. (I corresponded with Cousin Emily for some time after I came to Calif. then neglected to write. She visited us in New York state and was a very fine woman. I have her picture or had it not long ago. She, as was her mother, was a Quakeress.) The above-named John Reynolds and his sister Emily (Reynolds) Greene both died childless.

iii. Marvin Waite, born March 9, 1800 married Eunice Carpenter, Oct. 6, 1824 at De Ruyter, N.Y. She was born Jan. 15, 1808 at Hudson, Columbia Co., N.Y.

iv. Nathan, married Almira Steary and they moved to Sangamon Co., Ill. They had one son, John, and possibly another but I am not sure. Nathan's wife died and he came back to York State and married secondly, Rhoda Potter. They had two children, Estella and Otero. Nathan died in 1858. (Later his wife Rhoda, with the children, came to York state and stayed at Uncle Wm. Rose's where I lived then, so I got quite well acquainted with them. Have heard that they are all dead.)

v. Hannah, married Wm. Rose; no children; she died at Binghampton, N.Y. in 1859.

vi. Ruby, married Israel Reynolds. He lived only a year. They had no children. (She came to San Francisco, California, and died at Aunt Eusebia's, aged 90 years.

vii. Slonia, married Nehemiah Park; no children. Both died in 1866 or 1867.

Francis Bunker married Eunice Macy at Hudson, N.Y. about 1770 and they had seven children, Robert, Alexander, Shubel, Gorham, Elizabeth Mary and Susannah.

My great grandfather, Alsop Carpenter, married Elizabeth Bunker about 1800. They lived and died at Horseheads, near Elmira, New York. They had nine children. Three died young. The others were: Lydia, married Wm. Parker; Hannah, married Moss Barber; Phoebe, married Allen Coffin; Eunice, married Marvin W. Reynolds; Sarah, married Wm. Lounsbury; and Susannah who married Samuel Palmer.

(You have probably heard Aunt Eusebia tell about the Parkers and Palmers and Lounsburys. They lived at Horseheads, near Elmira, N.Y., where grandfather Carpenter lived and died).

Marvin Waite Reynolds born March 9, 1800 married Eunice Carpenter at De Ruyter, Madison Co., N.Y., Oct. 6, 1824, and they had ten children:

1. Hannah Jane Reynolds, born at De Ruyter Sept. 8, 1825. She married Solomon Johnson. She died June 20, 1855. Solomon Johnson died in July 1849. They had one child, Nathan Augustus, born Mar. 11, 1845, in Greene, Chenango Co., N.Y.

2. Eusebia Reynolds, born at Pitcher, Chenango Co., N.Y., Apr. 15, 1828; married Franklin L. Thayer at Chenango Forks. They had two children: Leonore, born at Chenango Forks; Mary Alwilda, born, I think, at Jenny Lind, Calif. She died at San Francisco, Calif. in Feb. 1925 aged 97 years

3. Don Alonzo Reynolds, born at Pitcher, Chenango Co., N.Y., June 18, 1830. He married and he died in Minn. or Iowa in the early 60's. They had one child, a daughter; all trace of her is lost.

4. Alexander Woodworth Reynolds, born at Olean, Cattaraugus Co., N.Y.. May 16, 1832. He married Sarah Ann Tibbetts. He died at Ukiah, Calif. on July 19th 1879

5. Duane Reynolds, born at Berlin, Huron Co., Ohio, Aug. 1, 1834. He married Mrs. Jane (Tibbetts) Frady. He died about 1886.

6. Nathan Carmi Reynolds, born at Berlin, Huron Co., Ohio, Dec. 18, 1836. He married Lizzie Eames in San Francisco, Calif., in 1868. They had one child whom they named Lizzie and who is now living in San Francisco; she married Frank Lechner. Nathan Carmi's wife died and he married secondly, Malvina Gray and they had three children, namely, Arthur Gray Reynolds, Russell Bunker Reynolds and Eunice Reynolds. Eunice died when an infant. Arthur Gray married Lottie Cubertson in Redlands. Russell B. married ~~Lottie~~ Mrs. Lizzie Aylesworth of Providence, R.I., at Redlands, Calif. He died at Grafton, Calif. on August 28th 1899

7. William Marvin, born at Pitcher, Chenango Co., N.Y., Mar. 19, 1840. He enlisted in the army during the Civil War and died in New Orleans in 1863, I think.

8. Ruby Emily Reynolds, born at Barker, Broome Co., N.Y., Aug. 1, 1843. She married Leroy Burnight, and they had two children, Thomas and Edith Burnight. Edith married a Mr. Sheath. Ruby Emily (Reynolds) Burnight died in Oakland, Calif., Dec. 3, 1882. She died in San Francisco in 1915. No children. Thomas Burnight was living at Ukiah, Calif. in 1911 and died a few years later. He married Annie ___. No children.

9. Alsop Carpenter Reynolds, born at Chenango Forks, Broome Co., N.Y., March 2, 1845. He died in the army in 1862, only a little more than 17 years old.

10. Henry Clay Reynolds, born at Chenango Forks, Broome Co., N.Y., Dec. 28, 1846. He married Rebecca Jane Love in San Luis Obispo, Calif., and they had four children, Lily, Carmi, Lottie and Maud. Lily Reynolds married a Mr. Kyte and they had one child, Luella. Mr. Kyte died and Lily married secondly, Charles Dieves, an engineer on the S. P. R.R. Carmi Reynolds married Lovett ----- . He is local manager of a lumber company at San Luis Obispo.

Family of Charles F. and Betsey W. (Cook) Tibbetts of Manchester, Dearborn Co., Indiana and Alhambra, Ill.

270 Charles Farrington[8] Tibbetts (Benjamin,[7] (No. 191), Benjamin,[6] William,[5] a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), of Manchester, Ind., and Alhambra, Ill., farmer and cooper, born 19 Dec. 1825 in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana; died in Alhambra, Madison Co., Ill., 26 Sept. 1900, aged 74 years. He was the eldest son and second child of Benjamin and Sarah (Heustis) Tibbetts.

He married 27 May 1847, Betsey Wardwell Cook in Manchester, Dearborn Co., Ind., Judge Alfred J. Cotton officiating (See "Cotton's Keepsake," page). She was born 20 Jan. 1830 in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Ind.; died 28 Oct. 1894 in Alhambra, Ill. She was daughter of Moses Cook who removed west from Oxford, ~~xxxx~~ Maine, about 1827, settled first in Ohio and later in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Ind., and his wife Philena Hawk whom he married in Manchester, Dearborn Co., Ind., Judge Alfred J. Cotton officiating.

In "Cotton's Keepsake," a book of pioneer history, of nearly five hundred pages, written by Judge Alfred J. Cotton of Manchester, Dearborn Co., Ind., the author states that among the marriage ceremonies he had performed were those of Moses Cook abd Philena Hawk (no date given), and (further down the list), of Charles F. Tibbetts and Betsey Cook (two generations being represented in these two marriages).

In 1866 Charles F. and Betsey W. (Cook) Tibbetts removed with their family from Manchester, Dearborn Co., Ind., to Alhambra, Ill., where they resided for many years and where both died.

Children (eleven), all born in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana:

An uncle of Benjamin Asbury Thornburgh was Ben, Thornburgh, a steamboat pilot on the Mississippi river, plying between St. Louis and New Orleans, and an early friend of Mark Twain.

Mark Twain, in Harper's Weekly, in offering a tribute to his dead friend, Carl Schurtz, compared the latter to Ben. Thornburgh, as incomparable for trust and confidence.

Benjamin Asbury Thornburgh was a chip off the old block - trustful, reliable, the very soul of honour, worthy of homage and reverence. In 1847 his parents settled in Mexico, Mo., where he grew to manhood.

Children of Benjamin Asbury and Sarah Philena (Tibbetts) Thornburgh, all born in Mexico, Mo., as follows:

276 Sarah Emily[8] Tibbetts (Rev. Jonathan S.[7] (No. 192), Benjamin[6], William[5], a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), was born in Manchester township, Dearborn County, Indiana, 28 February 1840; died at her home in Oakland, California, 10 February 1919, aged 78 years, 11 mos., buried in Mountain View cemetery, Oakland.

She was the third daughter and fourth child of Rev. Jonathan Snow Tibbetts and Mary Redding his wife.

She married first, in Oakland, Oregon, 28 September 1855, John Pickett Ladd, born 1825, in Richmond, Va., died in Oregon, in 1865, his death due to an accident, by falling from a sluice in a mining camp; he was a member of one of the well known families of Richmond, Va., his mother being a relative of Gen. Pickett, the famous southern General of the Civil War. (Note: He had a sister Caroline who died unmarried, and a brother, Robert Ladd of Portland, Oregon, who married Elizabeth Knott, and had children, among whom was Mrs. Jennie (Ladd) Warren, and Douglas Ladd, both of Portland, Oregon).

Sarah Emily (Tibbetts) Ladd married secondly, in San Francisco, Calif., 15 August 1872, John Cobley Gouldin, an Englishman by birth, a man of considerable wealth and a prominent resident of Oakland, Calif., where he died

Their home was for several years in Fruitvale, Calif. After the death of her husband Mrs. Gouldin lived at Cote Brilliante, one of the famous homesteads of the original Piedmont tract, when Piedmont was still considered in the country. Her later residence was on Vernon Heights, Oakland. At the time of her death the Oakland newspapers paid the following tribute:

"When Mrs. Gouldin died last week there were many earners of modest wages in Oakland, especially sales-girls, clerks and stenographers, who mourned the loss of a friend. There was no keeper of a flower or candy shop in Oakland who did not know Mrs. Gouldin. The reason was that she was the constant patron in making purchases of candy or flowers to be sent to some girl who had waited upon her at a department store, or some stenographer whom she might have met at a lawyer's office or at a bank. Although Mrs. Gouldin lived in a beautiful home, the old Frank Haven's place on Vernon Heights, when she walked out on the streets of Oakland it was no common thing for a roughly-clad labourer, or an unkempt foreigner to greet her cheerily and receive an equally cheery response. The children in the neighborhood regarded her as their best grandmother, and her death caused great grief among them. Her funeral services were held in the Methodist church, Twenty-first and Broadway, and burial was at Mountain View cemetery. She was survived by two daughters by her former marriage, and by two grandsons".

She was a woman of great personal charm. To her we are indebted for the account here furnished of the descendants of the descendants of Rev. Jonathan Snow Tibbetts (her father), and the trip across the plains to Oregon in 1852.

She and her brothers and sisters were all members of the Oregon Pioneer Association, and four sisters and tow brothers attended the Fortieth Annual Reunion held in Portland, Oregon, 20 June 1912. About one thousand aged pioneers attended this meeting.

She and her brothers and sisters, in the days of their youth, attended school at Wright's Corners, Lower Manchester, Dearborn County, Indiana, their schoolmaster being Judge Alfred J. Cotton. All remembered vividly the trip across the plains to Oregon with their parents in 1852.

In August, 1912 five of the sisters attended a reunion at the home of Hon. and Mrs. Binger Hermann, in Roseburg, Oregon, Mrs. Hermann being one of the sisters. They visited Oakland, Oregon, Shoostring Valley and other nearby communities where they spent their early days. Their father, Rev. Jonathan S. Tibbetts, a pioneer Methodist minister of Southern Oregon is well remembered in this section of the state, where for many years he was closely associated with such interesting personages as Father Wilbur, I. D. Driver and Rev. Robert Booth.

Children by first husband (surname Ladd):

i. Mary Elizabeth[9], born Jan, 1857, died in infancy.

318 ii. Carrie Ellen[9], born 15 August 1859; married in San Francisco, Calif., John Nelson Emerson Wilson. (Further records hereafter).

iii. Robert Shirley[9], born Sept. 1861, died in infancy, in Oakland, Oregon.

iv. Aida Lucile[9], born 9 July 1864; in Sacramento, California; married in Brookline, Mass., 12 June 1895, as his second wife, George Hooper Taylor, prominent banker and vice-president of E. H. Rollins & Sons. She now a widow, resides in Chicago, Ill. She was formerly a member of the Chicago Woman's Athletic Club and interested in the Boy's Shelter Club at Allendale, Ill. She has had no children, but for several years her nephew, John Taylor Wilson, resided in herhhome and his education and travels abroad were under the supervision of herself and Mr. Taylor and he took the name of Taylor for his middle name.

George Hooper Taylor, Esq., was born 22 November 1847, at Norridgewock, Maine; died 12 June 1922, at his home in Chicago, Ill., where he had been a resident for many years; buried in Fairview Cemetery, Denver, Colorado. He was the son of Joshua R. and Lydia (Eaton) Taylor. He was reared upon a farm until he was nineteen years of age and then went into the stone-cutting business; later became a general contractor. He built part of the Welland Canal; built also a part of the New York Central Railroad and tracked the same from Buffalo to Batavia, N. Y. At the time of the great silver strike in Leadville, Colorado, and the discovery of carbonate ore he decided to try his luck out there with the rest of the pioneers. He arrived in Leadville in 1879 and went into the mining business; later engaged in building contracting and built some of the most important county roads and bridges in the state of Colorado. In the early eighties he became acquainted with E. W. Rollins who purchased 36000 Garfield County bonds for him to sell. He subsequently associated himself with Mr. Rollins in 1884 which firm later was incorporated into E. H. Rollins & Sons, of which he was a director and vice-president. He was for many years a member of the Board of Governors of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, and for several years chairman of the Finance Committee.

He was president of the Spokane & Inland Empire R. R. Co. and President of the Spokane Eastern Railway Light & Power Co. and a director in many other corporations. He was recognized as one of the best authorities on "Reorganization" in the United States.

He was spoken of as the "Dean" of the bond profession, and was universally known as "Uncle George".

He was a member of the Denver Club and the Denver Athletic Club, the Chicago Club, the Union League Club, Chicago, the Midday Club, and the South Shore Country Club.

In politics he was a Republican. He was affiliated with the First Baptist Church, 50th and Drexel Boulevard and his funeral services were held from this church. He was a self-made man of irreproachable character, a man of influence and wealth. His ideals were high and his heart great. The history of his life is written in the Enclycopoedia of American Biography.

He was survived by his widow and two sons by a former wife, namely Walter Taylor and George H. Taylor Jr., and by two granddaughters, the children of his son Walter.

Note. * (Aida Lucile Ladd) Mrs. George Hooper Taylor died 2 Feb. 1934, in Lake Forest, Ill.; buried beside her husband in Fairview Cemetery, Denver, Colo.

Family of Hon. Binger S. Hermann of Roseburg, Oregon.

278 Flora Ann[8] Tibbetts (Rev. Jonathan S.[7] (No.192), Benjamin[6], William[5], a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), was born 23 Oct. 1847, in Manchester township, Dearborn Co., Indiana, eleven miles northwest of Lawrenceburg. She was fifth daughter and seventh child of Rev. Jonathan S. Tibbetts and Mary Redding his wife.

She was but four years of age when she was brought by her parents to Oregon. Her father, Rev. Jonathan S. Tibbetts, a minister of the Methodist church, commanded the wagon train in which the trip was made across the plains in 1852.

She married in Oakland, Oregon, 7 June 1868, Hon. Binger S. Hermann of Roseburg, Oregon. He died in Roseburg, 15 April 1926, aged 83 years. She died in Roseburg, 22 Aug. 1929, in her 82nd year.

Their residence was Roseburg, Oreg., but they made their home in Washington, D.C. for about thirty years, during which time they made several trips abroad.

Hon. Binger S. Hermann was born 19 Feb. 1843, at Lonaconing, Maryland, the son of Dr. Henry Hermann and his wife Elizabeth Hopkins, daughter of David and Maria Hopkins of Tradegar, South Wales, England. (David Hopkins was an iron manufacturer in Tradegar, South Wales, and came to the United States about 1836 and commenced the manufacture of iron furnaces in western Maryland, and died there about 1866.). (The above-named Dr. Henry Hermann was a native of the city of Cossel, in Hessen Cossel, Germany. He was a professor in the University of Morburg. He came to the United States in 1838 and practiced medicine and surgery in the city of Baltimore and in western Maryland. In 1858 he brought a colony of Baltimorians to the Coquille river valley, Coos County, Oregon, among whom were many German settlers).

"Hon. Binger S. Hermann was educated near Baltimore, at the Independence Academy (afterward Irving College), and came with his father, Dr. Henry Hermann's colony of Baltimorians to Coos County, Oregon, in the territorial days, and in after years became active in state and national affairs. He began as the first school teacher in the Coquille river valley, following this as a teacher in Yoncalla and Canyonville in the same county.

He afterward studied law in the office of the late Governor of Oregon, Judge Stephen F. Chadwick, and while here he assisted in recruiting volunteers for the Civil War under the last proclamation of President Lincoln.

In 1866 he was elected to the state legislature from Douglas County, and after this, was admitted to the bar of the Supreme Court of Oregon. Later on, in 1868, he became joint state senator from Douglas, Coos and Curry Counties. Following this, Mr. Hermann was deputy collector of U.S. internal revenue for southern Oregon under the administration of President Johnson, and was later receiver of the Roseburg land office under the Grant administration. In 1884 he was elected to Congress as sole representative of the entire state and served as such, and district representative for sixteen years. During an interval he was appointed by President McKinley as commissioner of the United States general land office and served in this capacity for six years, and after this, was re-elected to Congress and served four more years.

Family of Rev. Theodore and Ellen (Seaver) Tebbets of Rochester, New Hampshire and Medford, Mass.

(The main facts in the following sketch are from New Eng. Hist. Gen. Register, vol. 17, p. 178):

281 Rev. Theodore[8] Tebbets (Judge Noah[7] (No.196), James[6], Henry[5], Ensign Edward[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), A.B. (Harvard, 1851), D.D. (Cambridge Divinity School, 1855), a clergyman of the Unitarian church, was born in Parsonsfield, Maine, 1 April 1831; died in New York City 29 Jan. 1863, aged 31 years, 10 mos., 28 days, survived by his wife and one child. He was the eldest child of Judge Noah and Mary Esther (Woodman) Tebbets of Parsonsfield, Maine, and Rochester, New Hampshire.

He married 3 June 1857, Ellen[7] Seaver (John[6], John[5], William[4], Nicholas[3], Caleb[2], Robert[1]), born 14 June 1835, daughter of John Seaver, Esq. of Kingston, Mass., and his wife Anna Dana, daughter of Hon. Samuel Dana of Groton, Mass. She married (2) 24 Nov. 1868, George Silsbee Hall, lawyer in Boston, who was born in Keene, N.H. (N.E. Hist. Gen. Register, vol. 25, p. 318).

Rev. Theodore Tebbets prepared for college at Phillips Academy, Exeter, New Hampshire; entered Harvard College in 1848 in the sophomore class, was graduated in 1851 and received from the university the degree of Bachelor of Arts. After graduation he became a teacher at Phillips Exeter Academy, then studied theology at the Cambridge Divinity School from which he was graduated in 1855; was ordained at Lowell, Mass., Sept. 19th of that year but owing to ill health, he resigned the following year. Recovering in a measure his health, he was installed over the First Unitarian Church in Medford, Mass., 15 April 1857, but was obliged to resign his pastoral office 1 Aug. 1860, on account of returning ill health.

A memorial sermon on the life of Rev. Theodore Tebbets was delivered in the First Church, Medford, by Rev. Edward C. Towne and later printed with an appendix pp. 27 by Walker Wise & Co., Boston.

A Harvard classmate, Charles F. Dunbar, Esq., paid the following tribute in an obituary notice in the Boston Daily Advertiser:
"His vigorous powers of mind and the resolute character which sustained him amid so many difficulties were recognized early by his associates. His reading was extensive, his memory unfailing, his mind active and acute, and his determination to conquer every difficulty by industry and energy was unfailing. In his relation as a pastor, and in his walk in life he displayed qualities which endeared him to those who surrounded him, and he left behind him many close friends who will long cherish his memory and remember his example of Christian Fortitude and cheerfulness as he saw his plans for life defeated and a career of rich promise cutoff by the gradual but inevitable progress of disease".

An original portrait of Rev. Theodore Tebbets, painted by Adna Tenney, was presented to Phillips Exeter Academy by the relatives of Rev. Tebbets (Register, vol. 28, p. 447).

i. John[9] Tebbets, b. 4 July 1858 in Medford, Mass.

Hon. Noah Tebbetts
of Brooklyn, New York.

282 Hon. Noah[8] Tebbetts (Judge Noah[7] (No.196), James[6], Henry[5], Ensign Edward[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), L. L. B. (Harvard Law School, 1867), was born at Rochester, New Hampshire, 11 September 1844; died at his home in Brooklyn, New York, 31 May 1909, aged 64 years, 8 mos., 20 days. He was the youngest child of Judge Noah and Mary Esther (Woodman) Tebbets of Rochester, New Hampshire.

He married 27 October 1869, Emmeline Francis, daughter of Orrin and Emmeline (Winslow) Whipple of Newton, Mass., a descendant of Governor Winslow who came over in the Mayflower. She was born at Newton, Mass., 4 February 1844, and died at their home in Brooklyn 30 October 1904, aged 60 years. She was a woman of culture and refinement, prominent in church and philanthropic circles and beloved by all who knew her. No children survived this union.

The following sketch of his life was written by Fred E. Quinby, Esq., Necrologist of the New Hampshire Genealogical Society and published in the New Hampshire Genealogical Record, Vol. 6, page 129:

"Hon. Noah Tebbetts enlisted in Co. 1, Fifteenth New Hampshire Volunteer Infantry, Oct. 20, 1862 and was mustered in, two days later, as a corporal. He served in the Department of the Gulf under Gen. Banks, participating in the fighting around New Orleans and in the siege and battle of Port Hudson. In Aug. 1863 he was mustered out of service but re-enlisted in Co. 1, Fifth N. H. Volunteer Infantry and fought with his regiment through the bloody scenes preceding and attending the fall of Petersburg. He was present at the surrender of Appomatox. At the close of the war Mr. Tebbetts took up the study of law and following a course at Harvard Law School was admitted to the New Hampshire bar in 1867. He early became an active participant in the political affairs of his native state and for three years was a member of the Republican State Committee. In 1870 he was appointed Bank Commissioner, which position he filled with marked ability. During his residence in Rochester, N. H., he served as Master of Humane Lodge No. 21, Free and Accepted Masons, and as Commander of Post No. 22, Grand Army of the Republic. In 1872 Mr. Tebbetts moved to Brooklyn, New York, where he maintained an uninterrupted residence until his death. Upon his arrival in Brooklyn he entered into partnership with his wife's uncle, David Winslow Esq., which partnership continued for nearly a decade when Mr. Winslow retired from the firm. Mr. Tebbetts was a man of rare discernment, sterling integrity, fearless in the cause of right and justice, and his remarkable grasp of even the most intricate problems in his profession won for him enviable rank among the leading jurists of his time. Public spirited, progressive, and a natural leader of men, he soon became a conspicuous figure in the political life of our nation's first metropolis, and in 1897 received the nomination for the Assembly. He was endorsed for the position by the Citizen's Union and the National Democrats, and although residing in a practically impregnable Democratic stronghold he was defeated by only a few votes. Later, however, he led his party to victory, serving as a member of the Board of Aldermen in 1902 and 1903.

Mr. Tebbetts joined U. S. Grant Post No. 327 at its organization, and in 1888 was unanimously elected its Commander; he also served as Judge Advocate for the Department of New York, and had the distinction of representing the Post at many State and National encampments. He was one of the Guard of Honor over the remains of the late General U. S. Grant from Mt. McGregor to Riverside Park.

He was affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church and in addition to his connection with the organizations previously mentioned he took an active interest in the New Hampshire Genealogical Society with which he became associated March 16, 1904.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday evening June 2, at 8 o'clock, at the headquarters of U. S. Grant Post and were very impressive, interment taking place at Newton, Massachusetts. . . . . The grand qualities of the man - and they were many - will long be treasured up in kindly remembrance, an enduring tribute of the high appreciation and regard in which he was held.

One sister, Mrs. Sarah C. Peavey of Rochester, New Hampshire, survives him."

F. W. TIBBETTS OF GLOUCESTER DIES

Was Active Politician and Head of 300th Anniversary Board

GLOUCESTER, April 4—Funeral services for Frederick Washington Tibbetts, one of the leading men in political life in this city, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Independent Christian Universalist Church. He died yesterday at his home in May street. He was 65 years old and unmarried.

He was a graduate of Tufts College. His dramatic talents led him to take a leading part in some of the foremost stock companies of the country. After an absence of about 35 years, he returned to Gloucester. He was greatly interested in politics and was a Republican. Soon after his return to this city he succeeded to the jewelry business of his father, which he carried on for a number of years. He was also connected with the Gloucester custom house under Collector Fitz J. Babson.

He was deeply interested in civic enterprise, and last fall was chosen chairman of the executive committee to formulate the 300th anniversary celebration program. During the World War he was chairman of the local exemption board, and through his office thousands have been assisted to naturalization. He obtained positions for many. For several years he had been editorial writer for the Daily Times. He is survived by a sister, Miss M. Ellen Tibbetts.

Tribute of Mayor McInnis on Death of Fred W. Tibbets

The City of Gloucester has suffered an irreparable loss in the death of Fred W. Tibbets. It is rare to find a man of large ability who is willing to give unsparingly and ungrudgingly of his time and talents for the civic good, and community welfare, without any remuneration whatsoever. Mr. Tibbets was such a man. He worked day and night for his native city. People in all walks of life knew him as a helpful friend in time of stress and trouble.

SORROWING FRIENDS PAID LAST TRIBUTE

Funeral of Miss M. Helen Tibbets Held from Universalist Church Yesterday

The last sad rites over the remains of the late Miss M. Helen Tibbets, for over half a century a teacher in the local schools and prominent in the community were held from the Independent Christian church, Universalist, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. John Clarence Lee, D.D., pastor, officiating.

Sorrowing relatives and associates, included in the latter being a number of teachers, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond and Miss Elizabeth Hammond, intimate friends of the deceased and her brother the late Fred W. Tibbets were in attendance and listened to the simple services—simple as she would have wished them, as read by the pastor. Previous to the services and as the mourners filed from the church, George B. Stevens rendered appropriate organ selections.

Rev. Dr. Lee in his remarks paid a splendid tribute to one, whose life in the community has left a lasting influence, referring to her devotion to her late brother, and the friendship with the late Dr. William H. Rider, former pastor of the church, who had been closely connected with the church and its activities in the community.

The pastor read an appropriate poem, typifying the life of the deceased and concluding with prayer and blessing for the bereaved ones.

The casket reposed in front of the altar and was almost hidden beneath a bank of floral tributes.

The pall bearers were Fred A. Shackelford, Hon. William J. MacInnis, Michael Armstrong and Major John A. Radcliffe. Interment was in the Plummer lot, Oak Grove cemetery, the remains being laid at rest alongside of her brother.

MOURN DEATH OF FRED W. TIBBETS

End Came Last Evening Following Several Weeks' Illness--His Passing Severe Loss to City in Many Ways.

Frederick W. Tibbets, whose serious illness has been a theme of widespread sympathy and commiseration, passed away at his home, 6 Mason street last evening at the age of 63 years 9 months and 9 days.

Always Cheerful and Optimistic.

Mr. Tibbets had been in somewhat precarious health for some time, being troubled with a weak heart, and while he fully realized his condition, he maintained a spirit of cheerfulness and good humor which made him always a welcome visitor and companion. He was an indefatigable worker in his chosen lines, and with his talent for organization was able to achieve success in many undertakings where a man with less optimism and pluck would have failed.

The deceased was a native of this city, and was born June 25, 1859, being the son of Robert A. and Mary O. (Procter) Tibbets, his father being for many years a leading watchmaker and jeweler of the town and city, coming to Gloucester from Salem. He was educated in the Gloucester schools and practically his entire life was spent here, although he was on the road for two seasons as stage manager of a theatrical company.

He was an omnivorous reader, especially of historical subjects, and was one of the best informed men on current events and local history, past and present, as well as general history, and was always pleased to impart information to any one seeking it. He was a great admirer of pictures, having a hobby for collecting and framing those especially of local interest.

Directed Many Amateur Productions.

[illegible] art at Tufts college and gained high rank as a reader, his services being in frequent demand at church and lodge entertainments. He had a remarkable genius as a director of entertainments, and for two years occupied the position as stage manger for the play, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," touring the entire country, resigning his position to the great regret of his associates in the company. He was always ready to give his assistance to amateur theatricals, and in recent years served as coach for the Players Club of the Independent Christian (Universalist) church, the high reputation of this club being due in no small measure to his oversight, and has ably filled a similar position in many other local presentations.

Active in Forming Fourth of July Committee.

He took a deep interest in local affairs, and while he never accepted an elective office, he has been intimately associated with many events of a public and political nature. With the late City Clerk John J. Somes and former Mayor William W. French, he was largely instrumental in the organization of the Fourth of July Committee which was the nucleus of the committee which started the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the town in 1892, and the unbounded success of that event was due in no small measure to his executive ability and wide experience. Possessing an extensive acquaintance with many of the leading men throughout the country, he was able to secure the attendance and services of many of the prominent guests and participants on that occasion, he being the chairman of the executive committee having the event in charge.

In 1907, Mr. Tibbets was largely responsible for the organization of the Gloucester Day [illegible], of which [illegible] A. [illegible] was chairman, and with the [illegible] and unveiling of the massive granite tablet now marking Fishermen's Field on Tablet Rock, Stage Fort Park. Two years later, the Gloucester Day committee put on the beautiful pageant, "The Canterbury Pilgrims," and the success of this immense undertaking was primarily due to his powers of organization and ability to accomplish big things. The success of more recent Gloucester Day celebrations were due in a large measure to executive ability of Mr. Tibbets.

The Open Door.

Mr. Tibbets maintained an office in his large block, 100, 102, 104 and 106 Main street, for many years. Its door was always open. He was ever ready to assist, advise and impart advice to many, many persons in all walks of life. He was always glad to assist and in this respect alone, Mr. Tibbets will be missed by many, more than anyone can possibly estimate.

When the World War came on and this country declared war upon Germany, Mr. Tibbets was called upon to do his part and he did it well. When the universal draft was put into effect, Mr. Tibbets was made a member and afterwards chosen secretary of the exemption board for this district, which comprised Gloucester and Rockport. He performed this duty with characteristic fidelity, yet with a regard for those who came before the board, a fact which won for him their regard and esteem.

The Boys Will Miss Him.

While this service ceased some months ago his service to the boys who had an active part in the World War has been continued unbroken until a few weeks ago, when forced to give up all of his activities on account of his health. He has been of wonderful assistance to war veterans in getting vocational aid, training and in matters incidental to compensation due them.

While deeply interested in public affairs, he never sought an elective office and held only one public office. For several years he was a member of the Board of License Commissioners. He was always a strong Republican in politics, and was a member of the present Republican city committee. For several years he served as chairman of the committee. He was always active in political campaigns. He was a vigorous campaigner, a hard worker, and an important factor in the city's politics over a long stretch of years.

Interested in School Affairs.

Mr. Tibbets was always deeply interested in school affairs. He never sought election to the school board but he was largely responsible for the influencing some of the city's representative citizens to become members of the committee.

He served for a short time as an inspector at the custom house while the late Capt. Fitz J. Babson was collector. He was a member of the corporation of the Cape Ann Savings Bank, a member of the Addison Gilbert Hospital corporation, of Cape Ann Lodge, No. 1471, Loyal Order of Moose, also of Independent Christian Church, Universalist, taking an active and prominent part in the affairs of the church. He took a personal interest in the preservation of the Sargent-Murray Gilman house. He was associated with the late Rev. Levi M. Powers, D. D., in the founding of the Association which later acquired the property.

Took Pride In Naturalization Work.

It is doubtful if there was any other one man more interested in the making of new citizens than Fred Tibbets. He made a study of the naturalization laws and consequently was thoroughly versed in the subject. He aided and assisted a great many persons to file their first papers, watched their progress, coached them to pass the necessary examination and saw them become citizens of the United States. He took a great personal pride in this work.

He was a frequent contributor to the Times, both to the news and editorial columns. His early training and college preparation made him a facile writer and his articles and editorials were always interesting and to the point.

Planned Extensively for 300th Anniversary Celebration.

Mr. Tibbets had planned long for the 300th anniversary of the founding of the colony at Fishermen's Field in 1623. He was chosen chairman when the committee got together for organization during the summer of 1922. It was a tribute to his ability and his past successes in handling celebrations. The announcement of his resignation a short time ago was received with universal regret, but it was hoped that he would be able to serve in an advisory capacity at least. His loss will be keenly felt in this direction.

Mr. Tibbets is survived by one sister, Miss M. Helen Tibbets, teacher in the [illegible].

Funeral services will be held at the Independent Christian Church, Universalist, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. William H. Rider, D. D., and the pastor, Rev. John Clarence Lee, D. D., will officiate.

Family of John Winslow Tibbetts of Rochester, New Hampshire.

286 John Winslow[9] Tibbetts (Samuel Ham[8] (No208), John[7], Ichabod[6], John[5], John[4], Jeremiah[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), of Rochester, New Hampshire, was born 5 Jan. 1831, in Dover, N.H.; died in Rochester after 1908. He was the second child of Samuel Ham Tibbetts and Belinda Cross his wife.

He married first, in May 1854, Charlotte F. Chamberlain who died 1 Jan. 1857, daughter of Amos Chamberlain of Lebanon, Me.

He married secondly, 10 Nov. 1857, Clarinda W.[7] Blaisdell, born 15 Jan. 1836, in Lebanon, Me., died 20 April 1896, in Rochester, N.H., daughter of Jonathan and Sally Blaisdell (See Wentworth Genealogy, vol. 2, p. 40).

He attended the common schools of his native town and at the age of 18 apprenticed himself to the carpenters' trade and for two years worked for Woodbury St. Manes, a prominent builder of that day. In 1850 he settled in Rochester, N.H., where he became a master carpenter and worked at his trade a part of the time, until about 1890, being also engaged in extensive lumbering during that time.

From 1862 until 1880 he held a partner's interest in the firm of Tibbetts and Hayes, engaged in livery business. In 1879 he erected the Glendon House at East Rochester and was its proprietor until his death, making the enterprise a success from the start.

"He took a public-spirited interest in the affairs of the town; was a director in the Loan and Banking Company of Rochester for ten years from 1897 to 1907.

In early manhood he was a Whig and cast his first presidential ballot for General Scott in 1852. When the Republican party rose to power he joined its ranks and was thereafter one of its faithful supporters.

He was selectman for two years immediately preceding the incorporation of Rochester as a city, and councilman the two following years.

In 1873 and 1875 he was a Representative in the state legislature.

He was a member of Hamore Lodge, No. 21, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, of Rochester; also a member of Temple Royal Arch Chapter No. 20, and Orphans' Council No. 7, Royal and Select Masters.

He was also a member of Cocheco Lodge No. 39, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of East Rochester, which he helped to organize, and of Norway Plains Encampment, No. 39, same order." (See "Genealogical and Family History of the State of New Hampshire," p. 195. Pub.1908).

Family of Eugene Kincaid Tibbets of Madison, Indiana and Indianapolis, Indiana.

288 Eugene Kincaid[9] Tibbets of Madison, Ind., and Indianapolis, Ind., (genealogical line as follows: Samuel Jr.,[8] (No.210), of Volga, Ind., Dr. Samuel,[7] of Cincinnati, Ohio, Samuel,[6] of Brunswick, Topsham and Lisbon, Maine, and Lindale, Ohio, Timothy,[5] of Brunswick and Topsham, Me., John,[4] of Somersworth, N.H., Capt. Thomas,[3] of Dover, N.H., Jeremiah,[2] of Dover, N.H., Henry[1] of Dover, N.H). He was born 21 Feb. 1836 in Cincinnati, Ohio; died in Indianapolis, Ind., 2 Jan. 1915, aged 78 years, 11 mos., buried in Crown Hill Cemetery. He was son of Samuel Jr. and Mary Ann (Dolph) Tibbets of Cincinnati, later of Volga, Ind.; grandson of Dr. Samuel and Susanna (Coombs) Tibbets; great-grandson of Samuel and Margaret (Russell) Tibbets; great-great grandson of Timothy and Experience (Hinckley) Tibbets. He was graduated from Eleutharian College at College Hill, Jefferson Co., Ind., in 1861; was principal of School No. 10 in Cincinnati, Ohio, for nine years; was Supt. of schools in Jefferson Co., Ind., four years, after which he became connected with the insurance business, in which he remained until the end of his life. He was a man of pure and upright character, and had considerable ability as a writer, contributing to various periodicals.

During his earlier life in Jefferson Co., Ind., he, his father, and all of their relatives were distinguished by their sympathy for negroes, who, crossing the Ohio River were making their way to Canada and freedom. They were more than suspected by their neighbors of being actively connected with the underground railroad of war times.

He was appointed to solicit funds for Eleutharian College and on one of his trips to the eastern states was entertained by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe at her home in Andover, Mass., who became interested in the anti-slavery and educational work of himself and others in southern Indiana.

He married in Cincinnati, Ohio 1 Apr. 1864, Margaret Stevenson Roller, born 8 Nov. 1845, daughter of William T. Roller of Cincinnati, and his wife Mildred Amanda Elliott, who was daughter of Ephraim Elliott of Mechanicsburg, Ind., of English descent, and Eliza Dixon his wife, of Scotch descent, whose parents removed from one of the eastern states and settled in South Carolina. The following note, copied from the Hist. of Hamilton Co., Ohio, is of interest: "William T. Roller was agent for the distribution of the ministerial fund for the Christian church at West Fork, Mill Creek township (now College Hill, Hamilton Co., Ohio), in 1850-51."

Eugene Kincaid Tibbets and his family lived for many years in Madison, Ind., but removed in 1902 to Indianapolis, where his widow, Mrs. Margaret S. Tibbets was residing in 1924 with her son Elliott R. Tibbets. She was a woman of rare qualities of character and intellect; she and her family have been members of the Central Christian Church, Indianapolis, for many years.

Children of Eugene K. Tibbets and his wife Margaret Stevenson (Roller), i. - iv. born in Cincinnati, Ohio, v. - vi. born in Madison, Indiana, as follows:

i. Earl Edward,[10] Tibbets, b. 13 May 1866; resides in Madison, Ind.; is traveling salesman for hardware company. He m. in Cincinnati Ohio, 7 Sept. 1895 Sarah Margaret Lepper, daughter of David and Hannah (Evans) Lepper of Lexington, Ky., later of Madison, Ind.

Three children, as follows:
1. Earl Jr.,[11] Tibbets; died in childhood.
2. Mildred,[11] Tibbets.
3. Hannah Beebe,[11] Tibbets.

ii. Carrie Bowers,[10] Tibbets, born 17 May 1868; educated in public schools of Madison, Ind.; studied music and later taught music. She never married; resided in Indianapolis with her mother and brother Elliott R.; died there 15 Feb. 1922; was a member of the Central Christian church; a member of Caroline Scott Harrison Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution.

iii. Grace Eugenia,[10] Tibbets, born 15 Apr. 1871; married in Madison, Ind., in 1904 George W. Spencer, son of William Foulk Spencer. They reside in Muncie, Ind. She is well known in social and musical circles of Muncie, and was president of the Muncie Art Association in 1919. No children.

iv. Wallace Beardslee,[10] Tibbets, of East Orange, N.J., merchant and manufacturer, born 15 July 1874; living at East Orange in 1938. He formerly lived in Quincy, Mass., having removed there in 1915 from Indianapolis, Ind. He was formerly manager for one department of the Emerson Shoe Co., and his work for this company took him to their various plants, mostly in the southern states. He is a charter member and one of the trustees of the Tibbetts Family Association. He was present at the organization meeting which was held Monday, 5 Sept. 1921 at the home of the pfesident, Charles Wesley Tibbetts,Esq., at Ogunquit Beach (near Moody P.O.), Maine, and acted as recording secretary for that meeting.

He married in Muncie, Ind., 3 June 1904 Anna Spencer, daughter of William Foulk Spencer and Christina his wife. She is sister of George M. Spencer who married her husband's sister. The Spencers were Quakers of Richmond, Ind., formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Only child:
1. Wallace Beardsley,[11] Tibbets,Jr., b. 15 April 1906.

v. Ethel Florence,[10] Tibbets, born 9 Feb. 1877; d. at age of 8 years.

vi. Elliott Roller,[10] Tibbets, born 19 Feb. 1879; living, unmarried in Indianapolis, Ind., in 1924; connected with the Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn. He is a member of the Central Christian church; member of the Nature Study Club; member of the Sons of the Revolution. He is one of the corresponding secretaries of the Tibbetts Family Association.

Family of Horace A. and Lucy Amanda (Arnold) Tibbetts of Campbell, California.

289 Horace Albert[9] Tibbetts (Ebenezer,[8] (No.212), Tilley,[7] Ebenezer,[6] Ebenezer,[5] Moses,[4] Capt. Thomas,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), was born at Nekimi, Wisconsin 26 June 1854; resides now (1926) at Campbell, Cal., where he settled in 1892. In 1903 he resided for a time at Berkeley, Calif., and later at Gilroy, Calif. He is the only son and third child of Ebenezer and Hannah Ellen (Sanborn) Tibbetts. He was graduated from the State Normal School at Oshkosh, Wisconsin in 1876; taught in the public schools of Milwaukee, Wisconsin for six years.

He married Lucy Amanda Arnold of Green Lake, Wisconsin 7 May 1879. He and his wife removed to California in 1892, living at Campbell until July 1903 when they removed to Berkeley, Calif.

Mrs. Lucy Amanda (Arnold) Tibbetts died in Berkeley 23 Jan. 1904, aged 48 years, 11 mos., 17 days. She was born 6 Feb. 1855 at Dartford, Wis. She was educated at the State Normal School at Oshkosh, Wis., and taught in the High School at Fort Atkinson. Her funeral services were held in the Methodist Church in Berkeley, of which church she was an active and useful member. Her services to the Methodist church in Campbell, Calif., where she and her husband were former residents, were inestimable. She was for many years the church organist, the secretary of the Ladies Aid Society, and a S.S. teacher. She was a woman of highly cultured mind and her companionship was something to be coveted. Her wide knowledge gained by careful reading made her conversation delightful and inspiring.

Children:

i. Sydney Arnold[10] Tibbetts, C.E. (Univ. of Calif., 1906), born at Oshkosh, Wisconsin, 19 July 1881; resides in Berkeley, Calif. He was graduated from the Univ. of Calif., at Berkeley in 1906, receiving from there the degree of Civil Engineer. He is now, (1926) professor of chemistry at the Calif. School of Mechanical Arts, San Francisco.

He married 10 April 1905, Alice Maud Mara of Berkeley, Calif., daughter of William and Carrie Mara of Oakland and Berkeley. She died in Berkeley, 12 June 1926.

Three children, all born in Berkeley, Calif., as follows:
1. Ethel,[11] b. 22 May 1909.
2. Marion,[11] b. 24 May 1912.
3. Arnold Mara,[11] b. 27 Sept. 1915.

ii. Frederick Horace[10] Tibbetts, of Berkeley and San Francisco, civil and consulting engineer, B.S. (Univ. of the Pacific at San Jose, Calif., 1903), C.E. (Univ. of Calif., 1904), M.A. (ib., 1906), born at Oshkosh, Wis., 28 April 1882, living in San Francisco in 1938; married first, 29 June 1905 Edith MacKerricher, born at Fort Bragg, Calif., in 1883, daughter of Duncan MacKerricher; married secondly, Flora MacDonald. He is one of the leading consulting engineers on the Pacific Coast.

He received his preliminary education in the public schools of Campbell, Calif.; received his degree of Bachelor of Arts at the Univ. of the Pacific, formerly located at San Jose, Calif., now known as College of the Pacific, at Stockton, Cal.

He was graduated from the Univ. of Calif., at Berkeley, in 1906, receiving from there the degree of Civil Engineer; he then spent a year in Germany. He taught civil engineering at the Univ. of Calif., Berkeley, for several years; in 1926 was civil engineer for the U.S. Government.

The California Monthly, vol. 22, p. 337, for February, 1927. has the following:

"Fred H. Tibbetts is one of the leading consulting engineers on the Pacific Coast. Tibbetts is known as the creator of the "Netherlands" of California through his reclamation projects on the lower Sacramento River delta lands. After seven years of preparatory work as instructor in mechanics at the Calif. School of Mechanical Arts, as engineer for the Santa Clara Valley Water Company, engineer in charge of artesian investigations in Livermore Valley and of the Pleasanton Reclamation Project, among other things, Tibbetts became a member of the firm of Haviland and Tibbetts.

This firm made complete reports, plans, and carried out construction on the Richmond Harbor, South San Francisco terminal, and Sacramento and Vallejo terminals. The partners carried out flood control, drainage, and road construction for land development projects from Tulare Lake to Portland, Oregon. They designed and installed sewage systems and disposal plants for seventeen sanitary districts. They designed and installed water systems for seven cities, built highways and bridges, and located and constructed the Sacramento-Woodland Railroad.

Since 1917, Mr. Tibbetts has conducted his own engineering office. He has been chief engineer on nine reclamation district projects including the largest in the State; and chief engineer also on seven or eight irrigation and drainage district projects. He is consulting engineer on a dozen other projects, and has on his staff at present eleven graduates of Calif. Univ. (See "Who's Who in America," vol. 19, for 1936-1937).

Only child by first wife:

1. Duncan Reginald,[11] of Berkeley, electrical engineer, B.S. (Univ. of Calif., 1934), b. at Berkeley 23 June 1911; living there in 1938; m. at Riverside, Calif., 30 June 1936 Louise Sherritt, daughter of Charles Leroy and Beatrice De Foe (Simpson) Sherritt, of Riverside.

   Child:

   (1) Barbara,[12] b. at Berkeley 29 May 1937.

FRED H. TIBBETTS '03

is one of the leading consulting engineers on the Pacific Coast.

As consulting engineer for the City of Stockton on flood control work, Mr. Tibbetts designed the Hogan Dam which was dedicated November 2, 1930. He is chief engineer of the new Linden irrigation district in San Joaquin County, and also of ten other irrigation district projects in California. He has been chief engineer on eleven reclamation district projects including the largest in the state.

Among other types of engineering projects handled by Mr. Tibbetts are land subdivision, water supply, sanitary engineering, harbor improvements, highways, bridges, railroad work, and hydro-electric power development. He has been connected with work in the Sacramento, Santa Clara and San Joaquin Valleys; the East Bay region; the Sierra Nevada Mountains; the Lovelock and Walker River Districts (Nevada); the Roosevelt District, Arizona; Anchorage, Alaska; and Portland, Oregon.

After receiving his B. S. degree from Pacific, he studied for an M. S. which was granted him in 1905. He graduated from the College of Civil Engineering at the University of California in 1904, and received a master's degree from the same institution in 1906. He was an instructor in civil engineering at the University of California from 1906 to 1909. He then specialized in engineering and construction work as a member of the firms of Haviland and Tibbetts, and Haviland, Dozier and Tibbetts, until he opened his own office in 1917. With offices at 310 Sansome Street, San Francisco, he heads an engineering and construction concern which employs about 100 men.

Mr. Tibbetts is the author of a number of articles which have been published in the "Transactions of the American Society of Civil Engineers" and other professional and business magazines.

In 1928 he was chairman of the Executive Committee, Irrigation Division of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He has been actively connected with engineering committees of the State of California, Department of Public Works, Irrigation District's Association of California, Commonwealth Club of California, and other associations.

He is a member of many organizations, among them being Sigma Xi, Tau Beta Phi, Sigma Iota Phi, Olympic and Engineers Clubs of San Francisco, and is 1930 Commander of the Oakland Commandery of Knights Templar. During his college days he was an active member of Archania of which he was president in his senior year. His home is in the Claremont District of Berkeley.

June, 1917.

Capt. Thomas[3] Tebbets as he spelled his name was son of Jeremiah[2] Henry and born Feb. 24. 1659 m. 1st Judith Dam dau. of John and Elizabeth Dam July 2. 1684 she was b. Nov 15. 1665 and died Oct 22, 1728. He m. 2d Elizabeth — early as January 2, 1729/30, m. 3d Sarah — she survived him. He made his wife July 13, 1748 which was proved the same year. He was at one time Town clerk of Dover and to him we owe most of the records of births, marriages and deaths in Dover, and especially our Tibbetts records. He had eight children by wife Judith and I have the births of each one. His son John Tebbets born Aug. 29. 1685 I suspect was the father of the Timothy b. Jan. 24. 1715 who was the ancestor of Elliott R. Tibbets of Indianapolis whose line you sent me, I think the tradition should be Thomas and John instead of John and Thomas as the father of Timothy. John lived at somersworth at the time as according to tradition the father of Timothy died.

Again thanking you and hoping to hear from you again I am
Respectfully yours

Family of Charles Wesley Tibbetts of Ogunquit beach, Wells, Maine.
Moody P.O.

296 Charles Wesley[9] Tibbetts (Orland Harriman[8] (No 234), George[7], Ephraim[6], Stephen[5], Aaron[4], Ephraim[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry1), of Ogunquit beach, Moody, Wells, Maine, retired lawyer, was born 5 July 1846, in Lebanon, York Co., Maine; died 21 Oct. 1928, aged 82 years, 3 mos., 16 days, at his summer home, Ogunquit beach; buried in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Saco, Me. (Lot No. 576, Beach Path). He was the eldest child and only son of Orland Harriman Tibbetts of Lebanon, Me., and Lydia Ann Clark his wife.

He married in Lebanon, Me., 4 June 1870, Hannah Chandler[9] Shapleigh (Oliver[8], Nicholas[7], Capt. Elisha[6], Nicholas[5], Maj. Nicholas[4], John[3], Alexander[2], Alexander1), born 27 Sept. 1849, in Lebanon, daughter of Oliver and Dorcas Ricker (Blaisdell) Shapleigh, both of whom were born in Lebanon, Me. (See "Old Kittery and her Families," by Everett S. Stackpole, Pub. 1903). She died at the home of her daughter in Biddeford, Me., buried beside her husband in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Saco, Me. She died 5 April 1933.

Charles Wesley Tibbetts was reared upon his father's farm at Lebanon; when a lad twelve or fourteen years of age was taken by his parents on a trip to Palestine and the Holy Land.

He received his preliminary education in the public schools of his native place and afterward took an advanced course of study in the West Lebanon Academy. He commenced teaching school in the Fall of 1868 and taught during the winter season for three years, reading law when not teaching, in the office of William Emery, Esq., in Lebanon.

In the Fall of 1871 he removed to Somersworth, New Hampshire, where his law studies were continued at the office of William J. Copeland, Esq. (Edgerly and Copeland). In the Fall of 1873 he was admitted to the New Hampshire Bar and soon settled in Farmington, N.H., where he was engaged in the practice of his profession for the next five years (See "Genealogical and Family History of the State of New Hampshire," p. 197. Pub. 1908).

In Jan., 1879 he removed to Dover, N.H., in which city he resided for many years and where, in addition to his practice of law, he engaged in buying and selling real estate, especially beach property.

In 1887 he became deeply interested in genealogical research. He was chiefly instrumental in the organization and incorporation of the New Hampshire Genealogical Society, 1903, and thenceforth for several years was the financial agent and secretary of that society.

During his residence in Dover he was editor of the New Hampshire Genealogical Record, an illustrated quarterly magazine which comprised six volumes and a half, which work he published mainly at his own expense. In order to have the most perfect printing that could possibly be obtained, he purchased a set of beautiful, clear type for this work. His wife assisted him in setting the type for each magazine; the plates were later taken to the printer in Dover.

In all of the proof-reading he was also assisted by his wife until, after a time, such close application began to tell upon her health, and this work of publishing the magazine was laid aside and they took a trip abroad. The editing of this magazine was never resumed.

It is a valuable contribution, devoted to the genealogy, history and biography of New Hampshire, and the complete set, No. 1 to Vol. VII, No. 2, Dover, 1903-10, will be found in all the large genealogical libraries.

About the year 1885 he purchased three miles of beach property at Ogunquit beach, Maine, this beach running north from the village of Ogunquit, toward Wells, Maine. He continued to keep his residence at Dover, New Hampshire, however, until the year 1913 when he removed from Dover to Ogunquit beach (his post-office address Moody P.O., Maine, about half a mile away).

Here at the beach he built a three-story house with French roof. His home is about a mile and a half from the village of Ogunquit and about six miles from York Beach, and the electric cars from that place run within about half a mile of his house. There is now quite a colony of summer residents who have built cottages there.

He and his wife took two trips to England and, in 1914, went to Palestine for a few months' stay.

In their home at Ogunquit beach were held many re-unions of the Shapleigh Family Association, which was organized by Mr. and Mrs. Tibbetts 20 July 1909, at Central Park, Somersworth, N.H., which association has held its meetings annually, usually in Kittery, Me., and of which association Mrs. Tibbetts was historian from the year of its organization until August, 1927. She was a member of the Rebecca Emery Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, in Biddeford, Me., by right of service of her Shapleigh ancestor.

On their trips to England, they did much important work in collecting genealogical records and tracing the Shapleigh family history in England, and held in their possession much valuable data in regard to this family.

On these trips search was made, particularly at Exeter and other places in the west part of England, for early Tibbetts records and especially the names of ancestor Henry Tibbetts and his sister Remembrance who came in the "James", in July, 1635, to New England, but nothing was found that would throw any light on these two names.

In the Index of Wills for the Deanery of Totnes, County of Devon, England, certain names of the Canney family were found (See p. 32 of this book).

Realizing that the early New Hampshire records and documents were not being properly safe-guarded and copied and placed on file, Mr. Tibbetts rendered an important service.

New Hampshire was a Province and had no counties until 1772, at which time at least three counties were set apart, viz., Strafford, Rockingham and Hillsborough.

The first capital was at Portsmouth, and later at Exeter. All the old records were kept at Exeter, N.H., until 1898-9, at which time, through the influence of Charles Wesley Tibbetts, Esq., Dr. Conn of Dover, N.H., who was state Representative, was instrumental in getting a bill through the Legislature, to have the books of old New Hampshire records, about two hundred books, brought to Concord, and there they may be found on file today.

Dr. Conn presented the bill in the Legislature and after it was reported to a committee, Mr. Tibbetts went before the committee and explained the importance of having all the old records kept at Concord, the state capital.

The winter of 1900 was spent in Concord, New Hampshire, and during this time Charles Wesley Tibbetts and his wife copied from the originals the early Tibbetts wills and inventories (copies of which are to be found in this book). The inventories are of interest to descendants. The published volumes of New Hampshire Province Probate Records give the wills but do not give the inventories, and in these published volumes the brief probate record of the will of Henry Tibbetts the immigrant has been omitted. He had made a will but it had never been copied. Charles Wesley Tibbetts found this brief probate record in the original files of New Hampshire Province Probate Records, Book 5, page 18, on file in Concord, N.H.

At the time of his death Charles Wesley Tibbetts was compiling a genealogy of the Tebbetts, Tibbetts family. To future generations he will be known as the authority on all disputed points. In accordance with his request, his great mass of genealogical manuscripts relating to this family has been turned over to the Tibbetts Family Association. It was his wish that this important collection of records should be given to some genealogical library and thus be preserved for future generations. And he had in mind the New Hampshire Historical Society, whose library is in Concord, N.H., or the Maine Historical Society whose library is in Portland, Me.

For fifty years he had been collecting Tibbetts records and, with painstaking accuracy which characterized all his genealogical work, had copied old wills and deeds of their property in the various localities where they have lived, and collected marriage records, dates of birth and baptismal records, dates of death and gravestone inscriptions and much biographical material.
In the year 1926, he made the statement that he had collected records of about fifteen thousand descendants of Henry[1] Tibbetts of Dover, New Hampshire, the immigrant ancestor of this New England family.

For many years it had been his intention to organize a Tibbetts family association. The organization meeting was held at his home at Ogunquit beach, 5 Sept. 1921, at which meeting he was elected president and treasurer, and his daughter, Mrs. Frank E. Shorey, of 276 Elm Street, Biddeford, Maine, was elected secretary. Other officers of the Association include five vice-presidents, a historian, ten corresponding secretaries and a board of trustees numbering five representative descendants.
The first annual re-union was held in August, 1922, at Sanford, Maine; the second annual re-union was held 1st Sept. 1923, in Central Park, Somersworth, N.H., about two miles from Dover; at time of this meeting, the membership of the association was sixty-five persons.
There are now, 1934, about two hundred members and a general interest has been awakened in regard to collecting data that pertains to the history of the family in all its various branches.

For three years prior to his death, he and his wife had made their home during the winter months with their daughter, Mrs. Frank E. Shorey in Biddeford, Me., spending the summer months at their home, Ogunquit beach, near Wells, Me. He was well and favorably known to a large number of friends in the two cities.

He and his wife celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home at Ogunquit beach, 4 June 1921, forty-nine friends and relatives being present at the dinner and about one hundred present during the afternoon.

He was affiliated with Moses Paul Lodge, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, Dover, New Hampshire, and was a member of the New Hampshire Historical Society, the New Hampshire Genealogical Society, the Piscataqua Pioneers, the Maine Historical Association, and was president of the Tibbetts Family Association.

Family of Frank J. and Nancy Lucretia (Tibbetts) Cooper of San Francisco, California.

301 Nancy Lucretia[9] Tibbetts (James Madison[8] (No.257), Samuel[7], George[6], William[5], a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), was born in Des Moines County, Iowa, 19 June 1867. She is the only daughter and only surviving child of the late James Madison Tibbetts of Los Angeles, Calif., and Joan McNeil his wife.

She was but six years of age when her parents removed to California, where, in 1881, they settled in Los Angeles for permanent residence. She was graduated from the Los Angeles High School in 1886; was graduated from Woodbury's Business College in 1887. She married in Los Angeles, Calif., 19 June 1888, Frank J. Cooper. A few years after their marriage they removed from Los Angeles to San Francisco, Calif.

She is a member of, and from May, 1920 to May, 1921 was Regent of La Puerta de Oro Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, San Francisco. Although San Francisco is her home, she now (1926) a widow, resides with her aged mother in Los Angeles.

Frank J. Cooper was born 10 February 1865 in Virginia City, Nevada; died at his home in San Francisco, Calif.,
He founded the Cooper Advertising Company of San Francisco, a company whose business was newspaper and magazine advertising. He was but a child when his parents moved from Virginia City, Nev. to Los Angeles, Calif., where he grew to manhood. He was the son of John Jefferson Cooper, born in Tennessee, died in Los Angeles, Calif., in 1898, and his wife Mary Agnes Roche (pronounced Roshay), of New York City, who was born in Ireland. (They were married in Virginia City, Nevada and removed from thence to Los Angeles. (Note: Mary Agnes Roche's father, of French descent, was for many years a resident of New York City and died there during a cholera epidemic. He was a merchant, a dealer in leather findings and either owned or chartered a ship in which his stock was brought from Russia and other foreign countries, and on some of these voyages his wife (Mary Agnes's mother) accompanied him. On one of these trips, Mary Agnes the daughter, was born in Ireland, the home of her mother's family. Mary Agnes' mother was of Irish lineage and several of the family came to New York City).

Of the Cooper family history little in remembered. During the fire and earthquake in San Francisco in 1906, records and papers were lost whereby the family history might have been traced. It is understood that a cousin of John Jefferson Cooper above-named, was Dr. Levi Cooper, founder of Cooper Medical School of San Francisco, which became the nucleus of Leland Stanford Jr. Univ. Medical School.

Children of Frank J. Cooper and Nancy Lucretia Tibbetts his wife, both born in Los Angales, Calif., as follows:

i. Dorothy Joan Cooper[10], A. B. (Leland Stanford Jr. Univ., 1915), born 5 December 1893; was graduated from Leland Stanford Jr. Univ., at Palo Alta, Calif., in 1915 and received from there

Family of Chaplain Charles Henry Frady of Long Beach, California.

311. Chaplain Charles Henry Frady[9], maternal genealogical line: (Emily Jane[8] Tibbetts (263), George,[7] Benjamin,[6] William,[5] a soldier in the Revolution, Capt. Benjamin,[4] Henry,[3] Jeremiah,[2] Henry[1]), of Long Beach, Calif., a pioneer of Nebraska, farmer, surveyor, member of Nebraska Constitutional Convention, member of State Legislature of Nebraska, born 24 July 1847, near what is now Bertram, Linn Co., Iowa (about half way between Cedar Rapids and Mt. Vernon), died at his home in Long Beach, Calif. (2509 E. Broadway), 5 Nov. 1931, aged 84 years, buried in family lot, Block 29, Mignonette, in Inglewood Cemetery at Inglewood Park, Calif. He was the son of Rev. Calvin and Emily Jane (Tibbetts) Frady.

He married first, at Clarksville, Iowa, 1 June 1869 Mary Elizabeth Van Dorn, born at Clarksville 14 Oct. 1851, died in Plainview, Nebraska 20 June 1881, having had four children. She was daughter of Judge Aaron Van Dorn of Clarksville, Iowa, and his wife Elizabeth Upp, born in Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa., who was daughter of Aaron and Leah Upp of German ancestry. The above-named Judge Aaron Van Dorn had sons Peter and Douglas and daughter Ella, also son John (by second wife) who resides at Spokane, Wash., a wealthy man. Peter Van Dorn, above-named, resides at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, whose son Charles Van Dorn resides at Craig, Colorado, where he is president of the First National Bank. One of Peter's sons has an interest in the Salt Lake Tribune.

Chaplain Charles H. Frady married secondly, in Allison, Iowa, 19 March 1885, Clara Elizabeth Lusted (a cousin of his first wife), born 2 Sept. 1861 in Clarksville, Iowa, daughter of George Lusted who was born in Sussex, England, and his wife Susanna Upp, born in Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa., daughter of Aaron and Leah Upp of German ancestry, both of whom were born in Pennsylvania, and were members of the Reformed Church, and removed from Germantown, Pa., to York, Pa., and in 1845 removed to Iowa, both of whom died in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. The above-named George Lusted came from England to America when a young man, and his brother and an only sister removed from England to Australia.

Chaplain Charles Henry Frady spent most of his boyhood years in the home of his uncle Henry C. Tibbetts in Jefferson township, Bremer county, Iowa, five miles east of Waverly. He taught school in Jefferson township during the winters of 1868-69-70.

He served in the Civil War at the age of sixteen, enlisting from Linn Co., Iowa, 8 Sept. 1863, in Co. B, 9th Volunteer Cavalry, Mustered out 23 March 1866, at Little Rock, Arkansas. This cavalry service was principally on the west side of the Mississippi River, thwarting the movements of Gen. Kirby Smith, Pat Price, Marmaduke and Joe Shelby.

In the Fall of 1870 he left Bremer County, Iowa, and went to Nebraska in comoany with his brother-in-law Peter Van Dorn, and he lived for thirty years in that state, during eighteen of which he resided at Neligh. He filed a homestead near what was afterward Pierce, Pierce County. He took up surveying in 1871 and was elected Surveyor of Pierce Co., Nebr.

He was County Supt. of Schools of Pierce County for five years and during his superintendency taught five terms of school.

In 1871 he was elected a member of the Constitutional Convention which helped to frame the Constitution of Nebraska. He was chairman of the educational committee and framed the educational laws of the state. He was a member of the state legislature of Nebraska for two years, 1877 and 1878, and represented the 42nd District of Nebraska, made up of Pierce, Wayne and Stanton Counties.

He was appointed missionary of the American Sunday School Union April 1, 1881, and annually appointed by the Board for twenty-five consecutive years and had charge of a district covering northern Nebraska, South Dakota south of the Missouri River, Black Hills, state of Wyoming and state of Montana, a territory averaging four hundred miles wide and twelve hundred miles long, the territory including seventeen tribes of Indians. In doing this work, he traveled over two hundred thousand miles; organized and helped eleven hundred and eighty-five Sunday Schools in isolated places, out of which six hundred churches have been developed. Most of this traveling was done on horseback or driving with horses and camping outfit.

He was elected Chaplain of John C. Fremont Post, G?A.R., Neligh, Nebr., in 1865. He was elected Deacon in the Methodist Episcopal Church at the North Nebraska Annual Conference in 1897 and ordained Oct. 22, 1897, by Bishop Stephen N. Merrill, at Chicago, Illinois.

He removed in 1901 to Billings, Mont.; was chaplain of Wm. McKinley Post, Billings, Mont., for seventeen years, 1901-1917. During the Montana drought he distributed $25,000. worth of supplies to the people, contributing by individual subscriptions from friends in Boston and other places.

He served as Chaplain, Department of Montana G.A.R., 1916-17. He was elected at Boston, Mass., Aug. 23, 1917, Chaplain-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic for the ensuing year, his certificate signed by Orlando A. Somers, Commander-in-Chief, Attest: Robert W. McBride. He was Chaplain of the Montana Legislature (H.R.), 1917-20.

After eighteen years' residence in Montana, during sixteen of which he resided in Billings, he removed with his family to Long Beach, Calif., in 1919. He was Chaplain of G.A.R. Post No. 161, Long Beach, Calif.; and a member of the Sons of the Revolution, Los Angeles, Calif. In politics he was a Republican.

At the request of the Nebraska Historical Society, he has contributed valuable data in regard to the early history of the state which has been printed in the publications of the Society.

Charles E. Tebbetts—An Appreciation

Teacher, Scholar, Pastor, Friend—Patient, Well-shod, Victorious

THE passing of Charles E. Tebbetts from our midst is recognized with a feeling of sacred solemnity, a sorrow for our loss, yet rejoicing for his triumphant entrance into the realm of the infinite.

His life began in Muscatine, Iowa, April 25th, 1855. He was a birthright Friend, the only child of Charles A. and Mary H. Tebbetts. The one desire and purpose of his parents concerning him was that he should know the Lord and be one who should serve him freely and effectively all his life. They were both ministers, and so carefully did they train him in the nurture and admonition of the Lord that he did not remember a time when he did not love his Saviour and desire to do his will.

His early education was in the schools of the community and later in a private school taught by his uncle Joel Bean, at West Branch, Iowa. From here he went to Haverford College in Pennsylvania, graduating from there in 1875 at the age of 20. The year following this he taught in a Friends school at Union Springs, N. Y., and went from there to Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa, where he gave the years 1877 to 1887 in teaching. During this time he gathered a fine collection of geological specimens which he presented to Penn College. While teaching here he took his Master's degree from Iowa State University by special study in science.

He was married in 1879 to Imelda Painter of his home town, Muscatine, Iowa, who passed away less than two months ago, and whom he so fully expected to join in a little while that he did not grieve because of her absence, but enjoyed a feeling of restful faith for the future. They were expecting to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary this July, and he felt this disappointment but accepted the providence in loving submission. He was endowed with a gift in the ministry and having been consecrated to this service by his parents, he began preaching almost simultaneously with his teaching. During his service at Penn College he preached in the places in reach of Oskaloosa and thus developed his gift though it was not recognized officially by the church till some time later.

From Iowa he moved to Pasadena, Calif., in 1887. The present city was then in its pioneer period, as was also the Friends church there. Here he was recorded a minister of the gospel while in his thirties, and served the church there as pastor for eleven years. He also ministered to the church in Los Angeles for a shorter time.

When the idea of a college at Whittier was born in the minds of a few, he, being always a friend of education, yielded his services as its first president, in 1901, while yet residing in Pasadena. After two years he moved to Whittier, continuing as president of the College till 1908. He had a conviction at this time that his work was to be changed, though not knowing what it would be. Then the call came to him by the Missionary Board of the Five Years Meeting, to become its General Secretary, to which service he gave ten most strenuous years.

For a long time, and before our people had become fully aroused to our responsibility for a share in the evangelization of the world, he was engaged in reading of the progress of missions throughout the world, and studying it with the eye of a statesman. He knew, by reading, all the pioneer missionaries of the world, and the heroism of their lives and their achievements in foundation work, on down to the then present status, and was thus fully equipped, when his hour came, for leadership along this line of endeavor, and he entered the wide open avenues for the service of the church in the world's field. During these ten years as General Secretary, he visited all of the American Yearly Meetings, and also that of England; attended the World's Missionary Conference held at Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1910, the Panama Conference held at Panama in January, 1916; the mission fields of Jamaica, Cuba, and Mexico; attended the missionary conventions of many of the large denominations, and became acquainted with their leaders in the field of missions; also shared in the great inter-denominational movements, such as the Laymen's Missionary Movement, the Men and Religion Movement, and speaking from their platforms, thus aiding in the general arousing of the church to its great responsibility and opportunity in the world field. Returning to California in 1916 he was given his LL.D. by Whittier College.

After retiring from these wider activities, he served the church in Brooklyn, N. Y., as its pastor for two years, relinquishing this service on account of his wife's health. He was the acting pastor of the Whittier church in 1918, since which time he has been helpful in supply work and helping in emergencies anywhere in reach.

To touch a few of these high points in his activities is to say, at least, but little. He was one of our best educated men. His graduation day was indeed his commencement, for from that time forward he was a close and continual student. He watched the movements of the nations of the world, was familiar with the doings of the church throughout Christendom, with the progress of education on all lines, watched it all with an eye on the progress of Christianity and the effect of all these things upon that progress. His confidence in the ultimate triumph of the gospel was deep and unmoved by anything that occurred.

The great reform movements that grew out of the gospel always had his loyal support; among which is that of peace as against war, for so long as the mighty utterance of our Lord, "Blessed are the peace-makers," stands unrepealed he believed it the church's duty and high privilege to stand on the Lord's side of this question.

HIGH SPIRITUAL ALTITUDE

His was a great soul, and his was a great brain; these combined their forces for one thing, the glory of God and his kingdom that shall have no end. The following quotation from him reveals his faith: "The sufferings and disappointed hopes of the present have no answer save in the glory which shall he revealed. All my study of nature points me to the fuller conception revealed in the Gospel of the Son of God. Even the earlier revelation tells me I am created in His image with possibilities of companionship with Him which makes my whole nature thirst for the living God, and which will only be satisfied when I awake in His likeness." His life was lived on this high spiritual altitude.

Doctor Reuben Haines Hartley at the funeral service said in part:

"He had served his first year on the faculty of Penn College when I entered the Freshman Class the following September. No other contact with teacher, friend, comrade has been of such import to me through the five decades since. In appraising the items in his character and life that made him mean so much of good a few stand out boldly. His unqualified and unhesitating commitment to Christian discipleship was like a tonic to my wavering heart from the first. He was not guessing or seeking for a path or way of life to walk in; he had found it. So early he began to see 'The light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ' and to be glad about it.

"He gave me the further impression of having a sane and fearless faith. He said in substance to us his students of those days: This is my Father's world—all its physical facts, laws, processes are His. All its spiritual interests and pathways are His also. They cannot conflict or be finally hostile the one to the other. All find their reason to be and to continue in His laws for man.

"Those were years of rapid advance in cosmical knowledge. Years of amazing discoveries in the world of matter. Years in which God's record in the rocks were revealing proof of processes in his creation. These records of the rocks seem to some a flat contradiction of the story of creation in Genesis. Ill-considered and hasty assertions from some scientists and equally ill-considered and unwarranted assertions from some theologians added to the confusion and the hearts of many were troubled. The faith that rested upon grave misunderstanding of the origin and purpose of the Bible wavered like a reed in the wind. To have this steady soul, secure in its Christian faith and at the same time running joyously with trusted scientists out into the farthest reaches of the known Universe was a blessing of incalculable value to our young and formative days. It was to myself a benefit of such magnitude that now, fifty years later I appraise it more highly than then and I dare believe there are many here and in all parts of our land who will do the same.

"That emancipated and fearless faith and intellect of Charles E. Tebbetts gave to many of us and gives still the all too rare experience of 'Loving the Lord Our God with all the mind.'

WELL DEVELOPED PATIENCE

"For nine years just past we frequently have been in each other's homes and had deep and to me most profitable fellowship. All the impressions given above and from youthful contacts have been deepened. I name some added ones. This Christian man, teacher, scholar, pastor, friend was impressive to me because of his patience. It is a very great virtue of slow growth, rare and much needed. To this he added a charity like the Charity of God. The comradeship of long years gave me knowledge of some of his personal experiences which, without real patience and Christian charity, embitter and break many men. By the integrity of his heart, the grace of God and a steady disciplined spirit he held his course in patience.

"I must not trespass further than to mention two more impressions of these later years. Speaking psychologically Charles Tebbetts carried the kit of a conqueror rather than the cumbrous baggage of a pleasure seeker. A conqueror's kit contains no unnecessary items. Many of us who try to be good pilgrims on the life path make it desperately hard because of the 'Superfluous Stuff,' theological and otherwise which we insist on carrying. I envied him that happy faculty of laying aside weights. Maybe that accounts for my second observation of these later years. He seemed one commissioned to tread the high ranges of God's heritage, material and spiritual. By birth, education, experience, discipline, his feet were well shod for high areas. Perhaps that accounts for the fact that he was not controversial, nor had not much appetite for trivialities. The pure and bracing air of the highlands make hunger for richer food. Here is a great lesson for all of us. Dr. Trueblood, his late pastor, well said, Charles E. Tebbetts' God was a Great God. By his life and mind and heart has he not often said just as Paul said, 'One God and Father of all, who is above all and through all and in all.'

"As we together have tarried a little over this fruitful life the dominant note in all our hearts is the note of victory. This is a great and good world in which the purposes of God through Jesus Christ 'travail together' with things material to produce such character as this, to which we pay loving tribute today. May my heart with yours be patient until that glad time when with him we may enjoy together all the implications of 'The Morning Star,' awarded to those who overcome; when as in the dear days gone we may together again seek to read more of the unread manuscripts of God."

For a few years his physical strength has been failing, the earthly house was being taken down little by little. When we review his life even casually, his faith, his love, his labors, we will with one consent "bury him among the Kings."

On June 11th, 1929, at 5:30 p. m. Charles E. Tebbetts crossed the bar, and met his pilot face to face. One daughter and two sons, Edith Tebbetts Clark and Dr. Herbert E. Tebbetts of Whittier, and Walter Tebbetts of Boston, Mass., survive him.

GOLDSBORO INGATHERING

Decision Day at Goldsboro, North Carolina, June 2, was a time of great uplift to the church, the pastor, Tennyson Lewis, conducted a combined service at the regular morning hour in which the younger people were given prominence. Following the class period and a time of inspiring song led by Tindon Hart in which all the congregation joined, the superintendent, T. R. Casey, gave a talk on the necessity of young people forming the habit of attending Bible School and the meeting for worship. Mrs. Frank Andrews spoke along the same line bringing the boys and girls up to the place where the pastor could call them to make a definite stand for the Christian life or take an advanced step in their Christian experience. Forty-one came forward to accept Christ as Savior or for advanced experience, and about twenty others, many of them older members of the congregation, lifted their hands for prayer. During this hour the Beginners and the Primary departments were cared for in the basement by their teachers, Alice Jay Lewis, Lida Turner and Mildred Brown. The day will be long remembered.

NOTED EDUCATOR DIES AT WHITTIER

Dr. Charles Edwin Tebbetts

WHITTIER, June 12.—Dr. Charles Edwin Tebbetts, aged 74, internationally known as one of the foremost educators and ministers of the Friends Church in America, died at his home here yesterday. Funeral services will be held at the First Friends Church, Whittier, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be at Pasadena.

Dr. Tebbetts was the first president of Whittier College, having assisted in the reorganization when the college was an academy. He served as president from 1901 to 1908. He was a member of the faculty of Penn College at Oscaloosa, Iowa, from 1877 to 1887. He was a graduate of Haverford College at Philadelphia. After he retired from the presidency of Whittier College, he served for eight years as general secretary of the foreign missionary board of the Friends Churches in America and was a member of the Five Year Meeting of Friends, at Richmond, Ind.

His work as secretary of the American board brought him in contact with many eminent churchmen and educators both in America and abroad, he having traveled extensively in Europe and South and Central America, where his work received high commendation.

He contributed largely to church papers and educational periodicals, and was universally recognized as one of the outstanding men of the Friends Church, but was perhaps as well known among the majority of other Protestant churches as he was among the Friends, owing to his wide acquaintance and the work which made him contact other educators.

He spent much of his youth in the Middle West, having been born at Muscatine, Iowa. With his family he came to Pasadena in 1887. At one time he was pastor of the Friends Church at Pasadena and later served in the same capacity at Whittier. He was married in 1879 to Miss Imelda Painter, daughter of John Painter, one of the pioneers of Pasadena, for whom the Painter Hotel was named and an avenue dedicated at Pasadena.

He is survived by one daughter and two sons. They are Mrs. Edith Tebbetts Clark (Mrs. David Clark,) Dr. Herbert E. Tebbetts, both of Whittier, and Walter Tebbetts of Boston.

Rev. Charles Edwin Tebbetts was internationally known as one of the foremost educators and ministers of the Friends Church in America. He was the first president of Whittier College at Whittier, Calif., having assisted in the re-organization when the college was an academy. His early education was in the schools of the community of his native town and later in a private school taught by his uncle Joel Bean at West Branch, Iowa. When sixteen years old he entered Haverford College at Haverford, Pa., and received from there the degree of Bachelor of Arts in 1875, when twenty years of age. The year following this, he taught in a Friends school at Union Springs, N.Y.
He was a member of the faculty of Penn College at Oscaloosa, Iowa, from 1877 to 1887, teaching science and mathematics. While teaching here he was granted his Master's degree from Iowa State University by special study in science. During his service at Penn College he preached in the places in reach of Oscaloosa.

From Iowa he moved to Pasadena, Calif. in 1887. He was one year principal of Pasadena High School. He was recorded a minister of the gospel while in his thirties and was pastor of the church in Pasadena for eleven years, from 1892 to 1903. He also ministered to the Friends church in Los Angeles for a shorter time.
He was the first president of Whittier College in 1901, while yet residing in Pasadena. After two years he moved to Whittier, continuing as president of the college until 1908. 326 Cyrus Ray[10] Tibbetts (Cyrus J.[9] (No.304), Henry C.[8], George[7], Benjamin[6], William[5], a Revolutionary soldier, Capt. Benjamin[4], Henry[3], Jeremiah[2], Henry[1]), was born in Oswego, Kans., 23 Oct. 1878; was four years of age when he was taken by his parents to Monroe, Benton Co., Oregon.

He enlisted at Eugene, Oregon, in April, 1898, in the Spanish-American War, in Company C, 2nd Oregon Volunteers, U.S. Army; served in the Philippines. He had previously been a member of the National Guard at Eugene, Oregon.

The hardships endured during the war undermined his health and he was never well afterward. He died 3 Jan. 1926, in U.S. Army hospital at Camp Lewis, Washington, whither he had gone for treatment.

He is buried in Mt. Hope Cemetery, San Diego, Calif., in the portion of the cemetery set aside for burial of Spanish-American war veterans. His funeral services, held in San Diego, Calif., conducted with military honours, were under the auspices of Bennington Post No. 20, United Spanish War Veterans.

He was always called by his middle name, Ray. He was the third son of Cyrus Jeffrey and Mary Jane (Martin) Tibbetts. He married in Poland, Arizona, 21 June 1913, Bertha Beatrice Jones, born 30th May 1887, in Wakefield, Kans., daughter of Lewis Jay Jones, of Welch ancestry, born near Utica, N.Y., 10 Sept. 1852, died in Forest City, Pa., 26 Oct. 1925, and Fannie Jane Martin his wife, born 14 March 1865, in Cook Co., Illinois, 32 miles from Chicago (married in Wakefield, Kans., 3 Oct. 1881), who was daughter of John Martin, born in England, and his wife Adeline Keller who was born near Montreal, Canada, both of whom were residents of Illinois at time of their marriage.

Cyrus Ray and Bertha Beatrice (Jones) Tibbetts had two children, as follows:

Notice

The following pages in this book contain records of families whose lines have not yet been connected by the present compiler.

Jacob Tibbetts (genealogical line as follows:
), mariner, of Rye, New Hampshire, was born in 1738, probably in vicinity of Dover, New Hampshire. He died in Bristol, Maine, in 1818 aged 80 years. He married Judith Berry, probably in vicinity of Rye, New Hampshire. She was born in Rye, N. H.. She died in Bristol, Maine, in 1834, aged ninety years. Her Berry ancestors are given through several generations in Parson's History of Rye, New Hampshire. She was daughter of Jotham and Mary (Bates) Berry of Rye, N.H., who were married 11 November 1731; granddaughter of Samuel and Abigail Berry of Rye; great grand-daughter of James Berry of Rye, N.H.; great-great grand-daughter of John and Susannah Berry of Rye, N.H.

Court records give name of Jacob Tibbets of Dover, N.H., mariner, being in Portsmouth in 1761. His name is variously spelled Parson's History of Rye gives Jacob and Judith (Berry) Tibbetts as living at Ragged Neck (afterward Rye), New Hampshire, and the names and years of birth of their children (page 545, History of Rye).

As shown by record, Jacob Tibbetts was a mariner and fisherman in vicinity of Rye, N.H., at the beginning of the Revolutionary war. He probably went to sea, coastwise, in his earlier years, as that was the principal occupation for young men of his time who resided in New England coast towns.
He was one of the signers of a petition to the Provincial Congress (full text of which is given below), dated 15 December 1775, signed by forty-six male residents of Rye, N. H., he being at that time a "Freeholder and Inhabitant" of Rye (a town about fifteen miles to the south and west of Portsmouth).

At the age of thirty-seven years he served in the Revolution in New Hampshire regiments. He served in 1775 (his name listed under spelling Jacob Tebbets), as a private in Capt. Jos. Parsons company. He also served as a private in Col. William Whipple's company and was engaged in coastwise defense in Portsmouth harbor and at Newcastle. Later he and others of his Company were sent to New York to reinforce the army at that point (see State Papers of New Hampshire (edited by Hammond), Vol. XIV, Rev. Rolls, Vol. 1).

After the Revolution, Jacob and Judith (Berry) Tibbetts removed with their family to Bristol, Maine, where they passed the rest of their lives.

In the U. S. Census of 1790, State of Maine, under the heading Waldoborough, Jacob Tibbetts is listed as head of a family consisting of 2 males over 16, 1 male under 16, and 2 females. He was a resident of Bristol which should be the proper heading. The Census of 1790 incorrectly gives citizens of Bristol under heading Waldoborough. He was taxed as a householder and landholder in Bristol in 1798.

Children:
(all except the last one, born and baptized at Rye, New Hampshire, the dates of birth as given in Parson's History of Rye, page 545):

i. Mary Tibbetts, born 1767; died in infancy.

ii. Samuel Berry Tibbetts, born 1771; was a well-known master mariner and landholder of Bristol, Maine. He bought much land near that of his father and his brother Thomas. The date of his death is mentioned in Johnson's History of Bristol and Bremen, Maine, but his age is erroneously given. He died 4 May 1830. He married Hannah Sproul.

iii. Mary Tibbetts, born 1773; married Daniel Smallege (also spelled Smellege and Smalledge), and removed from Bristol, Maine to Farmington, Maine about 1816.

iv. Thomas Tibbetts, born 21 April 1776; (of whom hereafter).

v. Edward Rendall Tibbetts, born 1778. (this name elsewhere given as Edmond).

vi. Jacob Tibbetts Jr., born probably after his parents removed to Bristol, Maine.

Town records of Bristol 1780 show laying out of a road for Jacob Tibbetts and others, through the land of Michael Clery, Robert Given, Jacob Tibbetts, and William Fossett, on east side of Pemaquid River.

Land records of Lincoln County disclose a deed dated May 5, 1814, made by Jacob Tibbetts and Judith Tibbetts his wife of Bristol, commonwealth of Maine, to Ebenezer Greenlaw for land in Bristol on the Pemaquid River south of the plot of land belonging to Samuel B. Tibbetts. This deed was recorded September 20, 1814.

Land records of Lincoln County disclose Three deeds, all dated February 20, 1805, as follows:-

1st- Alexander Fossett of Lincoln County to Samuel Tibbetts of same, mariner, for land in Bristol situate westerly side Round Pond near Boyd's Pond bounded by Robert Given.
2d- Jacob Tibbetts of Bristol to Samuel Tibbetts, for land in Bristol bounded by Alexander Lang, Elis Craig, and the Pemaquid fresh river.
3d- Alexander Given of Bristol to Samuel Tibbetts, mariner, for land in Bristol bounded by the Pemaquid fresh river, Jacob Tibbetts, Robert Given, and Alexander Fossett, Jr.

Also certificate of William McClintock sworn surveyor:-
"Lincoln December 1805 surveyed for Capt Samuel B. Tibbetts the"
"tract of land situate in Bristol, county of Lincoln, bounded as"
"follows:- Beginning at the stone wall which is the division line"
"between said Tibbetts and Jacob Tibbetts land on the easterly"
"bank of the Pemaquid fresh river."

The certificate gives courses and distance of boundary without naming adjoining owners. The property fronted on the Pemaquid fresh river, contains two hundred and eighteen acres.

Deed recorded in deed book 109 page 218 wherein Samuel B. Tibbetts of Bristol conveys to Francis Sproul part of the above tract; bounded by Ebenezer Greenlaw, the Pemaquid fresh river, William Fossett, and contains 115 acres.

Among the signers of the following Revolutionary pay account are to be found the names of Jacob Tibbetts, William Yeaton and others:

"We the subscribers severally Acknowledge to have Receiv'd of William Whipple and Josh[a] Wentworth Esq Six Pounds as Bounty & Two Pounds ten Shillings Lawf[l] money Billeting allowd by the Hon[able] General Court of the State of New Hampshire to the Soldiers raised to reinforce the army at New York (State Papers of New Hampshire (ed. by Hammond), Vol. XIV, Rev. Rolls, Vol. I, page 415).

His name is to be found under the spelling Jacob Tibbets as one of the signers of the following "Protest":

Family of Thomas and Frances (Yeaton) Tibbetts of Bristol, Maine and Windsor, Maine.

Thomas Tibbetts (genealogical line as follows: (Jacob No.), was born 21 April 1776, in Rye, New Hampshire, the son of Jacob Tibbetts (No.), and Judith Berry his wife. After the Revolution he was taken by his parents to Bristol, Maine, where he grew to manhood. Lincoln County, Maine deeds show that he owned land in Bristol. His occupation is unknown. In earlier years he may have gone to sea coastwise, as his father before him.

He died at Windsor, Maine, 6 May 1844, aged 64 years.

He resided at Bristol, Maine, until after the year 1811, as one of his sons was born at Bristol in that year. He removed later to Windsor, Maine. It was some years after this date (1811) that Windsor and neighboring towns were settled largely by people from Bristol and vicinity.

He married first, at Bristol, Maine, in 1802, Frances Yeaton, born 24 April 1781, died in Windsor, Maine, August 1821, aged 40 years, the daughter of Philip Yeaton who served in New Hampshire regiments during the Revolutionary War.

He married secondly, Mehitable Coburn, a widow, who was born in 1800.

Children by first wife I to V born in Bristol, Maine: VI to IX born in Windsor, Maine:

i. Thomas Tibbetts Jr., born 24 June 1803; died 1st November 1823, aged 20 years; unmarried.

ii. Mary Tibbetts, born 28 June 1805; married Isaac Brann (brother of the Daniel Brann who married her sister Elizabeth Tibbetts).

iii. Elizabeth Tibbetts, born 29 April 1807; married first, Daniel Brann; married second, B. T. Mason. Her two sons by her first husband, namely, Alexander and William A. Brann were in the Union army during the Civil War.

iv. Andrew Tibbetts, born 10 November 1808; married Eliza or Elvira Higgins.

v. Samuel Tibbetts, born 10 January 1811, in Bristol, Maine; married Maria W. Merrill. He removed from Windsor, Maine to East Thomaston (now Rockland), Maine, prior to year 1840, and was a resident of what is now Rockland for many years. He had a large family of children. One of his sons, namely, Henry G. Tibbetts served in 4th Maine regt. during the Civil War.

vi. Frances Tibbetts, born 3 January 1813; married first, Eli Gray. She married secondly, Capt. James N. Wood, a sea-captain.
Children by second husband (surname Wood):

i. Charles, now (1926) residing in Portland, Oregon.

2. Anna, who died aged about sixteen years.

vii. Judith Tibbetts, born 8 June 1814; died 12 Sept. 1826, aged 12 years.

viii. Alpheus Chandler Tibbetts, born 12 December 1817 (of whom hereafter).

ix. Hannah Jane Tibbetts, born 14 June 1821; married Capt. Charles C. Duncan, a sea-captain sailing out of Bath, Me. She was the youngest child of Thomas Tibbetts and Frances Yeaton his first wife.
Six children (surname Duncan): 1. Emma. 2. Jane. 3. Charles. 4. Fred. 5. George. 6. Henry.

Children of Thomas Tibbetts by second wife, all born in Windsor, Maine, as follows:

x. Hester A. Tibbetts, born 6 November 1822; married Leonard Cotton.

xi. Angeline Tibbetts, born 21 September 1826; married a Mr. Chase.

xii. Thomas Tibbetts Jr., born 27 July 1830; married a Miss Chase.

xiii. Leonard S. Tibbetts, born 30 April 1839; (died young).

Family of Alpheus Chandler and Elizabeth Fidelia (Farrow) Tibbetts of Bath, Maine and Rockland, Maine.

Alpheus Chandler Tibbetts (genealogical line as follows: (Thomas (No.), Jacob), sail-maker of Bath, Maine and Rockland, Maine, was born 12 Dec. 1817 in Windsor, Kennebeck County, Maine. He was a resident of Rockland, Maine for more than fifty years; diedtthere 1 Feb. 1890, aged 72 years, 1 month, 17 days; buried in Rockland cemetery. He was fourth son and eighth child of Thomas Tibbetts (No.), and Frances Yeaton his first wife who were residents of Bristol, Maine and Windsor, Maine.

He married in Rockland, Maine, 30 Aug. 1840, Elizabeth Fidelia Farrow, born 16 Aug. 1822 at Ilesboro, Maine, died in Rockland, Maine, 1 Dec. 1867, aged 45 years, buried beside husband. She was daughter of Capt. William Farrow (a sea-captain) who served in the War of 1812, who was taken prisoner at sea and confined in a prison ship during the war. (one of whose sons, namely, Thomas J. Farrow, served in the U. S. Navy during the Civil War). She was grand-daughter of Josiah Farrow who was an old Revolutionary soldier.

Alpheus Chandler Tibbetts followed the sea coastwise when a boy, and afterwards served as an apprentice to a sail-maker of Bath, Maine; after finishing his trade he removed prior to 1840 to East Thomaston (now Rockland), Maine, and carried on the business of sail-making until the time of his death. At one time he owned considerable shipping property in Rockland.

In May 1850, it was decided to re-incorporate East Thomaston under the name Rockland. In 1868 Rockland numbered some eight thousand population. At this time there were no railroads leading through that part of Maine. The principal business of Rockland consisted of lime-burning, ship-building, and mercantile pursuits connected with that kind of business. Lime shipments were made wholly by water, each manufacturer owning the greater share of vessels employed by him, and in consequence there was a large sea-faring population regularly residing at the port.

Like all New England towns of that period, the population of Rockland was composed of families and people who had long resided in the community, and were well known to one another. If a stranger made his appearance in town, he was at once spotted and his history became known to the towns-people. The statement is emphatically made, that during their many years of residence in Rockland, the families of Alpheus Chandler Tibbetts and his brother Samuel Tibbetts were the only ones of the Tibbetts name who resided there during their time.

Both had large families of children.

Children of Alpheus Chandler and Elizabeth Fidelia (Farrow) Tibbetts, all born in Rockland, Maine, as follows:

i. Hannah E. Tibbetts, born 17 July 1841; married in 1864, Capt. Samuel P. Wilson of Rockland, Maine, a sea-captain. He died of yellow fever at Santiago, Cuba, while in command of the three-masted schooner "William Wilson". She died and is buried in Hallowell, Maine.

They had only one child, namely, Frank Tibbetts, who died at Rockland, Maine, aged twenty-one years, unmarried.

ii. Helen A. Tibbetts, born 24 Aug. 1845; married in 1873, Louis C. Tuck, educator, of Faribault, Minnesota. She died at Faribault, Minn. and is buried in Rockland, Maine.
No children.

iii. Albert Chandler Tibbetts, born 15 May 1850 (of whom hereafter).

iv. Maria Cobb Tibbetts, born 25 May 1854; married Augustus D. Bird, lime-burner, ship-owner, merchant, of Rockland, Maine.
Two children, as follows:

1. Ralph Butler Bird, born in Rockland, Maine, 15 June 1883; is a ship-designer and resides now (1926) in Oakland, Calif. He attended public schools in Rockland, Maine; was graduated from Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass., in 1902; attended University of Maine at Orono, Maine, three years, 1902-1905.
He married in Alameda, Calif., 2 Feb. 1920, Theresa Nittler, born 4 June 1896, in Alameda, Calif.

2. Walter Judson Bird, born in Rockland, Maine, 4 July 1889; received his preliminary education in public schools of Rockland, Maine; attended Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.; attended Peekskill Military Academy at Peekskill, N.Y.; was graduated from University of Maine Law School, Bangor, Maine. He married Julia McPherson of St. Louis, Mo. They reside 12 Stuart Ave., Flushing, New York.

v. William Frederick Tibbetts, born 7 June 1858; resides in Rockland, Maine; is a sail-maker and was formerly a manufacturer of lime; was for twenty-five years, U. S. Shipping Commissioner at Rockland. He married first, at Rockland, Maine, Alice Cobb; and married secondly at Rockland, Maine, Gertrude Burkett. One child by his first wife, namely, Edna Tibbetts, who married Alexander B. Browne of Rockland, Maine, and has one child, namely, Fern Marie Browne.

vi. Walter Greenough Tibbetts, born 26 Sept. 1860; resides in Alameda, California; married Grace T Cilley in Rockland, Maine. (Further records hereafter). He adopted the spelling Tibbitts and his descendants still retain this spelling of the surname.

Family of Capt. Albert Chandler Tibbetts of Eureka, California

Albert Chandler Tibbetts (genealogical line as follows: Alpheus Chandler (No.), Thomas , Jacob , a master mariner, of Eureka, California, was born 15 May 1850, in Rockland, Maine, the son of Alpheus Chandler Tibbetts (See No.) and Elizabeth Fidelia Farrow his wife. He died 28 June 1928 in Eureka, California.

He settled in Eureka, Calif., in September 1871. He handled foreign lumber shipments from this port for thirty-five years, and tow-boats, sea-going, twenty-eight years of that time.

For four years he acted as harbor commissioner, port of Eureka, Calif. He was appointed surveyor for port of Eureka, Calif., by the Board of Marine Underwriters of San Francisco 11 April 1899; still acting in that capacity (1926).

He was appointed surveyor for port of Eureka, Calif., by the American Bureau of Shipping of New York, N. Y., 1 February 1918; still acting in that capacity. Of himself he writes: "The call of the sea is something inbred in me, coming as it does through successive generations on both sides of my ancestry" . . . . . All three of his sons were deep-water sailors; they went to sea young and figured in off-shore craft.

For ten years he served as school director of the Eureka public schools. In politics he is a Republican.

He married in Eureka, Calif., 1 December 1878, Hannah Elizabeth Kimball, born 4 March 1858, in Eureka, Calif., the daughter of John Henry[8] Kimball, who was born in Salem, Mass., 28 August 1829, died in Eureka, California, 28 May 1886, in which town he had settled in 1854, and Sophia Thompson (Moulton) his wife, who was born in York, Maine, and married at San Francisco, Calif., 24 April 1852.

In the paternal line, Mrs. Hannah Elizabeth (Kimball) Tibbetts is of the ninth generation from Richard[1] Kimball, of Rattlesden, co. Suffolk, England, wheelwright, who, with his wife Ursula, daughter of Henry and Martha Scott of Rattlesden, and several children, came to Boston from Ipswich, England, in the "Elizabeth" in 1634. He settled first at Watertown, Mass., where he was freeman in 1635, and about 1638 removed to Ipswich, Mass., where he died 22 June 1675, aged above eighty years. From him, Mrs. Hannah Elizabeth (Kimball) Tibbetts is descended through John[2], Benjamin[3], Benjamin[4], Benjamin[5], Jacob[6], John[7], and John Henry[8], her father.

John[7] Kimball (above named) was born in Salem, Mass., 6 December 1800, died in Reading, Mass., 24 June 1857; married (first) 3 April 1823, Eliza Morinde, born in 1802, died 16 September 1825; married (second), 5 July 1826, Hannah Wallis Potter, born 6 January 1802, died 11 December 1884.

He had one child by first wife and three children by second wife, among whom (by second wife) was John Henry[8] Kimball, the father of Mrs. Hannah Elizabeth (Kimball) Tibbetts, wife of Capt. Albert Chandler Tibbetts. The above data taken from old Kimball family Bible in possession of Capt. and Mrs. Albert Chandler Tibbetts of Eureka, Calif., which Bible includes dates of birth of the children of John[7] Kimball: the balance from "History of the Kimball Family in America", 1634 to 1897, by Leonard Allison

Family of Capt. Albert Chandler Tibbetts

Morrison and Stephen Paschall Sharpless.

Capt. Albert Chandler Tibbetts and Hannah Elizabeth (Kimball) his wife have had four children, all born in Eureka, Calif., as follows:

i. Alfred Davis Tibbetts, master mariner (twin), born 8 July 1880; resides in Alameda, Calif. After completing the course in the public schools of Eureka, he went to sea at an early age; was an officer on U. S. army transport "Hancock" during the Boxer uprising in China; also in that ship, and U. S. army transport "Kilpatrick" during the Spanish-American War.
He obtained his first command when twenty-six years of age, had unlimited license, any tonnage, and on any ocean.
He sailed around the world three times. One of his commands was the Pacific Mail S. S. Co.'s steamer "Kansas City" on the run to Panama. He is now master of steamers of the Pacific S. S. Co., and resides in Alameda, Calif.
He married in Eureka, Calif., Grace Thompson Brown of Eureka, Calif., daughter of William Thompson Brown and E-Elida Campbell his wife, both of whom were natives of New Brunswick, Canada. Five children, all born in Alameda, Calif., as follows:
1. Alfred Clarence, born 8 November 1909; died 27 November 1917.
2. Robert, born 28 September 1912.
3. John Kimball, born 19 July 1915.
4. Joseph Albert, a twin, born 17 July 1917 (his twin brother born and died unnamed 17 July 1917).
5. William Henry, born 21 July 1923.

ii. Alfreda Tibbetts, (twin), born 8 July 1880; after completing the High School course in Eureka, Calif., studied vocal music for three years under Professor Halle, a student under Garcia, and with Miss Alice Rhine, a student under Mme. Marchesi of Paris, France.
She married in Eureka, Calif., Charles Field Wisner of Grand Forks, North Dakota, son of William P. Wisner, born in Florida, Orange Co., N. Y., and Mary Roe his wife, born near Campbell Hall, Orange Co. N. Y. They resided for a number of years in Grand Forks, N. Dakota, removing thence to Long Beach, Calif., and later removed (in 1925) to Alameda, Calif.
Two children, both of whom were born in Grand Forks, North Dakota, as follows:

1. Albert Tibbetts Wisner, born 8 April 1908; was graduated from High School, Long Beach, Calif., in 1925; now (1926) attending the Affiliated Colleges in San Francisco, Calif., studying dentistry.
2. Marion Roe Wisner, born 20 August 1910; a student (1926) in High School at Alameda, Calif.

iii. Joseph Kimball Tibbetts, born 11 March 1882; was killed in an automobile collision near Eureka, Calif., 25 August 1921. After completing the course in public schools of Eureka, he went to sea at an early age. He served on chartered transport "Charles Nelson" during the Spanish-American War. He obtained his first command when twenty-six years of age, and, among other vessels, was in command of Strs. MIDDLEBURY, WESTINSKIP, and CUBA, of the Pacific Mail S. S. Co.

At the time of his death, he was master of coastwise steamer.

He married in Santa Rosa, Calif., Louise Manila Banks, of Eureka, Calif., born in Manila, Philippine Islands, passed five years of her early life on shipboard, then was taken by her parents to Boston, Mass., and from thence to Eureka, Calif., daughter of Capt. Arthur Gamaliel Banks and Eliza Tomlinson his wife, both of whom were natives of Nova Scotia,. No children.

iv. John Palfrey Tibbetts, born 18 July 1884; resides in Alameda, Calif.; after completing the course in public schools of Eureka, Calif., went to sea at an early age; served on U. S. Army Transport LOGAN, during the Spanish-American War. He obtained his first command when thirty years of age. During the World War, he was called to the U. S. Naval Reserve while on the run from San Francisco. A short time prior to this, he was master of the Oceanic S. S. Co.'s steamer "Ventura" to Sydney, via. Honolulu and Samoan Islands. His last command was the Str. WEST ELDARA, on voyage from Puget Sound, via. San Francisco to Panama, New York, Gibraltar and Constantinople. He is now (1926) Asst. Inspector of Hulls, U. S. Steamboat Inspection Service, and resides in Alameda, Calif.

He married (first) in Santa Rosa, Calif., Grace Inez Butcher, daughter of Butcher and Lucy Shaw his wife.

He married (second), in San Francisco, Calif., Edith M. Hall.

Children by first wife, both born in Santa Rosa, Calif., as follows:

1. Juanita Elizabeth Tibbetts, born 12 May 1910.
2. Pauline Inez Tibbetts, born 12 June 1912.

Note: The late Capt. Albert Chandler Tibbetts of Eureka, Calif., contributed all data relating to the branch of Jacob and Judith (Berry) Tibbetts of Rye, N. H., and Bristol, Maine and their descendants.

Family of Walter Greenough Tibbitts of Alameda, Calif.

Walter Greenough Tibbitts of Alameda, Calif., ship builder, president pf home building company (genealogical line as follows: Alpheus Chandler (No.), Thomas, Jacob, a soldier in the Revolutionary War was born at Rockland, Maine, 26 Sept. 1860, the third son and sixth child of Alpheus Chandler Tibbetts and Elizabeth Fidelia Farrow his wife (See Hist. Thomaston, Maine, vol. 2, p. 433).

He was killed in an automobile accident near Placerville, Calif., 23 Aug. 1931, aged 70 years. He adopted the spelling Tibbitts, being the only member of his branch to use this spelling. He married at Rockland 12 Sept. 1893, Grace Thurber Cilley, born at Rockland 2 Nov. 1867, living, a widow, at Alameda in 1938, daughter of Brig. Gen. Jonathan Prince Cilley, A.B. (Bowdoin College, 1858), of Thomaston, Maine, lawyer officer in the Civil War, and Caroline Abigail Lazell his wife (New Eng. Hist. Gen. Register, vol. 89, p. 109). She is a granddaughter of Hon. Jonathan Cilley, A.B. (Bowdoin, 1825), member of Congress from Thomaston, Maine, who was born in Nottingham, New Hampshire, and Deborah Prince his wife, also of Thomaston, Maine (who were married in Thomaston, Maine, 2 April 1829). Note: Hon. Jonathan Cilley entered Bowdoin College in the fall of 1821, was a classmate and close personal friend of Nathaniel Hawthorne and Franklin Pierce (who became the fourteenth President of the United States), Horatio Bridge, Alfred Mason and others. She is a great-granddaughter of Greenleaf Cilley; and great-great-granddaughter of Col. Joseph Cilley of Nottingham, New Hampshire who commanded a regiment during the Revolution. Eaton's History of Thomaston, Rockland and South Thomaston, Maine, written before the close of the Civil War, says of Brig. Gen. Jonathan Prince Cilley (her father): "Lt. Col. Jonathan Prince Cilley was born 29 Dec. 1835 at Thomaston, Maine; declining a cadetship at West Point, he was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1858; was admitted to the bar at Rockland, Maine in 1860; entered on the practice of law at Thomaston, Maine, but soon became Captain of Company B, 1st Maine Cavalry; promoted to Major and Lt. Col.; wounded second time in '64." At close of the war he was Brevet Brigadier General.

Walter Greenough Tibbitts was named for a friend of his father, and the name Greenough is not a family name. He left Rockland about 1888; went to sea until about 1895, then lived in San Francisco a year or so and moved to Alameda in 1897 where he lived continuously up to the time of his death.

He was for a long time master of vessels and later, proprietor of a ship-yard in Alameda. He was president of a home building company and was identified with various business interests there.

He was a member of the San Francisco Merchants Exchange some years ago. In politics he was a Republican and an active and prominent worker for the party.

He was probably of the seventh generation and is therefore placed in that generation although it is possible that he may belong in the sixth.
Jonathan[7] Tibbet was born about 1788-9. He married Huldah Root about 1810. She was born in Vermont and was of German lineage (See Hist. of Los Angeles Co., Calif., p. 821, pub. by Lewis Publishing Co., 1889 edition). He settled in Medina Co., Ohio where he lived for many years. In old age he went from Ohio to California and died at the home of one of his children (probably in Los Angeles County).

(Note: The Hist. of Los Angeles Co., Calif., p. 821, published by the Lewis Publishing Co., 1889 edition, states that the above-named Jonathan Tibbet was born in New York state, settled in Medina Co., Ohio, and that his wife was Huldah Root who was born in Vermont and was of German ancestry: that they had a very large family, fourteen in all, of whom their son Jonathan (mentioned below) was their sixth child).

Jonathan[8] Tibbet (of genealogical line: Jonathan,[7] was born 18 Dec. 1822 in Medina Co., Ohio; died 18 April 1904, near Sawtell, Los Angeles Co., Calif. He was the son of Jonathan and Huldah (Root) Tibbet. He married Phoebe Jane Paint of Akron, Ohio, daughter of Stephen and Eleanor (Schofield) Paint of Akron, Ohio, but formerly of New York state. She died 29 Sept. 1892, near Sawtell, Los Angeles Co., Calif.

Jonathan Tibbet went to California in 1849; worked at San Pedro; later left for the mines in northern California, at Hang Town, now Placerville. Later he was for many years and until his death, a farmer, near Santa Monica, Calif., his home being near what is now Sawtell (a suburb of Los Angeles).

The following statement in regard to the above-named Jonathan Tibbet is made in pages 821-822 "An Illustrated History of Los Angeles County, California," by H.W. Warner. Published by Lewis Publishing Company of Chicago in 1889: "Mr. Tibbet left Ohio in 1849. Leaving the Missouri River July 4, 1849 he arrived in Los Angeles Feb. 17, 1850. Mined in El Dorado County, being quite successful. Then returned to Ohio but came back in 1853 bringing a drove of cattle and sheep. Farmed successfully at El Monte then moved to Compton and later to Santa Monica."

The above sketch in the Los Angeles County History was undoubtedly from a personal interview and in it the names of his parents are given, as stated on preceding page.

Children:

Mrs. Rebecca Tibbet. Among the very first settlers at Kern Island and a pioneer of Kern County is Mrs. Rebecca Tibbet who came hither on March 1, 1864 with her husband and four children. Grandma Tibbet, as she is called, was born in La Grange County, Indiana July 31, 1835, and was the daughter of Nathaniel and Annie (Lawrence) Callahan, natives of Delaware and Ohio respectively. In her native county Rebecca Callahan was brought up and received her education in the local schools. There she was married April 24, 1853 to Edward Tibbet, a native of Ohio. The week after their marriage they started on their honeymoon trip. going by boat to St. Joe, Missouri, thence crossing the plains with ox teams, being en route from May 3 until Nov. 25 when they arrived at San Gabriel mission.

In 1864 they went to Kern Island and purchased an 80 acre farm from Col. Baker. Mr. Tibbet died in 1879, aged 52 years. Had 12 children - 7 grew up.

Along the GLORY ROAD

By LAWRENCE TIBBETT

A great singer tells his own story

IT SEEMS to me that I have been unusually fortunate in having in my short but turbulent and hilarious and hysterical life a great number of moments that gave me real cause for rejoicing.

There was the night at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York when I sang Ford to Scotti's Falstaff, and the next morning awoke to find, for the first time, reporters and photographers and newsreel men at my door. There was the recent premiere of The Emperor Jones and there was the first night of The Rogue Song, a motion picture which the forecasters had predicted would be a very sour can of colored film and which I guessed would be worse—but which proved to be pretty good, after all.

But none of those moments compare in importance to one in Los Angeles when I was twenty-five years old. This was the turning point in my life.

I was just another hammy singer and didn't know it. In five minutes Basil Ruysdael, huge, hearty, blunt, with a torrid vocabulary, changed my entire point of view toward music. He made an honest baritone out of me.

He taught me how to pronounce "wind"—the wind that blows.

Ruysdael, now a radio announcer, had been a successful basso at the Metropolitan Opera House and had come to Los Angeles to teach singing. He was engaged by the California Opera Company to play the bass lead in a production of The Mikado, and I went to the theater where he was appearing to find out if I couldn't get a job in the show.

I had been singing in movie theaters and in churches and thought I was some-of Beverly Hills, Los Angeles, Calif., and of New York City, baritone, who has become one of the most distinguished members of the Metropolitan Opera Company in New York, was born 16 Nov. 1896, in Bakersfield, Calif., the son of William Edward and Frances Ellen (Mackenzie) Tibbett. He is a grandson of Edward and Rebecca (Callahan) Tibbett, pioneer settlers of Bakersfield, California, who came to Bakersfield in 1864 (Hist. of Kern County, p.1076), from La Grange Co., Indiana. He is a great-grandson of Jonathan and Huldah (Root) Tibbett who were residents of Medina Co., Ohio, in the 1820's.

He married first, 19 May 1919 in Los Angeles, Calif., Grace Mackay Smith of Los Angeles.

He married secondly, in New York City, 1 Jan. 1933, Mrs. Jennie (Marston) Burgard of San Francisco, daughter of Edgar Lewis and Jennie C. (Hunter) Marston (Register, vol. 90, p. 360).

Children by first wife:

i. Richard Mackay[11] Tibbett (twin), b. 9 Feb. 1920 in Los Angeles, Calif.

ii. Lawrence Ivan[11] Tibbett (twin), b. 9 Feb. 1920 in Los Angeles, Calif.

Child by second wife:

iii. Michael Edward[11] Tibbett, b. 17 Aug. 1933.

Lawrence Mervil Tibbett first appeared on concert stage in Los Angeles, 1917: operatic debut in Hollywood Bowl, singing part of Amonasro in "Aida," Sept. 1923: debut with Metropolitan Opera Company in New York as Valentine in "Faust," 30 Nov. 1923; given ovation at revival of Verdi's "Falstaff," Metropolitan Opera House, 2 Jan. 1925, at which time he was cast as "Ford," to sing with the world-famed Scotti.

He was but six years of age when the tragic death of his father occurred, in 1902. His father, William E. Tibbett, who was Sheriff of Kern County, Calif., was killed while he, in performance of his duty, was trying to arrest bandits who had been committing depradations. Survived by his wife and four children, the wife soon after the tragedy took her four children, a daughter and three sons, one of whom was Lawrence Mervil, from their home in Bakersfield, to Los Angeles.

When he became a little older, Lawrence was permitted to spend his summer vacations at an uncle's ranch in the Tejon Mountains. Here he rode an Indian pony and his uncle's cowpunchers taught him to rope and brand, and when it came time for the roundups he was allowed to stay out on the range with them for days at a time, sleeping at night in the open.

The influences which helped to mold his character and develop his talents are mentioned in an article on his early life, written by himself, which was published in Everybody's Magazine, December number, 1925, in which appear the following statements:

"Fortunately for me, school presented one particularly alluring charm. I had, perhaps, a natural aptitude for reading aloud. At any rate when I was called on in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades to read simpler passages of Shakespeare before the class, I ate them up. The majestic swing and rhythm of the lines meant music to me. Then and there, though I did not know it, my training as a singer had begun. There can be no better foundation in schooling for either song or opera than speaking Shakespeare naturally, with proper emphasis, rhythm and understanding of word values.

"At the High School of Manual Arts in Los Angeles, when I finally reached it, another fortunate influence helped shape my course. Miss Howell, who later became stage manager for George Arliss, was the head of the Dramatic Department in that institution. The plays which Miss Howell gave us to act were chosen for their literary merit, and her class became a school for English diction, indispensable in singing.

Another, and a very important influence, was Reginald Pole, nephew of Pole, the foremost Shakesperean producer in England, whose newer methods gained praise from Granville Barker and Bernard Shaw. Reginald Pole it was, who later trained me for out-door performances of Othello, in which I played "Iago," and as "Flute" in Midsummer Night's Dream."

His first professional engagement was in a company assembled by Tyrone Power to play Shakesperean repertory; his debut part was "Casca" in Julius Caesar. Not long afterward he was playing with the Community Theater Company at Hollywood.

In the World War he served two years in the U.S. Navy on U.S.S. "Iris"; was honorably discharged in San Francisco in May, 1919, being then 22 years old. Four days after his discharge he married in Los Angeles, Calif., Grace Mackay Smith with whom he had fallen in love in their high school days. One year later their twin boys were born.

His struggles to support his little family during the next few years are best told by himself in the magazine article above-mentioned. Always he held his church choir position which meant something permanent; was re-engaged at the Community Theater in Hollywood; sang with the California Opera Company, giving light opera up and down the coast; sang in the Sunday Symphony concerts in Los Angeles; studied voice under Joseph Dupuy and Basil Ruysdael, Los Angeles.

In 1922, when twenty-five years of age, by borrowing money from a friend, with life insurance as collateral, he got enough together to take his wife and their twin boys, Richard and Lawrence, with him to New York. He studied with Frank La Forge; sang Sundays at the North Avenue Presbyterian Church in New Rochelle; was given two auditions at the Metropolitan; sang before Mr. Gatti-Casazza in a general one and then privately to him alone; was engaged for the opera. That was five months after he arrived in New York.

He states: "The demands of grand opera are strenuous. To me, the work of memorizing the music roles in opera was terribly difficult. To make matters worse, the roles given me to get ready for performance were in foreign languages. I knew only English. The word is equally important with the note sung to it, for it gives that note a reason for existence. I had to master those foreign words without any preparation in grammar or vocabulary, memorizing them by rote in either the Italian, French, or German. Also, they had to be given their full value in tone color and emphasis. It was somewhat of a job. Since then I have studied languages in a more conventional way. The severest test I had in this direction was for my actual debut at the Metropolitan. I had to learn in French the role of "Valentine" in Faust, and be ready to appear in it on three days' notice."

His great opportunity came in his second season at the Metropolitan when, in January, 1925, he was given the part of "Ford" in Verdi's Falstaff and, in the second act, sang a remarkable monologue with such beauty and range of dramatic power that he plunged the opera audience into a turmoil. The entire performance was stopped for fifteen minutes while a wild audience stamped, shouted, clapped, cheered and yelled approval of his beautiful singing and his dramatic fire. He was given an ovation such as no other singer has received in that historic opera house, and his name was flashed over the world. Without any European training he had taken the opera world by storm. Among the audience were the leading critics of America.

After his meteoric rise to fame he was deluged with requests to accept engagements in concert. They came from all parts of this country. He signed a contract with Evans and Salter. They had exclusive control of his services for one year. His youthful, unaffected manner helped almost as much as his strong, velvety voice to make him a success in concerts. At the expiration of this contract he was given increasingly important roles at the Metropolitan: Amonasro in Aida; Telramund in Lohengrin; Wolfram in Tannhauser; King Edgar in The King's Henchman; Colonel Ibbetson in Peter Ibbetson; Jonny in Jonny Spielt Auf; the elder Germont in La Traviata; Sheriff Jack Rance in The Girl of the Golden West.

Besides opera and concert engagements his departure into two fields unheard of by oldtime singers has combined to make him the most popularly known singer in the United States. In 1930/31 he went west to make his first picture, "The Rogue's Song," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular singing and talking drama, which had its premiere at Grauman's Theater, Hollywood, 17 Jan. 1931, a tense love drama of Russia, directed by Lionel Barrymore and filmed entirely in color.

From Time, January 16, 1933:

"In "Emperor Jones" (produced in January, 1933), twenty times Baritone, Lawrence Tibbett went out in front of the curtain of Manhattan's Metropolitan Opera House to bow right and left in a shattering storm of applause for his superb singing and acting." . .

"After last week's performance he and the public knew that he had more~~/~~ than held his lead among his contemporaries in his progress towards the high place once held by Giuseppe Campanari, Maurice Renaud, Pasquale Amato, Antonio Scotti. Campanari is dead. Renaud and Amato are no longer singing. Scotti will give his farewell performance next week. There remains no baritone of potentially historic acclaim save Tibbett, who, eseantially practical and intelligent about his career, wastes no time worrying about his temperament but proceeds methodically, laboriously to equip himself for great things."

He beliwves that Radio has done more in a few years to further the public's appreciation of good music than years of school work could have done. In the winter of 1932 he gave thirteen Monday night broadcasts for Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, over an NBC network, accompanied by William Daly's orchestra. In the winter of 1933 he did the same.

He sang at the opening of the Century of Progress Exposition, Chicago, 27 May 1933, contributing his services.

Edward Johnson, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Association says of Lawrence Tibbett "He has a capacity for hard work beyond belief."

Family of Samuel and Eunice (Knight) Tibbot of Ohio, and Marion Co., Iowa, later of Oskaloosa, Kans.

Samuel Tibbot of genealogical line (

Samuel Tibbot was a native of Ohio. He was born 27 March 1809. He died in 1881, aged 72 years, at Halstead, Kans. Family tradition states that he was of Welch descent. He had two brothers and one sister, as follows: 1. Isaac Tibbot, married and lived in Indiana. 2. William Milton Tibbot, went to California during the gold rush in 1849 and died there some years later; was married. 3. Eliza, b. in 1824, who married Adam Given Gibson and lived on a farm near Wawaka, Indiana.

The above-named Samuel Tibbot was married three times. He married first, 11 Sept. 1831, Eunice Knight, born 20 Jan. 1811 in Indiana, died 25 Feb. 1862, in her 51st year, in Marion Co., Iowa.

He married secondly, 25 March 1863, E. Jane Knight, born in Indiana in 1823, a sister of his first wife. She died 24 Aug. 1871, in her 49th year, near Oskaloosa, Kansas.

He married thirdly, 28 March 1874, Mary H. Woods.

Prior to 1843 he moved to Des Moines, Iowa; later removed to Marion Co., Iowa where he lived for many years. After the year 1858 and before 27 May 1864 he removed with his family to Kansas and purchased a farm six miles from Oskaloosa, Douglass County, on the road to Lawrence, in what was called the Tibbot neighborhood. Still later he removed to Cedar Co., Missouri and lived near Stockton which is the county seat. He died at Halstead, Kans., as stated above.

Lyman Tibbets, of genealogical line (

The following account, written by Judge George W. Tibbets of Hastings, Nebraska, under date of 14 Oct. 1933, gives a brief outline relating to his grandfather Lyman Tibbets:

Lyman Tibbets, born at Gaylord's Bridge, Connecticut, died about 1873 in Allegany Co., New York. As a young, unmarried man he went from Connecticut to Poughkeepsie, N.Y. He married at Poughkeepsie, a descendant of Jacob Vanderbogart.

He moved from Poughkeepsie to Seneca County, and from there to Allegheny Co., N.Y., where he was one of the early settlers. He was a soldier in the War of 1812 and drew a pension as such until the time of his death.

(Note: Lyman Tibbets had one brother who lived and died at Gaylord's Bridge, Conn. Several descendants of the Gaylord's Bridge branch, and also some of Ezra Tibbets' descendants lived in Allegheny Co., N.Y. One of the grandsons of this branch was married in Columbus, Ohio and had descendants, one of whom was John Tibbets who lived at #273 State St., Columbus.

In Allegheny County there was a prominent family named Chamberlain, named for his mother's maiden name and she was a sister of Lyman Tibbets' father).

Lyman Tibbets had children, among whom was a son James Addison Tibbets, died at Belfast, N.Y. in Dec. 1876, records of whose family are given on the following page.
